A noise at the window drew my atten-tion, and I caught the glimpse of a man's head rising slowly above the sill. Taking a deliberate aim, I gave him the contents of one barrel, and he descended much quicker than he came up. What would be the next feature of the programme I could not imagine, but, like a wild beast at bay, I closely watched ev-ery move, and had my ears open to every sound. But I felt that something deci-sive must be done, for day would soon make its appearance, and then they would have the advantage of me.
