ate as a Brigadier General. His nomination has been pending since August last. It is known that he has in the meantime been acting as a Brigadier General of Volunteers in the army of the Potomac. Col. Thomas F. Garret, Aid de Camp to Gen. McClellan, has been accepted by the President, which took effect on the 5th inst.—Major J. W. De Peyster, Jr., of the First New York Artillery, will report to General McClellan.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—The following special correspondence has been received by the Press, of this city:

U. S. Sloop Brooklyn, June 28.—All hands were called early this morning to attack the batteries and city of Vicksburg. The first gun was fired at 1 o'clock. The firing was intense. The Hartford, Richmond, and other gunboats have passed the batteries without silencing them. The Brooklyn has received orders to pass a battery without silencing it; she remains below. Loss, Hartford one man killed and 11 wounded; Richmond a Master Mate killed and 7 wounded.

HARRISBURG, July 9.—Governor Curtin leaves for Washington in the morning to consult the authorities there in relation to the enlistment of volunteers under the late call of the President. We understand it is his intention to advise that the term of enlistment be reduced to one year. The arrangements made by His Excellency for the care of our sick and wounded have been so restrained by the requirements of the Surveyor General of the United States that less has been accomplished for their benefit and relief than was desired and expected. Agents have been dispatched by the Adjutant General's Department to every point where it was believed relief could be afforded, many of whom have been obliged to return, finding it impossible to pass within the lines of the army.

The Governor, we understand, will insist upon the removal of all Pennsylvania sick and wounded within the State, so that the benevolence of our people may be extended to them in our own hospitals, and their friends be permitted to visit and nurse them.

Notwithstanding the restrictive orders that have been issued, State agents have succeeded in establishing themselves in the West, at Frederick, Baltimore, Fortress Monroe, and even at McClellan's headquarters, to remain with and minister to the comfort of our disabled soldiers. These agents, to their credit be it said, have not thus far charged one cent for their very valuable services, and the State has consequently incurred no expense other than that necessarily contracted while traveling, and money expended in relieving the wants of the wounded and sick.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The correspondence between the War Department and General McClellan was to-day transmitted to the House in response to a resolution of inquiry. The latter says, in the course of his explanations, those who have originated the false statements concerning the White House yard and spring are, in fact, as stated in my dispatch of the 7th inst., enemies of this army and the cause in which it is fighting. They have imposed upon the Surgeon General and caused him to make official representatious which, on examination, prove to be unfounded in fact, and which are disrespectful to his superior officer. They have unnecessarily occupied the attention of the Secretary of War and have interrupted the Commander and the Medical Director of this army in the midst of their most arduous duties.

The recently published dispatch from Capt. Craven to Com. Farragut, mentioned the preparation of the rebels to annoy our fleet by a battery in the vicinity of Ellis' Cliffs, and Rodney. Miss. Acting Master Crocket communicates particulars of an encounter on the morning of the 26th, when he says we were attacked by a battery, apparently of two or four six pounders, concealed in a thicket under the bluff. Their first shot, from a distance of not more than two hundred yards, took effect in the Sarah Bruin, injuring two of her crew severely. Three other shots, fired at almost the same distance, fell short, when a round of grape from Sarah Bruin and a shell from Kensington, which dropped with great accuracy into the midst of the smoke of their guns, silencing them completely. Both the Sarah Bruin and Kensington, together with the riflemen from all the vessels, continued firing till the Curoe around the town brought them out of range, and enabled the Horace Beals to open fire with her battery, which she did with great animation, and the thicket was shelled until all the vessels were out of range.

A Bloody Riot among the Stevedores at Toledo.

TOLEDO, O., July 8, 1862.—A riot has been going on here to-day between the Irish and negro stevedores. The Irish struck and were discharged, and negroes employed at old prices. The riot commenced at the dock, where the propellor New York, of the Erie Line, was loading. It soon spread to all the docks.

The Irish tried to prevent the negroes from working, attacking them with stones, clubs, etc The negroes, in defense, drew knives and pistols, and considerable shooting and stabbing was done.

A bystander was killed, and many of the participants injured. Several of the houses belonging to negroes were demolished. Citizens were called out to quell the riot, and are patrolling the streets with arms, arresting rioters.—Cin. Com.

A Band of Patriotic Brothers.

Among the many examples of courage and devotion to the country which have characterized the desperate conflicts on the Peninsula, honorable mention should be made of the McKibbins, of this city. Three brothers—sons of Mr. Chambers McKibben—bravely fought for the old flag and bore themselves with distinguished gallantry in the recent battles near Richmond, which so severely tested the courage and endurance of our troops. Lieutenant-Colonel David C. McKibben, of the Fourteenth United Stetes Infantry, was, after the fall of the senior officer, second in command of the regiment, and was noted for his bravery and coolness throughout the several conflicts with the enemy. His brother, Captain Robert McKibben, attached to the Fourth United States Infantry, fought with equal bravery. The youngest brother, Chambers, who is a minor and was engaged as a sutler, fired with the spirit of a hero, seized a musket and went into the battle with the Fourteenth Regiment. After five hours' hard fighting, he received a severe wound in the face, and, being unable to walk on account of the shock and loss of blood, laid on the field all night, narrowly escaping capture by the enemy the next morning. A fourth brother is on the staff of General Halleck, in the South-west. Excepting the noble family of McCooks, we know of no other which presents such an example of patriotism as this, and it should be recorded and remembered to their honor.—Phila. Inquirer.

Pennsylvania Surgeons.

Among the recent medical changes in the Pennsylvania volunteers, is the appointment of Surgeon Wilson as Medical Director of Harrisburg and Reading. He will reside in Harrisburg, and visit the hospital in Reading twice a week. Assistant Surgeons E. W. Ross and Jas. Lowe have been detailed for duty at Reading. Dr. David Newcomer, of Chambersburg, has been appointed Assistant Surgeon of the Twenty-sixth regiment, and Dr. J. B. Beshler, of Dauphin county, Assistant Surgeon of the Eighty-first.

Pennsylvania Soldiers' Relief Association.

At a meeting of this body, in New York City, on Monday last, it was stated that some 500 sick and wounded Pennsylvanians had been cared for by the Association. Of this number, 268 have been sent to their homes, 50 are at the Park Barracks, 74 at David's Island, 29 at the Ladies' Hospital, 2 at the Jews' Hospital, 17 at Bedloe's Island, 13 at the City Hospital, and 40 in the hospital at Albany, N Y. Mr. George Birkbeck, of the Jersey City Fulton Foundry, had tendered employment to all discharged Pennsylvania volunteers.

Death of a Judge.

Charles W. Hegins, President Judge of the courts of Schuylkill county, died at Sunbury, Pa., last week, of dropsy. He was forty-eight years old, and was a native of Northumberland county. The first public position he held was as a member of the Legislature. Subsequently he was Clerk of the State Senate for several years. In 1851 he was elected President Judge of the Schuylkill Judicial District, and served ten years. In 1861 he was re-elected to that office.

Dr. Plumer's Church.

The Presbytery of Allegheny met on Tuesday at Sewickly, when the committee appointed at the last meeting to reconcile, if possible, the differences in Dr. Plumer's congregation, made their report, briefly as follows:

1. It was recommended that Dr. Plumer resign his pastoral relation with the church; or, if that were deemed inexpedient, 2. To accept the proposition of the "Church" party to reimburse the memorialists to the amount contributed by them from all pending pecuniary obligations, as a settlement of the case.

After a long discussion, the first alternative was negatived by the casting vote of the Moderator, Rev. David Cunningham. After a recess and another protracted debate, the simple endowment of the financial plan proposed in the second alternative was adopted, and the Presbytery adjourned after passing a series of loyal resolutions.

New Books.

Messrs. J. B. Lippincott & Co., of Philadelphia, have recently issued a book which will be invaluable to the farmer, the country gentleman, the sporting man, and many others, viz: "The Illustrated Horse Doctor," by Edward Mayhew. It gives detailed accounts of the various diseases to which the equine race are subjected, divided according to the organs, with the latest modes of treatment, and all necessary prescriptions, written in plain English. It is illustrated with more than four hundred engravings, and contains much information that would be long sought for elsewhere fruitlessly. We commend the work, after thorough examination, to all having any control of horses, as its possession may save the life or usefulness of a valuable animal. It can be had of Kay & Co., Wood street.

Next we have, from the same house, a book of travels, "North America; by Anthony Trollope," who has already given us "The West Indies and the Spanish Main." It is a readable and interesting book, charmingly written and very attractive in a literary point of view. The writer certainly chose an unfortunate time for seeing our country—or rather the part of it which the rebellion permitted him to pass through—but he saw Pittsburgh, and his comments are anything but complimentary, either to the city or State, which latter, he says, "does not, in my mind, stand on a par with Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, Illinois or Virginia." We have the privilege of differing with him and leave our readers to judge for themselves of the work, should they read it.—Kay & Co. also have this book for sale.

Messrs. Dick & Fitzgerald, of New York, are constantly making additions to the current light literature of the day. Their last publication is a fifty cent novel entitled "Barren Honour," by the author of "Guy Livingstone," and "Sword and Gown." It is a well written domestic novel, and full of incidents which cannot fail to interest the reader. It must meet with a ready sale.

The same house has also issued another novel by Anthony Trollope, whose "Bertram," "Warden" and "Doctor Thorne" have won for him a fair reputation. The present work, in two volumes of the neat hand and pocket library of the publishers, is called "Barchester Towers." We have not found time to peruse it, but the chapter titles, dialogues and descriptive paragraphs seem quite attractive, and the story is doubtless very interesting. Both of these books can be had at Henry Miner's, Fifth street.

Beadle & Co. have commenced a dime series of American Battles, the first number of which is just out. It contains detailed accounts of the battle of Pittsburg Landing and the siege of Corinth. Henry Miner, Fifth street, has it for sale.

Relief Meeting.

The citizens of Duquesne borough recently appointed a meeting for Monday evening, to collect funds and hospital supplies for wounded soldiers. A committee of six ladies were appointed, and on Tuesday evening they reported the following: Cash, $80.50—$20 more having been subscribed but not yet paid in. A large wagon load of necessaries had also been donated by the citizens. A sewing society was organized to provide suitable articles of wearing apparel.

Sunday Train on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

In accordance with the petition of a number of residents along the line of the Pennsylvania Railroad, between this city and Wall's Station, the company have determined to run an extra train on Sundays, for the accommodation of those wishing to attend church in the city. The train will arrive here at 10:15 a. m., and return at 1 p. m. This arrangement will be very satisfactory to the people on the line, who have long felt the want of such an accommodation.

Safe.

A gentleman, who left Virginia on Monday, saw Col. Childs of the Fourth Cavalry and Capt. John P. Glass, of the Excelsior Brigade, both safe and in good health. The many friends of these gentlemen reported killed and captured respectively, will be glad to hear this. Capt. Glass stated that the Pittsburgh companies in his regiment had been but slightly engaged and had suffered only a little.

Prof. McCoy's Oration.

By advertisement in another place it will be observed that Prof. Amasa McCoy will this evening repeat his lecture on the views of the London Times on the Rebellion, at Masonic Hall. It is said to be a brilliant oration, and it will be delivered with great power. It has made for Prof. McCoy a wide reputation throughout the land. It promises to be well attended.

Something for the Season.

In these hot, sultry days we are striving with wonderful unanimity to keep cool. As much may be accomplished toward this end by calling at Fleming's, No. 139 Wood street, and obtaining one of his wonderfully light and cheap gossamer Monitors or ounce hats, as in any other way, and probably at as small an expense.

Death of Lieut. Burley.

Lieut. George W. Burley, of the 110th Regiment, P. V., son of Mr. John Burley, of Altoona, died in Washington City, on the 26th ult., of typhoid fever. Lieut. B. participated in the battles at Winchester and Front Royal, in which he distinguished himself as a brave and gallant officer.

No Bonus.

Mr. James Hammill, to whom we referred in yesterday's issue, called on us to say that the Bostonians offered him no premium or bonus to leave his prize-purse there, and expressed no such desire. His treatment while in that city was very kind, and the visit gave him a high opinion of the hospitality of its citizens.

Carncross and Dixey's Minstrels give their last concert to-night and offer a side-splitting bill on the occasion. Those who want to see a first class entertainment should not neglect this last opportunity.

OBITUARY.

DIED Monday, July 7, 1862, JOHN OBBY, aged 21 years.

MESSRS. EDITORS:

The above contains the proper and customary notice to the public of the deceased; a fellow citizen, and is sufficient for that purpose. But the writer of this desires to pay a slight tribute to the memory of a dear friend.

The subject of this notice was a young man possessing qualities rarely exercised by youth. With a kind and genial heart, regulated by the purest sense of honor and integrity, he combined a disposition so amiable as to attract attention and esteem on the most trivial acquaintance. In every relation of life he was conscientious, affectionate and dutiful son, a true, warm-hearted friend, an exemplary and upright citizen. Though cut down on the very threshold of life (for he had scarcely yet attained the years of manhood) though his path through life had been trodden with such a modest and unassuming step as to attract the attention of but a small circle of associates beyond his immediate friends and relatives, yet I will venture to say that no person of his age in the community possessed more real and sincere friends in the interest deceased.

None knew him but to love him,
None named him but to praise.

And had it pleased the All-Wise Disposer of events to have it permitted, he gave every promise to become an ornament to society and an honor to his friends. But Providence has otherwise decreed; and we, though we weep and mourn, we may mourn not as those who have no hope. Sympathy and affection may water the graves of those taken, it will fall on none more worthy of such tribute than the grave of Sonny Obby.
