CITY AND NEIGHBORHOOD INTELLIGENCE.

Col. R. Biddle Roberts. A correspondent of the New York Times, writing from Fortress Monroe, thus speaks of a Pittsburgh officer who has done good service in the recent battles near Richservice in the recent battles near Richmond:

"I had the pleasure of meeting Col. R.
Biddle Roberts yesterday, and of hearing from him some interesting accounts of the gallantry of our men in the several fights of Thursday, Friday and Monday, in which is advided by the property of the of Thursday, Friday and Monday, in which he individually took an active part. He engaged the enemy at Mechanicsville on Thursday, fought until night, and slept upon the field. Next morning he retreated, under orders, and was engaged again on the field. Next morning he retreated, under orders, and was engaged again on the field. It is not the field of the under orders, and was engaged again on Friday afternoon, when he came up to the relief of Duryee's men, and, as he said, "avenged them well." He then crossed the Chickahominy, and was engaged again on Monday, supporting Cooper's battery, which was lost and retaken twice, when relieved by the gallant Meagher, the enerelieved by the gallant Meagher, the enemy's colors being carried off, after terrible punishment. Col. Roberts—who was once Provost Marshal of Washington—is returning home for a little relaxation after his arduous duties. He appears to be as much a favorite with his command as with all who come in contact with him."
