In regard to Bronchitia, Asthma, Consumption, diseases when are so fatally interesting to a large portion of mankind, and evidently on the inocease in the United States of America; it is desirable that currect ideas should exist so far as the present advanced condition of medical science can furnish thom.

We know that in all diseases a timely amplication of rational remedies is more than half the battle, and the aphorism which te-che-that prevention is better than a cure, applies with recuisar force to the case of cure, applies with recuisar force to the case of cure applies with recuisar force to the case of cure applies with recuisar force to the case of cure applies with recuisar force to the sablished, rarely, if ever, gives way, even in the most skulful treatment and the most scullous care.

Let all, therefore, who have reason to apprehend the evidence of the seeds of the disease (acrofulous districts) in the melves or their onlidera, not fail to obtain such salutary advice, with reference to the regulation of their diet and the preservation of their health, as my long experience enables me to give them.
