

The Merrimac as it was. The Constitution as it is.

Democrat State Ticket. AUDITOR GENERAL, ISAAC SLENNER, Union County.

SURVEYOR GENERAL, JAMES F. BARR, Allegheny County. MONDAY MORNING, AUGUST 4.

ADDRESS OF THE DEMOCRATIC STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE.

We direct the attention of the reader to the able and candid address of the Democratic State Central Committee, published in this morning's paper.

CHEAP PATRIOTISM. The Pittsburgh Gazette of Saturday, alluding to the volunteer subscriptions of some of our citizens indignantly remarks: 'Men immensely wealthy, whose wealth depends altogether on the permanence of the Government, and who have made their fortunes in Pittsburgh, have given but little compared to their means, or have not given anything.'

There are men who are now counting money from Government contracts whose subscriptions are a disgrace to them. This extract is burdened with truth, but we are surprised that our neighbor has been fifteen months finding out that we have such individuals as it alludes to among us.

Fifteen months, when every one's heart and pulse beat rapidly, caused by the summons of the Government to its citizens to guard their capital from invasion, these solid-blooded and lily-livered persons established their utter want of decency, as well as patriotism.

Some of the contractors, who have made fortunes out of the war, are the most contemptible set of all. These fellows would contribute something to get rid of one who had genius enough to bring the rebellion to a close.

George W. Julian, member of Congress from Indiana, is out in a card in the Cincinnati Commercial, denying that he is opposing the war policy of the Administration; on the contrary, he is supporting it, and attributes the report to an 'unscrupulous combination' in his district.

LATEST NEWS BY TELEGRAPH. FROM THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

THE NEW REBEL MERRIMAC. A Naval Battle in Prospect.

The Rebels at Turkey Bend.

PHILADELPHIA, August 2.—The following is from the Times' correspondent with the army of the Potomac: ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, THURSDAY, JULY 31, 1862.—At about noon yesterday a Signal Officer descried two suspicious looking craft moving down the James river towards Turkey Bend. When off that point the craft stopped and dropped anchor. It is understood and generally believed that one of the vessels is the Merrimac, called the Richmond. The name of the other is thought to be the Young America. Intelligence of their appearance was immediately communicated to Flag officer Wilkes, who promptly issued orders for a number of first class gun boats to run up the stream as far as Light House Point, which is just below City Point.

The Monitor and Galena are already in that part of the river. The Monitor was ordered to proceed slowly up the side, and reconnoiter the banks on each side, and approach to within a certain distance of the Richmond, but no light took place between her and the rebel vessel.

Yesterday a combined naval and balloon reconnaissance, under the supervision of Capt. Jenkins of the steam sloop Wachusett was made down the James river. The set was made down the James river. The set was made down the James river.

The mail boat proceeded to Fort Monroe yesterday. No one doubts that the branch railroad has been discovered and is being used by the rebels for conveying food for transportation on the river. Not a few enter an opinion that we shall make up some morning and discover the woods directly opposite the rebel's cut down and a formidable earth-work exposed to a view.

It is thought that the motive of the rebels in this action was to draw the Federal gunboats—the Merrimac and others—pass out. The rebels, it is estimated, this morning sentered a force of about 1,500 men, and some lodged in the masts of vessels. All that is known of the fate of the rebels is that they fled this morning from the trees where they had their camp, presenting a shattered appearance, many being cut and some more about the new Merrimac than has been already reported, and heard nothing to contradict the statements already published. There was one Federal gunboat on the river, which opened fire immediately on the entrance, but they did not appear to notice it, as they were so intent on their escape.

PHILADELPHIA, August 2.—A letter to the Press dated July 29th from the U. S. Army, below Vicksburg, after describing the attack on the Merrimac, says: 'We have the river, but must have troops to hold it. The September rains will soon be upon us, and after that the fever is gone, and the land is healthy. At present the heat is intense and troops suffer. A few weeks and all the land is dry. The river is falling rapidly.'

THE VERY LATEST TELEGRAPH. From Memphis.

Conference of the Rebel Military Leaders.

THE MERRIMAC MOMENTARILY EXPECTED.

From Fort Monroe. LATER FROM McCLELLAN'S ARMY. The Notorious Rebel Spy Belle Boyd Captured.

MEMPHIS, July 20.—The Bulletin of this morning has the following from authentic sources, among the most interesting subjects to the proceedings of the rebels: We have some inkling of the objects of all the conferences of all the rebel military leaders, held in the city of Memphis on the 4th and 5th insts. It is understood that they came to the conclusion that they must lose the river. The defensive policy was openly attacked, and both Lee and Beauregard attacked, and both Lee and Beauregard attacked, and both Lee and Beauregard attacked.

LOUISVILLE, August 2.—The stern-wheel steamer Commodore Perry, with a heavy cargo of cotton and tobacco from Cumberland river to Cincinnati, collapsed a fire while the passengers were at supper, at the foot of Fifth street, and immediately afterwards took fire. Several women jumped overboard, some of whom were saved, and probably one or two killed. The books and papers of the boat were lost, but the money saved. The boat was owned by Pittsburgh, and insured. About 30 lives were on board.
