Governor Curtin's mission to Washington has proved entirely successful, as the additional regulation for the enrollment and draft of the militia which has just been issued will show.

The Schuylkill was selected as neutral ground, and the men began early in the week to practice and become familiar with the river. Ward and his party went to the Falls House, and Hammill and friends found accommodations at the Belmont Cottage. As the day apprachad for the Cottage. Banquet.

On Wednesday evening last at "Our not been made. House," Diamond alley, was given a sumptous banquet, by the employees of the extous banquet, by the employees of the extensive trimming and notion house of Eaton, Macrum & Co., to three of their fellow-clerks, who have volunteered for the war in the Sumner Infantry, under Captain Seibert: Messrs. Mark Kurtz, Clem. Elben and Hezlep Powers. The arrangements were made in the most liberal style, and the affair was at once both splendid and sumptuous, all the guests enjoying themselves to the top of their bent. The usual amount of toast-drinking, speechmaking and music was indulged in, and several private presentations were made during the evening. The gentlemen in whose honor the banquet was given are teem so willingly bestowed upon them by their late associates; and we trust that they may at all times reflect credit upon themselves and their friends, and that they may find as warm admirers in the ranks of the company as they leave in the street of the company as they leave in the street of the company as they leave in the street of their late.

Gane Back.

Capt. J. K. Barbour, of the Ninth Reserves, who received a severe wound in the hand at Gaines' Hill, disabling three fingers, left last evening to resume his duties in the field—accompanied by Capt. J. B. Barbour, Chief of the Commissariat with Col. Samuel McKelvy, of General Heintzelman's corps, who has also been home recruiting his health. Both go back much improved in general health and appearance.

The well-known swindler of Allegheny, George Thompson, was arrested yesterday and forced to diagorge 55 which he obtained from Dr. Scroggs, by representing himself as a recruiting officer, in which guise he has procured various small sums from patriotic citizens.

After a taise start, occasioned by some misunderstanding, the gun was fired for another start. Hammill, pulling a short, quick stroke, soon took the lead, and then lengthening the stroke settled down to the work of keeping ahead. Ward pulled off with his long, sweeping stroke, and kept well up with his opponent until they reached the hend. Here Hammill shot ahead, and left Wardabont a boat's length legal and technical investigations, on evidence, if need be, and a surgeon, who will make examinations of the physical condition of would-be exempts. In this way it is hoped and believed that all able bodied men between the required ages, not legally exempt, will be brought under the operation of the draft, should there be one.
