An Editorial Brutus.

An editor out West thus talks to his non-paying subscribers and patrons:—"Hear us for our debts, and get ready that you may pay; trust us, we are in need, and have regard for our need, as you have been long trusted: acknowledge your indebtedness, and dive into your pockets, that you may promptly fork over. If there be any one among you, one single patron, that don't owe us something, then to him we say step aside: consider yourself a gentleman. If the rest wish to know why we dun them, this is our answer: not that we care about ourselves, but our creditors do. Would you rather that we went to jail, and you go free, than you pay your debts to keep us moving? As we agreed, we have worked for you; as we contracted, we have furnished our paper to you: but as you don't pay, we dun you. Here are agreements for job work, contracts for subscription, promises for long credit, and duns for deferred payment. Who is there so green that he dont take a paper? If any, he need not speak, for we don't mean him. Who is there so green that he dont advertise? If any, let him slide: he ain't the chap neither. Who is there so mean that he don't pay the printer? If any, let him show, for he's the man we're after. His name is Legion and he's owing us for one, two, three, four, five, six years—long enough to make us poor and him rich at our expense."

Mrs. Partington Again.

"Do you think people are troubled as much with flea bottomary now, doctor, as they used to be before they discovered the anti-bug bedstead?" asked Mrs Partington of a doctor at the old school who attended the family where she was staying.—"Phlebotomy, madam," said the doctor gravely, "is a remedy, not a disease."—"Well, well," replied she "no wonder one gets 'em mixed up, there is so many of 'em. We never heard in old times of trousers in the throat, or embargoes in the head, or measles in the conscience, or consternation in the bowels, as we do now a days. But it's all in what they don't know nobody good, and the doctors flourish on it like a green salve tree. But of course they don't have anything to do with it they can't make 'em come or go."

Cresson Springs, Cambria Co., Pa.

THIS DELIGHTFUL AND POPULAR place of summer resort, located directly on the line of the Pennsylvania Railroad, on the summit of the Allegheny Mountains, 2,200 feet above the level of the ocean, will be open for guests from the 10th of June till the 10th of October. The last season the grounds have been greatly improved and beautified, and a number of Cottages erected for the accommodation of families, rendering Cresson one of the most romantic and attractive places in the State. The fare and attendance have been unexceptionable. The seeker of pleasure, and the sufferer from heat and disease, will find attractions here in a first class livery stable, Billiard Tables, Tenpin Alleys, Baths, (of the celebrated Spring water,) and water, and the most magnificent mountain scenery to be found in the country.

Tickets, good for the round trip from Philadelphia, $7 60; from Pittsburgh, $4 05.
