"NOTHING IN A NAME." It is amusing to observe the shifts and expedients to which the tattered and begarly opposition to the Democracy in Penn sylvania are driven. The wretched political lazaroni even deny the name. Like a piratical craft they sail under false colors and for the same purposes. In Philadelphia they call themselves "Union men," with the expectation of fooling some who are opposed to their Abolition designs in the middle counties they style themselves the "People's Party" in order to gammon some who used to belong to the tionism is in the ascendant they stick to the name of Republican. But with these political marauders there is nothing in a name. Give them power and they are content; line their sleeves and we may cell them what we please.

Tribunc, an echo of its New York name sake, seems quite nervous about this matter, and calls for a convention of editors and publishers to take some action upon content; line their sleeves and we may cell them what we please.
