

The Union as it was: The Constitution as it is. TUESDAY MORNING, SEPT. 9.

Our leading matter on every page.

"SINK PARTY POLITICS—NO PARTY NOMINATIONS."

This and similar phrases, are much used just now to discourage any discussion of the course of the National Administration. Into their hands, all citizens, and especially all Democrats are asked, without any word of question, to confine all public trusts—every political idea—the entire military and financial business of the country. No candidates are to be set up for any office except those placed in the field by the Republicans—thus making elections as much a matter of empty form as was the selection, by vote, of Louis Napoleon, for President of the French nation.

As far as the exigencies of the war are concerned, the Democrats have, thus far, rendered unconditional loyalty to the administration. They have yielded their voice, their money, and their blood, without stint and without hesitation—making no terms—asking no guarantees—the end that the Constitution and the Law may be enforced over the whole Union. And Democrats will do their whole to the end.

But more than this is required at our hands. Not only are we asked to give our unshaking and cheerful support to the Government—but we are asked, nay, we are warned not to presume to undertake the withdrawal of power from the hands which now wield it. We are admonished that there is no better way to administer the Government than that adopted by our present rulers, and, under pain of being denounced as disloyal, we are told that we must not seek to change the present administration of the Government, even to the breadth of a hair!

If Democrats, as a body, are loyal men—and no sane, honest man can doubt it—and Mr. Howard, who is surely good entitled to all the immunities of loyal men—have the right to discuss public affairs and to vote upon them according to their consciences. If they are expected to waive these precious privileges, even for a day or an hour, some good reason, some worthy motive for so doing should be assigned and held out. Let us see what is offered in return for what is denied.

Last year Democrats were invited to forego party nominations and to join in the support of "Union Tickets." As any citizen bearing the name of "Union" is grateful to Democratic ears, we accepted the proffer in this and many other States, and in this country particularly. And what was the result? In Pennsylvania, where the regular Republican party was saved from overthrow by the hollow truce of the "Union Tickets," the moment the Legislature met party lines were drawn as taut as ever. Republican nominations for Speaker, for Treasurer were promptly made and persistently carried. Men elected by the trusting confidence of Democratic voters, forgetting, either through fear or corruption, how they were elected to office, joined in the extreme measures of the most bigoted Republicans. Thus we see, at the present moment, the "Union Ticket," so ardently put forth by our veterans, who broke faith with us, as they always do.

But if the organs of the Administration ask us to give them our confidence—ask us to let them remain in Congress, and in all departments of the Administration, they should, in return, show that they have confidence in us. Their presses, their organs, their talkers, present to all their accepted organs of opinion should declare that they have faith in us as reliable supporters of the Government and the laws. Have they done this? Let any man read his country paper, or the speeches of local leaders, and answer this question. So far from awarding us the simple credit to which our constant, honest support of the Government is entitled, we are denounced, on all occasions and in all places where it is entirely safe to do so. Yet we stand shoulder to shoulder with the most favored of our political enemies in every effort to sustain the Administration.

SOUTHERN NEWS.

The Assassination of General McCook.

From the Jackson Mississippiian. Late intelligence informs us that Gen. McCook was shot dead by guerrillas. We hope sincerely it is true, for this is the man who, possessing a little brief authority at Nashville, displayed every element of small, petty tyranny. He it was who caused the arrest of Southern ministers, and made the most brutal records in the prolific annals of Yankee infamy—threatening all manner of punishment to the South. "If," said this modern imitator of the inhuman Alca, "we cannot subdue you, we shall kill you. The Union shall be restored, if the Southern people have to be exterminated and the national flag float over their bones." He has met his fate! Who shall say it is not just retribution.

(From the Grenada Appeal.) The entire press of the North has raised a howl of indignation against McCook, and is engaged in endeavoring to excite the prejudices of the people, in consequence thereof, to the highest pitch. The fact is, however, that the greatest injury to the cause of the Union, is not the death of any one man, but the death of any one man who, as McCook was, is a man of high standing, and who, as McCook was, is a man of high standing, and who, as McCook was, is a man of high standing.

Col. Pluck Forney. Mr. Forney—As you are showing up the conduct of the ingrate and turn-coat Forney, who, as Byron said of Scabney, "would not only turn his coat but his skin for office," the following is certainly true to Nature, and whoever wrote it had J. Wagtail Forney in his eye. The picture is life-like, and worthy of an "old master." Read it, look at it, scan it all over.

FROM NEW ORLEANS. Guerrillas in Force near Algiers. Baton Rouge in Possession of our Cannon. Attack on Carrollton Exploited.

From the New York Express, Sept. 9. By the arrival of the United States steam transport Fulton, from New Orleans, we have the following important intelligence, furnished us by several of the passengers: The recent order of General Butler to the citizens to deliver up their arms to the military authorities has been evaded in thousands of places by rebels, who have hid their pieces in different parts of the city, with, apparently, the intention to use them in favor of the rebels when they should attack our army. Not one tenth of the arms known to be in possession of these men have been delivered. They are, however, matched with a host of guerrillas, and, under the strict surveillance, they cannot effect the combinations necessary to strengthen or make important their disloyal designs.

Guerrillas have appeared in force a short distance from Algiers. It is stated that the guerrillas come into that town in disguise, and it is well known that the people in the neighborhood are in league with them, or at least sympathetic with their movement. This report will appear self-evident, when it is known that these outlaws commit few, if any, depredations of property of the people on this route.

Three days before the steamer left Gen. Butler dispatched a company of soldiers to make a reconnaissance beyond Algiers. The troops left early in the train, and after proceeding a short distance rebel pickets were seen advancing. The train stopped, and the troops alighted, and an advance party was ordered to feel their way. While engaged in this work a large force of guerrillas rushed from the woods, where they were previously imperceptible, and fired, killing and wounding our pickets. Then another volley came, and subsequently the greater part of our troops were wounded, and the train was captured.

One of the rebels having spied a man on the train, instantly discharged his piece and killed him, in the hope of capturing the party. In this effort, however, he was happily foiled. The rebels, it is said, soon afterwards retired to the woods, apparently under the impression that the company were only the advance guard of a regiment approaching—leaving the train to the mercy of the guerrillas. Baton Rouge, although evacuated by the main body of soldiers, is still in possession of a company of marines, under the protection of two gunboats, which are to be changed every seven days. The city has not been destroyed. Only a few houses, about twenty in number, which intercept the range of our fortifications on the interior, have been destroyed.

LATEST FROM EUROPE.

Washington, Sept. 7.—The intelligence received last night, and additionally confirmed this morning, of the occupation of Frederick City, Md., by the rebel forces, naturally excited much surprise, mingled with indignation and alarm. Frederick is about sixty miles from Baltimore by the railroad line, and forty overland from Washington by way of Rockville, Darnestown and Poolesville, Md. There are but limited opportunities here of obtaining information from that point, almost all the intelligence coming by way of Baltimore. The Government authorities received the news yesterday, in a written or documentary form.

During last night immense bodies of troops were in motion for the upper Potomac and elsewhere, and to-day the military operations continue. Nearly all the rebel troops have apparently been withdrawn from our front, certainly none in large force remain. Their next movement is a matter of conjecture, but precautions have been taken to guard in certain quarters against probable dangers by them.

It is no doubt that the large reinforcements of rebels were yesterday passing from Ashby Gap, South of Leesburg, and that they are now in the vicinity of the town of Frederick, which is between Point of Rocks and Edward's Ferry. The rebels were in solid ranks, and in the next instance, they are expected to cross at Snicker's Ferry, and there again are followed in the same order by similar descriptions of troops.

Every day, as well as every indication from the North, serves to impress upon us not only the importance, but the absolute necessity, of a more energetic and efficient of our armies, and the reposition of our lost ground, before the force of our enemy shall be spent in the vain endeavoring power by the new levies.

As yet our people have only had a foretaste of the horrors and miseries which are yet in store for them if the Yankees, in redoubled force, are permitted to march into and infect our country. They are sick with the fever, and a Spanish war steamer is to be sent to prevent our commerce from being cut off by the capture of the vessel.

Washington, Sept. 8.—A letter from our Consul at Matanzas states that the private steamer "Pinar del Rio," from the port of August 18th, also, that the vessel is in the hands of the rebels, and a Spanish war steamer is to be sent to prevent our commerce from being cut off by the capture of the vessel.

Washington, Sept. 8.—A Federal gunboat came down from City Point yesterday and reports all quiet, no rebel pickets being seen. A marine corps martial is to convene at Norfolk to-day for the trial of Lieut. Smalley, of the marine corps.

Baltimore, Sept. 8.—The Hilton correspondent of the American says that a large steamer, supposed to be the "New York," attempted to run out of Savannah on the night of the 30th ult., when she got aground, and was abandoned and burned by the crew.
