TUESDAY MORNING, SEPT. 16. 43 Reading matter on every page.

MEETING OF THE DEMOCRATIC STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE—THE Democrate State Central Committee will meet at the SAINT CHARLES HOTEL, in the city of Pit'sburgh, on Tuesday, S-ptember 23d, 1862, at 4 o'clock p. m. of said day. Afull attendance of the Committee is carnestly requested. F. W. BUGHE-3, Chairman, ATTEST-GEORGE DE B. KEIM, ROBERT

A GLORIOUS VICTORY. We congratulate our readers this morn ing upon the news from our Eastern army published in another column. It will h seen that Mc has opened the ball in splendid style, whipping the great General Lee with terrible alaughter. The details of this important battle will show it to be the most decisive and bloody of the campaign, while its effects, upon all sides. will be most important. The rebels are reported alarmed and demoralized, upon a rapid retreat, while McClellan's army is again buoyant and full of confidence. The tables are turned; the rebels now are on the retreat, and the boasted determination to invade the North is consequently indefinitely postponed.

THE NO PARTY PATRIOTS.

The professions and practices of the Abo litionists and Republicans, in relation to appointments to office, present the broadest burlesque upon truth which has ever come under our observation. Their State and county conventions assemble and pass resolutions, inviting us all to vote their ticket, and they invariably select such canphysicians and commissioners for the coming draft, the most scrupulous care has been taken to exclude all whose political complaining because Democrats have not profession and practice. There never was, even in times of peace, such a regard paid to petty partizan plunder as we have seen for the past sixteen months. And yet, these hungry vultures prate of no party, even while distributing their partizan slices among themselves.—

We dare say that in nearly every should be should be should not help saying to myself, if this is wiser and better for me not to tell it to you. Whatever I may have done, whatever the sense of injustice done me, I am fully satisfied that this is no occasion show very plainly their indigent condition, while many of them we know to have seen prosperous and joyous days. These men are cripples for life, made such by service in the field; they have confronted the rebels and have demonstrated their right to their country's gratitade, not by blatant professions upon our street corners, but by the performance of gallant deeds. Why the performance of gallant deeds. Why could not Abolitionism, in its late distribution of small offices throughout the State, have demonstrated its gratitude to these returned soldiers by giving them a small proportion of them at least? Why not, after passing their resolutions about "no party," select some of these wounded soldiers for assessors and collectors of taxes. Why didn't Gen. Moorhead, who was educated at the tanner's bench and would could not Abolitionism, in its late districreate the impression that there is some unkindness or difference of opinion becated at the tanner's bench and would have us believe that he consequently sympathizes with the working classes, think of these returned soldiers when he made out his list of appointments for this district? Does he and his Abolition partizans imagine that noisy and frothy profession for the people and our volunteers are likely to blind the masses to their partizan schemes? If they do they are mistaken; the masses of all parties here see and feel the masses of the proscription which land, which were given with a will.

In that debate, Lord John Russell "offered a high tribute of praise to Mr. assembly. O'Connell," to whose exertions, and that of his friends, it was owing that there had been no bloodshed at the suppression of "the monster meetings," and Lord Macauley said that it was a matter which, of itself, deserved investigation by a commit-tee of Parliament, "that a great country, with so many natural advantages as Ireland, and with a population amounting to more than one fourth of the whole people of the empire, should, at this day, be governed not be love but be fear. not by love but by force.
