Terrible Disaster at Shanghai.

On the 19th of June an American steamer, the Union Star, made a trial trip to Woosung from Shanghai, on the occasion of her arrival from San Francisco. About twenty five visitors availed themselves of the invitation, making, together with the captain and crew, about forty persons. After steaming down the river two or three miles it was thought that she was not going at sufficient speed, which caused the engineer in charge to leap into the furnace room to see what was the matter. In three or four minutes afterwards the boiler burst up through the cabin and deck of the vessel with a tremendous crash, turning a complete somersault, driving some of the people into the air, burying others under the wreck, and wounding and scalding several so severely that they died shortly afterwards. The number of lives lost from this sad catastrophe is sixteen, comprising eight Americans, one Englishman and six Chinese; with four foreigners and five Chinese more or less injured: one of the former not expected to recover. The engine was high pressure. The boat was completely wrecked, and the remains were sold for $4,500. Captain Belchen was offered $41,000 for the steamer the day before.

Irish Wit.

At a war meeting in a suburban town the other night, one of the speakers was an Irishman, a recruit, who called upon his fellow countrymen to come forward and enlist, saying that the stout arms of those who had constructed our railroads, dug our canals, and laid the "stone walls" of our building's were wanted by the Government. "In fact," said he, "there is a certain 'Stone wall' in Virginia that sadly needs laying, and by the blessing of God we'll finish up that job forthwith."

Walking Dresses

Plain violet silk dress. The pardessus, which is the principal feature of the costume, consists of a violet silk cape, with a braided collar, and ornamented in a corresponding style round the base, to which is attached a flounce four trimming equal in depth to that of the cape. White straw bonnet, decorated with two tufts of flowers and black lace, and provided with a double curtain. Parisian Cellar.—Le Follet—Fashions.

Grewcock & Fraser, Clarion Co., Pa.

THIS DELIGHTFUL AND POPULAR resort, located directly on the line of the Allegheny Mountains, 2,700 feet above the level of the ocean, will be open for guests from the 10th of June to the 10th of October next. The house and grounds have been recently improved, and a number of Cottages have been erected for the accommodation of visitors, rendering Cresson one of the most delightful and healthy resorts in the state.
