WEDNESDAY MORNING, SEPT. 24

Operations of McCall's Division.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17, 1862.

Colonel H. C. Bunger, of the Seventh Pennsylvania Reserve corps, wounded by a bullet through his right arm and breast, and Col. Gallaher, of the Eleventh Pennsylvania Reserves, wounded in the left arm the latter acting as Brigadier General at the Sunday's fight at the South Mountain, upon which occasion both officers were wounded, arrived in this city last evening, and have afforded the following facts relative to the engagements—

Gen. McCall's division, constituting the right of Gen. Hooker's corps, about four o'clock in the afternoon, formed in line of battle, when within about three-quarters of a mile of the base of South Mountain, and advanced upon the position on the summit of the height, which now commenced shelling the advancing column.—The ground over which they passed was of an undulating character, dotted with groups of forest trees, affording them shelter at times, though the line was not for an instant broken, but steadily the column pressed up the steep ascent, never flinching under the now galling fire of artillery and infantry. At the summit a sharp hand to hand fight ensued, but of short duration, and the enemy were driven from their position in confusion down the opposite side of the mountain, still hotly persued by McCall's men, who made large numbers of them prisoners. The height was occupied that night[illegible] troops. During the engagement [illegible]ent of Hooker's corps the t[illegible] New York Volunteers succeeded in capturing the colors of one of the Louisana regiments.

The New Postage Stamp Currency.

As there is a popular demand for the new postage currency, which far outruns the capacity of the Post office Department to supply, it has corresponded with the President of the engraving company, at New York to the end that the issues may be enlarged by multiplication of plates upon which the notes are printed. It is understood that the company have devised a method by which they anticipate a speedier relief from the [illegible] Secretary Chase. He contemplates using a sort of paper for the [illegible] that will admit of their being used as currency.

Chessel & Fiers, Cambria Co., Pa.

THIN CELLULOID AND POPE[illegible] on the [illegible] summit of the [illegible] feet above the level of the sea, [illegible] commands a view of [illegible] greatly increased [illegible] a number of buildings [illegible] for the accommodation [illegible] Cambria county.
