THURSDAY MORNING, SEPT. 25. THE PRESIDENT'S PROCLA

MATION. The tone of the press on the President' emancipation proclamation is as was to be expected; the radicals of the Tribune school thank God, very fervently, while the conservative papers are in great doubt as to its propriety or efficiency. The President, at all events, acceeded to the pressure of the abolitionists, and we must which is in the Pittsburgh. Fort Wayne only wait to see the effects of their impor-tunities. Taking experience as our guide, we can see nothing resulting from this proclamation but evil to our cause. If this report be true, his change of mind is a most sudden and extraordinary circum stance, but is, doubtless, based upon some good reason whathart decreases and Chicago Railway Company also done the Union soldiers from the border slave

President Lincoln does Pennsylvania, to construct a railroad over strange things and in a very singular and upon the premises and property de scribed in their petition. The Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway Comtion is one of them. If his idea in issuing such a document is to demonstrate its inability to effect what the Abolitionists dead of the constructed and were using, under and in pursuance of their charter and the laws of Pennsylvania and were using and apply and their charter and the laws of Pennsylvania and the control of their charter and the laws of Pennsylvania and the control of their charter and the laws of Pennsylvania and the control of the charter and the laws of Pennsylvania and the control of the charter and the laws of Pennsylvania and the control of the charter and the laws of Pennsylvania and the control of the charter and the laws of Pennsylvania and the control of the charter and the laws of the control of the charter and the laws of the charter and th sire, and what he has declared such an edict could not accomplish, he should which had been appropriated un have reflected that while demonstrating charter, part of which the said petitioner the absurdity of radical conceptions, he now attempt to take and appropriate for the absurdity of radical conceptions, he was, at the same time adding most dan-The charter of the Pittsburgh, Ft. But, no matter what the President's motive may be, he has taken the step which he has all along dreaded, and that which the fanatics all along desired. Upon the first day of the coming new year

Upon the first day of the coming new year his proclamation goes into effect, but we trust that the strong arms of the Union forces may, ere that period arrives, so cripple the rebellion as to cause the rebels for. It was known to those who were intimate with the Judge that he had been lingering for several months; his life, however, was not despaired of till within a very few hours before h s death.

In many respecte Judge Jones was a remarkable man. Besides being a sound practical business man, he was possessed of fine scholastic attainments, and wielded a pen with great facility and power. His reading was varied and his memory remarkable, which rendered his society at all times attractive.

To take away property necessary for the proper conduct of its business, from a railroad company which is in full discharge of the duties for which it was organized, and give it to another railroad company, would be to take away from A and give to B—and would, moreover, be a flagrant breach of good faith towards the first company.

If, however, the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway Company owns lands or rights of way not necessary for the hours before h s death. In many respecte Judge Jones was a
