General McCall.

THE Abolitionists of Chester county with John Hickman at their head, who were praising General McCall to the skies a few weeks ago, and got up a splendid testimonial to him on his return home from captivity in Richmond, are now fiercely denouncing him, and even going so far as to accuse him of "sympathizing with treason." The only reason for this sudden change of tune, is that Gen. McCall has not declined the nomination for Congress that was unanimously tendered him, last week, by the Democratic Convention of Chester county. So, it seems, every one, be he soldier or civilian, is to be publicly branded with disloyalty and treason, who dares to call himself a Democrat, or accepts a Democratic nomination for office; although he may have nobly proved his love for and devotion to the Union, by fighting under its banners, and, like the brave Gen. McCall, suffering wounds and and imprisonment in the Union cause!—Truly, these Republican "no-party" men are the bitterest partizans we have. No truly patriotic citizens would be guilty of abusing a gallant soldier like the commander of the Pennsylvania Reserves on account of his political opinions.

Influence of Sensible Women.

It is a wonderful advantage to a man, in every pursuit or avocation, to secure an adviser in a sensible woman. In woman there is at once a subtle delicacy of tact and a plain soundness of judgment, which are rarely combined to an equal degree in man. A woman, if she be really your friend, will have a sensitive regard for your character honor, reputation. She will seldom counsel to do a cruelly thing, for a woman friend always desires to be proud of you. At the same time her constitutional timidity makes her more cautious than your more brilliant friend. She therefore seldom counsels you to an imprudent thing. By female friendship I mean pure friendship—those in which there is no admixture of the passion of love, except in the married state. A man's best friend is a wife of good sense and good heart, whom he loves and who loves him. If he have that, he need not seek elsewhere; but supposing the married couple must such a desperate, female friendships he must seek have, or his intellect will be without a garden, and there will be an unbroken gap even in the strongest fence. Better and safer, of course, such friendships, when circumstances put the choice out of the question. Middle life has rarely the advantage; youth and old age have. We may have female friendship with those much older than ourselves. Mother-old housekeeper was a great help to his genius; and Montaigne's philosophy, with both a prudent and better character of wisdom the date in which he calls, in Marie De Gournay, an adopted daughter, "certainly beloved by me," says the Horace of essayists, "with more than paternal love, and involved in my solitude and retirement, as one of the best parts of my being." Female friendship is to a man "speculum et dulce decus"—the work sweetener ornament of his existence. To his mental culture it is invaluable without it all his knowledge of books will never give him knowledge of the world. Bulwer.
