DENT LINCOLN. REPLY TO HORACE GREELEY

The President's Policy. WASHINGTON, August 22d, 1862. WASHINGTON, August 22d, 1862.
HON. Honace Greekey—Dear Sir:—I have last received yours of the 19th met., addressed to misself, through the New York Tribune.

If there be in it any statements or assumptions of facts which I may know to be erroneous, I do not now and here controvert them.

If there be any inferences which I may before to be falsely drawn, I do not now and here akeye against them.

If there be perceptible in it an impatient and alctatorial t.ne, I w-iveit in deference to an old friend whose heart I have always supposed to be reastly against them.

undergone a second revolution such as that which is now drenching it in blood.—Our people paid no attention to the warning voices that were so often raised against the threatened usurpation. So protound, was their sleep that one half of them were yet unaware of the livevolution after it had already burst over their heads.

But it is a peculiary of the present times that many of the Southern men who were among the foremostin exhorting the people to prepare for the coming; evil, and most efficient in rodsing them to resistance are now themselves somnolent in regard to the dangers which beset the public liberties at home. They are the foremost in undermining the librty of the press; they are zealous for suppressing habeas corpus, and extremely satisfation in respect to the execution of martial law.
