HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS. From J. Newson Brown, D. D., Editor of the En-cyclopedia of Religious Knowledge. Although nick disposed to favor or recommend patent Medigines in general, through distruct of heir ingredictics and effects. I do this the more readily in regard to Hoofland's German Bitters, prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, of this city, because I was prejudiced against them for many years, under the impression that they were chiefly an alcoholic mixture. I am indebted to my friend Robert Shoemaker, Egg., for the removal of this prejudice by proper ests, and for incouragement to try them which effects, and for incouragement to try them which effects, and for incouragement to try them which effects and income the set for the present year, was fallowed by evident relief, and restoration to a degree of podily and mental vigor which I had not left for its months before, and had almost depaired of reasining. D. G. M. JAGESON-Six—It gave me pleasure, years ago, to give you a certificate, testifyin the German Bitters had done for me. I am ewperfactly cured of all those diseases your edictine professes to cure, viz. Dyspopsis, Chroncand Nervous lebility, disease of the Kidneys, to. The powerful influence it exerts upon Nervous prostration's surprising. I have been consulted frequently in reference to your Bitters, and without hesitation, have recommended it for the above compaints, and in every instance it has effectually cured. Your medicine has a great pout attoin in Gurmantown, and is sold in every large for the first of the Grozery stores here. If any one should question what I say, let them come to Germantown, and I will prove to their satisfaction; that the Bitters have cured in this vicinity more than twenty cases of the above lineases.

It may be contended that the Razor Strop Man was the great original of the princi-ple. It was not altogether likely that he was the first to introduce the style from England, of which country he was a native, but the peaked hat man was the first to feel the public pulse on ailments, and offer his remedy in song and story from the top of a dry goods box.

He was the founder of an order now more numerous than the montebanks of sing a song, sometimes play upon a musical instrument, and quote from Shakspears, if not from the classics.

Thus I remember seeing two of them one evening, mounted upon a rostrum in the market house of an interior town, each of whom had a violin, on which they represent the market house of an interior town, performed until they drawn an immense crowd. They sung comic songs until the sudience fairly screamed with laughter, and I looked every moment for some one to pass round the hat—but instead of this, the one commenced holding forth on the merits of Professor De Timolion's Unrivalled Soap while the other dealt it out at the small consideration of twenty five cents a cake—"merely to pay expenses."

For reveral days in succession he was lecated in one corner of the camp, where he did a thrifty business. At lengtht, however, business fell off.

At this juncture, a chap with a swollen jaw mounted the box, when the Professer manipulated the swollen part with the wonderful medicine, and strange to say, he manipulated the swellen part with the wonderful medicine, and strange to say, he declared himself cured.
