Religion-The Lack of a State Church. Orestes A. Brownson delivered a lecture

n Sunday evening in Bryan Hall, Chica go which was moderately well attended.— He was introduced to the audience by Dr. McMullen, and took as the subject of his pondence between its internal spirit, and in a State of bank notes by associations or its imperfect external manifestation in the fluence of the church upon governmental powers in past ages, and ended his sketch with the declaration, deduced therefrom, that the lack of a State church was fatal to the existence of a political power, and to the existence of a political power, and that the present rebellion was a consequence of that lack, as the American peoduler of that lack, as the American peoduler of Howard's Reports, about, I think, outreligion, civilization could not exist, and it was equally true that, wthout an of ficial recognition of religion, the main spring of obedience to constituted authorities was absent, and a vital blow was aimed at the root of the whole judicial and executive aystem. Yet he did not wish to be understood as decrying the value of political institutions; in fact, without civilization, religion could not meet with its full development. The savage might be converted to the true faith, but the graces of the Christian life could never shine forth with that lustre as from the daily life of the Christian life could never shine forth with that lustre as from the daily life of the Christian life could never shine forth with that lustre as from the daily life of the William who had been educated in and refined by contact with the highest forms of the care of the with the highest forms of the are revelation can be made; only rea-
