MEDICAL.

ENTIRELY VEGETABLE.

NO ALCOHOLIC PREPARATION!

A PURE TONIC MEDICINE.

DR. HOOFLAND'S

CELEBRATED

GERMAN BITTERS

PREPARED BY

DR. C. M. JACKSON, Philadelphia, Penna.,

Will effectually cure

Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA, JAUNDICE,

Chronic, or Nervous Debility, Diseases of the Kidneys, and all Diseases Arising from a Disordered

Liver or Stomach,

such as Constipation, Inward Piles, Fullness or Blood to the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust for Food, Fullness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried and difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or suffocating sensations when in a lying posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or webs before the sight, Fever and Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, &c. Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant imaginings of Evil, and great depression of spirits.

And will positively prevent Yellow Fever, Bilious Fever, &c.

THEY CONTAIN

NEITHER RUM OR BAD WHISKY!

They will cure the above diseases in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred.

Indeed the unparalleled sale and universal popularity of Hoofland's German Bitters, (purely vegetable), hosts of ignorant quacks and unscrupulous adventurers, have opened upon suffering humanity the flood gates of Nostrums in the shape of poor whisky, finely compounded with injurious drugs, and christened Tonics, Stomachics and Bitters.

Beware of the innumerable array of alcoholic preparations in plethoric bottles, and big-bellied cans, under the modest appellation of Bitters; which, instead of curing only aggravates diseases, and leave the disappointed sufferers in despair.

YOU WANT SOMETHING TO STRENGTHEN YOU!

YOU WANT A GOOD APPETITE!

DO YOU WANT TO BUILD UP YOUR CONSTITUTION?

DO YOU WANT TO FEEL WELL?

DO YOU WANT TO GET RID OF NER VOUSNESS!

DO WANT ENERGY?

Do you want to sleep well? Do you want a brisk and vigorous feeling?

DO SO BY USING

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.

From J. Newton Brown, D. D., Editor of the Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge.

Although not disposed to favor or recommend Patent Medicines in general, through distrust of their ingredients and effects I yet know of no sufficient reason why a man may not testify to the benefit he believes himself to have received from any simple preparation in the hope that he may thus contribute to the benefit of others.

I do this the more readily in regard to Hoofland's German Bitters, prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, of this city, because I was prejudiced against them for many years, under the impression that they were chiefly an alcoholic mixture. I am indebted to my friend Robert Shoemaker, Esq., for the removal of this prejudice by proper tests, and for encouragement to try them, when suffering from great and long continued debility.

The use of three bottles of these Bitters, at the beginning of the present year, was followed by evident relief, and restoration to a degree of bodily and mental vigor which I had not felt for ix months before, and had almost despaired of regaining. I therefore thank God and my friend for directing me to the use of them.

J. NEWTON BROWN.

PHILADELPHIA, June 23, 1851.

From the Rev. Joseph H. Kennard, Pastor of the Tenth Baptist Church.

DR. JACKSON—DEAR SIR:—I have been frequently requested to connect my name with commendations of different kinds of medicine, but eschewing the cradle as out of my appropriate sphere, I have in all cases declined; but with a clear proof in various instances, and particularly in my own family, of the usefulness of Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters I depart from my usual course, to express my full conviction that for general debility of the system, and especially Liver Complaint it is a safe and valuable preparation. In some cases it may fail, but usually I doubt not it will be very beneficial to those who suffer from the above causes. Yours very respectfully,

J. H. KENNARD.

Eighth below Coates street, Phila., Dec. 24th.

From the Wife of ALDERMAN WUNDER, Germantown.

GERMANTOWN, June 1, 1861.

DR. C. M. JACKSON—Sir—It gave me pleasure, years ago, to give you a certificate, testifying to the German Bitters had done for me. I am ow perfectly cured of all those diseases your edicine professes to cure, viz: Dyspepsia, Chronic and Nervous debility, disease of the Kidneys, &c. The powerful influence it exerts upon Nervous prostration is surprising. I have been consulted frequently in reference to your Bitters, and without hesitation, have recommended it for the above complaints, and in every instance it has effectually cured. Your medicine has a great re putation in Germantown, and is sold in every Drug Store, and in most of the Grocery stores here. If any one should question what I say, let them come to Germantown, and I will prove to their satisfaction, that the Bitters have cured in this vicinity more than twenty cases of the above diseases.

Respectfully, HANNAH WUNDER,
Main street, above Rittenhouse, Germantown, Penn'a.

JUST THE THING FOR THE SOLDIERS.

Will build up the constitution, and give health and strength to an overwrought and diseased earth.

THE TESTIMONY FROM THE ARMY

PHILADELPHIA, August 12, 1862.

DR. C. M. JACKSON—Dear Sir:—While in Virginia, owing to the change of water, I was taken with a severe diarrhœa, which seemed inconquerable, and which greatly weakened me. When we reached Martinsburg, I feared I should have to go home; but noticing some of your Bitters in the store, Mr. H. H. Price, in that town, I purchased a supply, and continuing it, was speedily restored to health. The diarrhœa was quickly checked, and I experienced no return of it. A number of my comrades, who suffered in the same manner, and from the same cause, with whom I shared the Bitters, joining in this certificate. I expect to return to the seat of war with the Legion, and shall certainly take a supply of the Bitters in my knapsack. I would not be without it if its weight in gold, particularly on going into a sickly region.

Yours, truly,

A. R. ALTEMUS,
Company H, Scott Legion.

DAILY POST.

Negro Colonization.

"The official organ here," says a Washington correspondent, "and many Republicans elsewhere, are engaged in discussing the subject of colonization, the fit points therefor, &c. This course may delude somebody, and, therefore, it should be stated that Mr. Fessenden said in debate, a few days since, that this thing of colonization was altogether out of the question amidst the present oceans of expenditure. In the debate on Saturday upon the Missouri emancipation bill, it was stated by Senator Wilson, of Mass., that where the subject matter of that bill had been discussed in that State, deportation of the slaves was urged by the abolition orators as part and parcel of the policy. This interpretation was received in silence, by the Republican Senators, and, in fact, no appropriation of any account would, for colonization purposes, stand the ghost of a chance in Congress."

Kohl Rabi.

This valuable root is at lenth attracting deserved attention, and we are pleased to learn that arrangements have been made in several directions in our State for its extension. This is as it should be. The day, we trust, is not far distant, when the farmers of Pennsylvania will cease to regard root crops as of little value. Their importance cannot be over-estimated, and we look forward confidently to the time when our farmers would as soon think of passing a season without planting corn or oats, as one without root crops. We commend the following, from the Irish Farmer's Gazette to their notice:

Another farming crop that should be attended to at once, and should be more extensively cultivated than it is, the kohl rabi. It has been a long time since this plant has been introduced into these countries, more as a garden curiosity than anything else; but as a useful feeding plant for cultivation in the farm it has been very tardy in making its way. It thrives almost any soil and in almost any climate. In India it is in much request, as a rich and delicate garden esculent, and in many of the European continental countries it is in high esteem for feeding milch cow and other cattle. It is also most useful in feeding sheep, is perfectly hardy, and stands any amount of frost. It is the only plant that has been found really useful in filling up the blanks amongst Swede turnips, and where that crop has been cut off by the fly it is the only plant that gives a certainty of a full crop by transplanting it, which is much better than sowing Swedes or any other turnip again. For this purpose it should be sown thickly in beds as soon as possible; the earlier the better, so as to have good strong plants to put out by the end of May or early in June. By giving sufficient space the globular heads produced will weigh from 6 to 10 lb. each and upwards; the rows should not be nearer than 2½ feet, and the plants two feet apart in the rows. They may also be sown in drills any time in May, and treated in every way the same as turnips. Kohl rabi is not only perfectly hardy, but it bears accidental injury better than Swedes; for while the latter, when wounded quickly rots away, the former still remains sound. Experiments have been made by cutting and hacking both kohl rabi and Swedes side by side to ascertain this, and while the Swedes rotted away, the kohl rabi seemed nothing the worse. Hares and rabbits are particularly fond of the kohl rabi, and when found growing in the same field they reject everything else in favor of it while it lasts, as we repeatedly witnessed; and upon our recent visit to Rocksavage, the seat of C. Kennet, Esq., all the kohl rabi then in the fields was completely scooped out. Besides being a very superior farm crop, its leaves as well as bulbs are particularly useful in the kitchen; the former being sweet and palatable, and the latter, when well boiled and well macerated with milk and butter, being an admirable substitute for mashed turnips, and when advanced in the season being free from the woody fibre that renders turnips useless as a table vegetable at that time of the year.

SELECT TALE.

A ROGUE'S LIFE.

WRITTEN BY HIMSELF.

Now all this is changed. Traders and makers of all kinds of commodities have effected a revolution in the picture-world, never dreamt of by the noblemen and gentlemen of ancient lineage, and consistently protested against to this day by the very few of them who still remain alive.—The daring innovators started with the new notion of buying a picture which they themselves could admire and appreciate, and for the genuineness of which the artist was still living to vouch. These rough and ready customers were not to be led by rulers or frightened by precedents.—They are not to be easily imposed upon, for the article they wanted was not to be counterfeited. Sturdily holding to their own opinions, they thought incessant repetition of Saints, Martyrs, and Holy Families monotonous and uninteresting—and said so. They thought little pictures of ugly Dutchwomen scouring pots, and drunken Dutchmen playing cards, dirty and dear at the price—and said so. They saw that the trees were green in nature, and brown in the Old Masters, and they thought the latter color not an improvement on the former—and said so. They wanted interesting subjects; variety, resemblance to nature; genuineness of the article, and fresh paint; they had no ancestors whose feelings, as founders of galleries, it was necessary to consult; no critical gentlemen and writers of valuable works to snub them when they were in spirits; nothing to lead them by the nose but their own shrewdness, their own interests, and their own tastes—so they turned their backs valiantly on the Old Masters, and marched on as a body to the living men. From that time good modern pictures have risen in the scale; even as articles of commerce and safe investments for money, they have now (as some disinterested collectors who dine at certain annual dinners I know of, can testify) distanced the old pictures in the race. The modern painters who have survived the brunt of the battle have lived to see pictures for which they once asked hundreds, selling for thousands, and the young generation making incomes by the brush in one year which it would have cost the doges of the easel ten to accumulate.—The posterity of Mr. Pickup still do a tolerable stroke of business (making bright modern masters for the market, which is gluted with dingy old material) and will probably contrive to thrive and multiply in the future: the one venerable institution of this world which we can safely count upon as likely to last, being the institution of human folly. Nevertheless, if a wise man of the reformed taste wants a modern picture, there are places for him to go to now where he may be sure of getting it genuine; where, if the artist is not alive to vouch for his work, the facts at any rate have not had time to die which vouch for the dealer who sells it. In my time matters were rather diferent. The painters we throve by had died long enough ago for pedigrees to get confused, and identities disputable; and, if I had been desirous of really purchasing a genuine Old Master for myself—speaking as a practical man—I don't know where I should have gone to ask for one, or whose judgment I could have safely relied on to guard me from being cheated, before I bought it.

But while I am tracing (in outline) the progress of the wounderful art-revolution of these modern times, I am forgetting the calm and corrupt days of old, and leaving myself unnoticed in Mr. Ishmeal Pickup's Gallery of Art. Let me resume the unrolling of the various folds of my narrative—let the Rogue return to the business of roguery.

I was left for some time alone in the manufactory of Old Masters before my friend rejoined me. When he at last opened the door of the gallery he approached me confidentially and spoke in a mysterious whisper.

"Pickup is suspicious," said he; "and I have had all the difficulty in the world to pave your way smoothly for you at the outset. However, if you can contrive to make a small Rembrandt, as a specimen, you may consider yourself employed here until further notice. I am obliged to particularize Rembrandt, because he is the only Old Master disengaged at present. The professional gentleman who used to do them died the other day in the Fleet—he had a turn for Rembrandts and can't be easily replaced. Do you think you could step into his shoes? It's a particular gift, like an ear for music, or a turn for mathematics. Of course, you will be put up to the simple elementary rules, and will have the professional gentleman's last Rembrandt as a guide: the rest depends, my dear friend, on your powers of imitation. Don't be discouraged at failures, but try again and again; and mind you are dirty and dark enough. You have heard a great deal about the Rembrandt—remember always, that, in your 2 sc. light means dusky yellow, and shade dense black; remember that, and——"

"No pay," said the voice of Mr. Pickup, behind me; "no pay unlesh your Rembrandt ish good enough to take me in—even me, Ishmeal, who dealsh in pictersh and knowsh what'sh what."

I agreed to everything, as I always do under similar circumstances. I was introduced to the workshop, and to the eminent gentlemen occupying it. My model Rembrandt was put before me; the simple elementary rules explained to me and my materials were placed under my hands. Regard for the lovers of the Old Masters and for the moral well-being society of forbids me to be particular about the nature of my labors, or to go into dangerous detail on the subject of my first failures and my subsequent success. I may, however, harmlessly admit that my Rembrandt was to be of the small or cabinet size, and that, as there was a run on Buregomasters, my subject was naturally to be of the Burgomaster sort. Three parts of my picture consisted entirely of different shades of dirty brown and black; the fourth being composed of a ray of yellow light falling upon the wrinkled face of a treacle-colored old man. A dim glimpse of a hand, and a faint suggestion of something like a brass wash-hand basin, completed the job, which gave great satisfaction to Mr. Pickup, and which was described in the catologue as "A Burgomaster at breakfast. Originally in the collection of Mynheer Van Grubb. Amsterdam. A rare example of the master. Not engraved.—The chiar'oscuro in this extraordinary work is of a truly grand character. Price, Two Hundred Guineas." I got five pounds for it. I suppose Mr. Pickup got one; ninety-five.

This was, perhaps not very encouraging as a beginning in a pecuniary point of view. But I was to get five pounds more if my Rembrandt sold within a given time. It sold a week after it was in a fit state to be trusted in the show-room. I got my money, and began enthusiastically on another Rembrandt—A Burgomaster's Wife Poking the Fire. Last time, the chiar'oscuro of the master had been yellow and black, this time it was to be red and black. I had the pleasantest possible anticipations of the result, and so had Mr. Pickup, when an unexpected catastrophe happened that shut up the shop and abruptly terminated my experience as a maker of Old Masters.

The Burgomaster's Breakfast had been sold to a new customer, a venerable connoisseur, blessed with a great fortune, and a large picture-gallery. The old gentleman was in raptures with the picture—with its tone, with its breadth, with its grand feeling, with its simple treatment of de ail. It wanted nothing, in his opinion, but a little cleaning. Mr. Pickup knew the raw and ticklish state of the surface far too well to allow even an attempt to be made at this process, and solemnly asserted that he was acquainted with no cleansing preparation which could be used on the Rembrandt without danger of "flaying off the last exquisite glazings of the immortal master's brush." The old gentleman was quite satisfied with this reason for not cleaning the Burgomaster, and took away his purchase in his carriage on the spot. For three weeks we heard nothing more of him. At the end of that time, a Hebrew friend of Mr. Pickup, employed in a lawyer's office, terrified us all by the information that a gentleman related to our venerable connoisseur had seen the Rembrandt, and had pronounced it to be an impudent counterfeit, and had engaged on his own account to have the picture tested in a court of law, and to charge the seller and the maker thereof with conspiring to make money under false pretences. Mr. Pickup and I looked at each other with very blank faces on receiving this agreeable piece of news.—What was to be done? I recovered the full sense of my faculties first; and I was the man who solved that important question, while the rest were utterly bewildered by it. "Will you promise me five and twenty pounds, in the presence of these gentlemen, if I get you out of this scrape?" said I to my terrified employer. Ishmeal Pickup wrung his dirty hands, and answered, "Yesh, my dear."

Our informant in this awkward matter was employed in the office of the lawyers who were to have the conducting of the case against us, and he was able to tell me some of the things I most wanted to know in relation to the picture. I found out from him that the Rembrandt was still in our customer's possession. The old gentleman had consented to the question of its genuineness but had far too high an idea of his own knowledge as a connoisseur to incline to the opinion that he had been taken in. His suspicious relative was not staying there, but was in the habit of visiting him every day in the afternoon. The rest depended on myself. On luck, time, human credulity, and a smattering of chemical knowledge which I had acquired in the days of my medical studies. I left the conclave at the picture-dealer's forthwith, and purchased, at the nearest druggist's, a bottle containing a certain powerful liquid, which I decline to particularize on high moral grounds. I labelled the bottle, "The Amsterdam Cleansing Compound;" and I wrapped around the bottle the following note:

"Mr. Pickup's respectful compliments to Mr.—— (let us say Green). Is rejoiced to state that he finds himself unexpectedly able to forward Mr. G's views relative to the cleaning of the Burgomaster's Breakfast. The enclosed compound has just reached him from Amsterdam. It is made from a receipt found among the papers of Rembrandt himself—has been used with the most astonishing results on the Master's pictures in every gallery of Holland, and is now being applied to the surface of the largest Rembrandt in Mr. P's own collection. Directions for use:—Lay the picture flat, pour the whole contents of the bottle over it gently, so as to flood the entire surface; for six hours, then wipe it off briskly with a soft cloth of as large a size as can be conveniently used. The effect will be the most wonderful removal of all dirt, and a complete and brilliant metherphosis of the present dingy surface of the picture."

I left this note and the bottle myself at two o'clock that day; and went home and confidently awaited the result.

The next morning our friend from the office called, announcing himself by a burst of laughter outside the door. Mr. Green had implicitly followed the directions in the letter the moment he received it—had allowed the "Amsterdam Cleansing Compound" to remain on the Rembrandt till eight o'clock in the evening—had called for the softest linen cloth in the whole house, and had then, with his own venerable hands, carefully wiped off the compound, and with it the whole surface of the picture! The brown, the black, the Burgomaster, the breakfast, and the ray of yellow light, all came clean off together in considerably less than a minute of time. If the picture was brought into court now, the evidence it could give against us was limited to a bit of plain panel, and a mass of black pulp rolled up in a duster.

PITTSBURGH PRODUCE MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY POST, Thursday, Feb. 12th, 1863.

Remarks—The weather continues mild. Our rivers continue in a fair stage of water with only a small amount of tonnage in port as most of our boats are in the employ of the Government, transporting troops and munitions of war in the West and South. The demand for the leading articles continues to improve. Flour—The sales during the past two days were large; the principal ones were made on private terms—the reader no doubt understands that as well as we do. In the East, as well as in Europe, prices continue to decline; what keeps them up in this city is a mystery to us, money being so plenty may have something to do with it. Oils—The demand continues fair and the sales regular. At the Exchange a fair amount changed hands; the prices will range with yesterday's price. There is a good supply in first hands. Groceries—The demand during the week has improved; the sales were more liberal; holders of sugar are very firm in their views. The stock in first hands is not large. Bacon firm and in good request. The week's sales foot up the largest of the season. Our wholesale dealers who cured their own meat have taken extra pains with it and have their stock in splendid condition; this, no doubt, has increased the demand. Grain—The demand is improving, especially for Wheat. The amount coming in fall short of the demand; holders were firm in their views at full rates. Corn is looking up; holders dem and 80c, while from store, 80 more is the current advance.

Flour—Sales were limited owing to bad weather, viz: 75 bbls country, not inspected, $6 75. 100 do Extra $6 75; 75 do Extra Family, $7 25@7 50; 100 do $7 37½; 40 do $7 40; 25 do $7 50.

Coffee—Sales 35 sacks Rio 33@33½c.

Molasses—Sales 25 bbls Orleans 55c; Syrup, sales 50 bbls, various brands, at from 52@58c.

Tobacco—Sales 75 boxes, 12 plug, Pittsburgh Manufacture, at 60c W lb.

PORK PACKING ITEMS.

Cincinnati.

Provisions are at a stand still as to sales, and are, perhaps, weaker in tone. No change in quotations for the various articles can be made, but buyers could work some advantage, doubtless, if they felt the interest necessary to make the effort. Bulk meats are the most heavy. The inquiry for Lard is long, at a few figures, but is not pressed. There is some feeling for old city packed. Mess pork at $11@11 25, and for new at $14@14 50. There seems to be no attention given to boxed meats.

Chicago.

There was scarcely anything done in Provisions and prices are nominal. Holders of prime City Lard were asking 9¼c, but buyers only offered 2½@9½c. Short clear Middles sold at 7¾c, and Green Hams at 6c, from the block. Live Hogs were quiet and easier. Dressed hogs steady, and without material change. The bulk of the sales were at $4 15@4 85, for lots dividing on 200 lbs.

Philadelphia Cattle Market, Feb. 9th

The offering of Beef Cattle show a considerable increase, reaching about 1,350 head at Phillips' Yard, most of which were disposed of at rather low prices, ranging from $3@6 50 per cwt, which is a decline of 25c@1 00 per cwt, on the quotations of last week. The market closed dull.

Total offered, 1,872.

Cows and Calves are rather lower. About 80 sold at $18@28 each, for Springers, and $20@35 for Cows and Calves.

Hogs—The market was lively and the receipts rather higher figures, including nearly 2,000 head, sold at Inglis' at $7@8, and 900 at the Avenue Yard at $7 25@8¼ per cwt. net.

Sheep were rather better, and the offerings, some 3,200, all taken at 6½@7c per lb gross.

RIVER NEWS.

Cincinnati.

The river here has fell 2 feet during the past twenty-four hours. The Lower Ohio, Cumberland and Tennessee are in fine navigable order. With no tonnage, freights are offered freely for Pittsburgh and Nashville, at advanced rates.

Louisville.

The river is falling slowly yesterday with eight feet water in the canal. The weather for the last two days has been fine and pleasant—the snow melting very rapidly.

New Albany.

Hill and Hayne have sold their interest (one-third) in the new steamer Hunter to the owners of the Ollie Sullivan for $6,000, or at the rate of $18,000 for the whole boat.

The Journal and Democrat were incorrectly informed with reference to the sale of the Tycoon. Captain Dick Ferguson, formerly the popular clerk of the high Atlantic, and late captain of the Prairie Rose, contracted yesterday for an interest in the Tycoon, and will continue her in the Cincinnati and Memphis trade.

Nashville.

The river was rising pretty fast, with about 6½ feet water on the shoals. The prospect for a big rise is eminently flattering.
