THE WORDS OF A PATRIOT. These of our readers who have a taste for the grand and beautiful, and who admire andacity when it reaches sublimity, will be highly gratified by reading a letter on Cameron, published in another To be properly appreciated, it should be read carefully, for it is unquestionably the coolest morsel of political literature that we have seen, since the order of Benj. F. Batler in New Orleans, ceizing upon certain property for the public good, by which, it is said, he and his amiable brother divided and pocketed the trilling sum of three millions of dollars, Sir Richard Dazzle, in London Assurence, is a remarkable personage in the way of coolness and audacity: Joseph Surface is another representative of the justinuating knave, who even when detected and sanosed persists in sentimental hypocriey but we remember nothing in these characters which surpasses the charming feelings of this old regiment, (63d P. V.) reguery of the letter in question. Read and in fact of the whole Army of the it carefully and reflect how the old fox Potomac, I shall be pleased to give you the President on the part of General was bursting his sides with laughter as he penned such sentence. The proper read from eighteen months' experience among this delicious document, by its my comrades, perhaps heightened by the as Commander in Chief, did not think it even necessary to comminder to the sentence. roguery of the letter in question. Read author, to a select party of his most inti- memory of a dozen gory fields. mate and virtuous friends, such as the pions Alex. Cummings, the fierce patriot tell us that the Army of the Potomac has a few of the contractors who entirely recovered its morale, partially lost palmed of spayined horses upon the War by Burnside's "reconnoissance in force".

The Senate of the United States, as soon permit. The Senate of the United States, as soon as it gets through its last executive session, should have the clerk read this epistle; it can not fail to put them all in a glow of merriment, cansing them to forget the animosities engendered by acrimonious dewe have in the last six hours.
