A flush of green is on the bottens, A warm breath panteth in the air. And in the earth a heart pane there Throbs underneath her breath of snows. Wakes up in music, as the song Of woodland pool the gloun recei Through bright flowers, oretbraid Of broken sunlight; goldon green.

She sees the outlawed winter stay
Awhile, to gather after him
Snow-robes, frost-errateled lindens,
And then in soft showers passaway. She could not love rough winfor well, And cannot choose but moved him now So wears awhile on her young brow His gift—a gleaming icicle, 3 Then turns her loving to the sun, Upheaves her bosom's swell to his, And, in the joy of his first kiss, Forgets for aye that sterner one:

Old winter's pledge from her he reaves— That icy-cold, though glittering spar— And zones her with a green cymer. And girdles round her brow with leaves.

All promising long summer hours, When she in his embrace shall lie, Under the broad dome of brighter sky, On mossy couches starred with flowers. Till she smiles back again to him The beauty beaming from his face, And, robed in light, glows with the grace Of Eden-palaced cherubim.

O earth, thy glowing loveliness
Around our very hearts had thrown
An undimmed joyance all its own,
