The following official report of Colonel

Rust will clear up the mystery which has been hanging over the destruction, by fire, of the city of Jacksonville. The report is as follows:

HURON HORN, S. C., April 4th, 1863.—Lieutenant Colonel C. G. Halpine, Assistant Adjutant General, Department of the South.—Colonel: I have the honor to make the following report for the information of the Major-General commanding the Department of the South:

In accordance with orders received, I met my regiment on the steamer

Delaware, and Gen. Meigs, at Beaufort, March 10, 1863, Jacksonville, Fla., where I arrived on the 23d inst., having been delayed by rough weather.

Maj. Hemingway, with three companies of the Gen. Meigs, had already arrived.

When we reached the rebel battery, mounted on a platform car near the locomotive, was shelling the town.

Gen. Meigs, who had been sent to the front, and was suffering from a severe attack of bilious fever, was sent to the rear, and his place was filled by Col. Higginson, and commanding five companies of the 8th Maine, under Lieu. Col. Twitchell, four companies of the 1st Massachusetts, and one company of the 1st Connecticut.

On Tuesday night the locomotive battery again approached and threw several sixty-four pound rifled shells, striking several buildings, but doing none. On Wednesday, the 12th, Col. Higginson, and commanding five companies of the 8th Maine, under Lieu. Col. Twitchell, four companies of the 1st Massachusetts, and one company of the 1st Connecticut, were sent to the front.

On Thursday night the locomotive battery again approached and threw several sixty-four pound rifled shells, striking several buildings, but doing none. On Friday, the 13th, Col. Higginson, and commanding five companies of the 8th Maine, under Lieu. Col. Twitchell, four companies of the 1st Massachusetts, and one company of the 1st Connecticut, were sent to the front.

On Saturday morning, the 14th, the 1st Massachusetts, and one company of the 1st Connecticut, were sent to the front.
