WEDNESDAY MORNING, MAY 6. CITY AND REIGHBORHOOD INTELLIGENCE

Wanted. A small house, convenient to business, or two or three rooms suitable for a small family at a low rent. Apply at this office. Meeting of the Democratic Union Club.

A meeting of this Club was held in Findley township on the 25th of April. In their preamble they set forth that experience has shown it to be policy, as it has ever been the pride of the Democratic party boldly to mast all in Discontinuous process. Our limited space will not allow publication of the resolutions entire, and the above is a very brief synopsis.

John T. Cochran, Esq., departed for New York city, yesterday afternoon, where he expects to take up his permanent residence. Mr. Cochran's practice in this city, having been all that the first talent at the Pittsburgh bar could reasonably expect, his abandoning it, for a new and large talk of antenning shows him to be larger neld of enterprize, shows him to be a gentleman of restless, it not laudable ambition. We wish him all the success possible, and hope that ere long we may hear of him dividing the honors and profits nent lawyers of Hibernian extraction who the Empire State.

Warren and Tidioute Railroad. The Warren Ledger, speaking of the supplement to the charter of this road having passed and become a law, and the necessity that exists for pushing it through to completion, says, it passes through a portion of the country that is rapidly be thirty miles of the oil territory.

Some idea of the amount of oil that would pass over the road, may be gathered from the fact, that during the season of navigation, say five months, in 1862, there was received and shipped from 1r-vine Station on the P. & E. R. R., upwards of 90,000 barrels of oil, and one Company could have sent it away in reasonable time. We have the best authorisonable time. We have the best authority from those conversant with the oil business of the Allegheny river, for saying that the Warren, Tidioute and Franklin railroad, if completed, would have more than five hundred barrels of oil per day to transport: some even put the former all outbreak of the rebellion. to transport; some even put the figures at one thousand barrels per day. We think that it only requires a thorough examination of the business likely to flow to this road to make it worthy of the attention of capitalists, or at all events, worthy of the attention of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, if they desire to reap a harvest

The situation of the Army of the Potomac is almost as mysterious as it was yesterday morning; nothing reliable came to hand either from public or private sources. Accounts that we publish elsewhere is sufficient proof of our entire success in capturing formidable works in the rear of the proof of the present of the pres turing formidable works in the rear of Fredericksburg.
Gen. Hooker's Headquarters is support ed to be at Chancellorsville, a point south and little west from Fredericksburg, and about ten miles distant.

Gen Hooker has the rebel army between him and the sea. Hard fighting must do the rest; the work cannot be finished in a day; several battles must probably take place before we shall know the result. It took McClellan seven days to change his base. It may take still longer to beat or capture the rebel army. LATER.

The New York Times sums up the news as follows: Two of our correspondents with Gen. Two of our correspondents with Gen. Hooker's army arrived in the city yesterday, bringing the latest intelligence from the field of battle.

Mr. Swineton left Gen. Hooker's head quarters at 6 o'clock on Sunday morning, and reached this city at 6 o'clock yesterday morning. Mr. Cowan left on Sunday evening at 9 o'clock and arrived at 10 o'clock last night.

o'clock last night.

Gen. Hooker had thrown his army Gen. Hooker had thrown his army across the Rappahannock and taken a position on the left of the rebel entrenchments at Fredericksburg, thus compelling the enemy to leave his defences and fight on ground which Hooker himself had chosen, and had fought two of the severest and bloodiest battles of the war, without attaining any absolutely decisive result, but achieving such successes as render the enemy's defeat or withdrawal certain. Recovering himself with masterly promptitude, from what was well nigh a crushing covering himself with masterly prompti-tude, from what was well nigh a crushing disaster on Saturday night, when Jackson succeeded in turning our right wing and routing the eleventh corps, the battle was renewed on Sunday, and though not abso-lutely decisive, yet it has put him decided-ly on the winning side.

This battle, to the rehels is by for the This battle, to the rebels, is by far the loodiest they have yet had, while our sacrifice is much less.

We have taken four thousand prisoners rith loss on our side of not a tenth of that number. The result of Sunday's operations on the left is still more brilliant. The powerfully defended heights in the rear of Fredericksburg, the attempt to take which cost so dearly last December, have, by the movement on Chancellorsville been turned, and after being gallantly assailed by Sedgdwick's corps are now ours. A Word About Painless Dentistry.

It is now four years since I commenced experimenting to extract teeth without pain, without the use of chloroform or sulphurio ether, (both of these agentes being more or less dangerous,) and since that time I have spared neither daily or nightly labor or money to perfect my invention, and from improvement to day it is a positive fact that leeth can be extracted without pain! There has been, and there will be still, some Dentists who have been trying, through misrepresentation and faishood, to prevent patients from having their teeth extracted by my process. Wells, to those who have head sense enough to judge for themselves, it has proven two things, lat. That their teeth have been extracted without pain and without any had result therefrom. 2d. The skepticism of the other mark the day is not far off when all human Dentists will and must have one of my apparatus; this is my firm belief. I need not say anything further in behalf of my invention, only that Dia.
