Sixty rebel deserts from Longstreet's pecket hooks, walletts and currency hold-division arrived in this city yesterday have ing taken the oath of allegiancous basis more. They looked very saedy, and attracted a great deal of attention as they walked around the street. One of them, a young man by the name of Gue lives in Brownsville in this State, and is very anxious to get home. He entered the rebel service in Columbus, Ga., two years ago. They all appear to have had enough of fighting, and glad enough to get to a land of plenty.
