Beware of the innumerable array of alcoholic preparations in pinchpots bottles, and big-bellied kegs, under the ludicrous appellation of Bitters, which, instead of curing only aggravate diseases, and leave the disappointed sufferers in despair.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS

From J. Newton Brown, D. D., Editor of the Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge.

Although not disposed to favor or recommend Patent Medicines in general, through distrust of their ingredients and effects; I yet know of no sufficient reason why a man may not testify to the benefit he believes himself to have received from any simple preparation in the hope that he may thus contribute to the benefit of others.

I do this the more readily in regard to Hoofland's German Bitters, prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, of this city, because I was prejudiced against them for many years, under the impression that they were chiefly an alcoholic mixture. I am indebted to my friend Robert Shoemaker, Esq., for the removal of this prejudice by proper tests, and for encouragement to try them, when suffering from great and long continued debility, the use of three bottles of these Bitters, at the beginning of the present year, was followed by evident relief, and restoration to a degree of bodily and mental vigor which I had not felt for six months before, and had almost despaired of regaining. I therefore thank God and my friend for directing me to the use of them.

J. NEWTON BROWN.

PHILADELPHIA, June 23, 1861.

From the Rev. Joseph H. Kennard, Pastor of the Tenth Baptist Church.

DR. JACKSON—DEAR SIR:—I have been frequently requested to connect my name with recommendations of different kinds of medicine, but regarding the practice as out of my appropriate sphere, I have in all cases declined; but with a clear conscience in various instances, and particularly in my own family, of the usefulness of Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, I depart from my usual course, to express my full conviction that for general debility of the system, and especially Liver Complaint it is a safe and valuable preparation. In some cases it may fail, but usually I doubt not but it will be beneficial to those who suffer from the above causes. Yours very respectfully,

J. H. KENNARD.

Eighth below Coats street, Phila., Dec. 24th.

From the Wife of ALDERMAN WUNDER, Germantown.

GERMANTOWN, June 1, 1861.

DR. C. M. JACKSON—Sir:—I take pleasure, dear sir, to give you a certificate, testifying that German Bitters had done for me. I am perfectly cured of all those diseases you address yourself to in your circular, viz: Dyspepsia, Chronic and Nervous debility, disease of the Kidneys, &c. The powerful influence it exerts upon Nervous prostration is surprising. I have been consulted frequently in reference to your Bitters, and without hesitation, have recommended it for the above complaints, and in every instance it has effectually cured. Your medicine has a great reputation in Germantown, and I will prove for their satisfaction, that the Bitters have cured in this vicinity more than twenty cases of the above diseases.

Respectfully, HANNAH WUNDER.

Main street, above Rittenhouse, Germantown, Penn'a.

JUST THE THING FOR THE SOLDIERS.

Will build up the constitution, and give health and strength to an overtasked and diseased wealth.

THE TESTIMONY FROM THE ARMY

PHILADELPHIA, August 12, 1862.

DR. C. M. JACKSON—Dear Sir: While in Virginia, owing to the change of water, I was taken with a severe diarrhœa, which seemed incurable, and which greatly weakened me. When we reached Martinsburg, I feared I should have to come home; but noticing some of your Bitters in the store Mr. R. H. Price, in that town, I purchased a supply, and on taking it was speedily restored to health. The diarrhœa was quickly checked, and I experienced no return of it. A number of my comrades, who suffered in the same manner and from the same cause, with whom I shared the Bitters, join me in this certificate. I expect to return to the seat of war with the Legion, and shall certainly take a supply of the Bitters in my knapsack; I would not be without it for its weight in gold, particularly on going into a sickly region.

Yours, truly, A. E. ALTEMUS,
Company H, Scott Legion.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

The Confederate Raid in Western Virginia—They are now Operating on the Northern Virginia Railroad.

It now appears that the Confederate forces that so lately committed so much destruction to the West end of the Baltimore and Ohio and the Northwestern Virginia Railroads, and who were reported to have subsequently retired from that section of the State of Virginia, are still on the line of the Northwestern Virginia road, and it is asserted, in considerable force. The repairs of the damages to this road, which had been done in the late raid, were all completed on Thursday morning last, and all the delayed freight was to have been sent forward at once in both directions, over what was considered to be clear track. On that day, however, the Confederates made another demonstration upon that road. They occupied West Union, a station about fifty miles from Parkersburg, and burnt the railroad bridges there. They have since burnt two other railroad bridges between West Union and Parkersburg. They have also cut the telegraph wires, &c.

Accounts it was said that they were moving Westward, and threatening Parkersburg, being, at last advices, but thirty miles distant from that place. The military authorities, however, have no fears of serious damage at Parkersburg, as that place is well protected with troops, besides two gunboats from Cincinnati.

The three bridges which have just been destroyed are small, and of minor importance, and can be speedily rebuilt.

The main line of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad continues uninterrupted, excepting at the Monongahela bridge, where passengers and freight are transferred to other trains. This interruption, it is stated, will cease on Monday morning, when the new bridge will be completed, and all trains proceed without detention at any point on the line.

It was not stated whether Charleston, on the Parkersburg road, had been attacked yet or not, although an attack was expected there several days since. The Confederates are said to be under the command of Gens. Jones and Wilder. Their numbers were not known.

Up to a late hour no new developments here received from that section.

Confederate Cavalry Prisoners.

The men under Mosby and White, brought to Washington, are many of them said to be marked men. A Herald letter thus describes some of the party:

Among the group could be observed some splendid specimens of humanity, and prominent among them was a private in Mosby's command, by the name of Talia-ferro, a member of one of the F. F. V.'s, his ancestors having settled in this country some two hundred years ago, and emigrated originally from Italy. He is a distant relative of the rebel Gen. Taliaferro, and has a plantation of eighteen hundred acres in Arkansas, upon which he employs one hundred slaves, also his own property. His physique is magnificent in its graceful proportions, his height being six feet and two inches, and he is possessed of a frank, open countenance and ingenious manner. His whole conduct was so honest, straight-forward, and at the same time courteous, that Capt. Mayer, and those present during his examination, were pre possessed in his favor. Mr. Hammond, a Methodist preacher, was also a prisoner. He is a violent secessionist, of the uncompromising order.

Portrait of a Contractor.

Greeley's fancy sketch, or true portrait rather, of a swindling government contractor, is a fine piece of humor, and if it were not too sorrowfully true, might well excite unextinguishable laughter.

If we had the artist's hand and eye necessary for the purpose and equal to it, we should like to model a contractor of the cormorant species; and to lecture upon this lay figure through the tax-paying cities and hamlets of the North. The face should be of brass, molded from guns long since burst; the heart of iron made from bits of unserviceable mortars; the paunch should be stuffed with rusty pork and mouldy bread; but the feet should be of pure treasury gold; around the shoulders we would drape a piece of canvas cut from a discarded tent; upon the legs we would put a pair of shoddy inexpressibles; in the hand would place a pistol dagger, one only to the user; while shoes with paper soles should guard the golden feet—the whole to be placed for the admiration of a tax-ridden community, upon a chair constructed from the timber of some condemned transport, bought for a great price and not worth a little one. We appeal to it P. T. Barnum, Esq., the great patriarch of showmen, if that figure would not draw at twenty-five cents, with reserved seats at fifty.

Maryland Oyster Trade.

A correspondent of the Cambridge (Md.) Herald writes from Bishop's Head, in that county: "The citizens down here follow oystering principally for a living. From the commencement of the fall, 1862, up to the present time, there have been fifty down-easters loaded in this neighborhood (Fishing Bay,) averaging $1,200 each, and in the Sound, 600 vessels, at a very small estimate, $600 each, that whole amounting to $810,000. These vessels carried their cargoes to Baltimore. There was one schooner last week that paid out gold and silver for her load."

LATEST FOREIGN NEWS.

Lord Palmerston on the Alexandria Affair---Debate in Parliament.

Sir Fitzroy Kelly complained that the Government had acted harshly in the case of the Alexandria. He asked if government was taking measures to protect the postal services with the ports of the Gulf of Mexico.

Lord Palmerston—The honorable and learned gentleman has asked what security there is for mercantile communication with Mexico, and communication by letter. With regard to merchant vessels, in the first place, the best security, and I trust a sufficient one, is that the American Government will no doubt observe the law of nations; and if their cruisers intercept any merchantman without sufficient cause, they are liable to damages in their Courts; and we have no reason to believe that their Courts will not act justly. (hear, hear) With regard to bags of letters that may be carried by a merchantman, if the vessel is captured on suspicion of being concerned in an illegal voyage, by that order which my noble friend, the Secretary of Foreign Affairs, read in another place yesterday, it will be seen what the American Government prescribes with regard to bags so found. They are not to be opened. the seal is not to be broken, they are to be delivered to the Consul of the nation to which they belong when the vessel comes into port, and that Consul is bound to open those bags himself, and if there should be found anything contrary to the good faith of nations and against the Government of the country, then he is bound to give that to the Government; but the letters in the bags are to be forwarded by him to the destination to which they are directed. I apprehend, therefore, that there is no necessity for any other proceedings on the part of Her Majesty's government than that of calling the attention of United States government to the circumstances, and expressing a hope that they will act in conformity with the duties which they themselves have laid down.

The House then went into Committee.

The Relations of England and America.

PARIS, April 24, 1863.

The critical nature of the relations between England and America absorbs almost entirely public attention in this country, especially among the commercial and mercantile classes. There is still confidence expressed in the preservation of peace in official circles, but I can perceive that even there the great preoccupation of the moment, despite even of the growing interest of the important European question in the North, is as to what the policy and position of the imperial Government must be in the event of hostilities breaking out. Such an event would be extremely embarrassing for France at the present moment, or at least for the policy and designs of her ruler, to say nothing of the extreme inconvenience of a neutral position in a great maritime war; it does not suit the character either of Louis Napoleon or the French nation to play the part of mere lookers on while the fortunes of the world, one may almost say, are being decided. But there are other considerations, and of an important nature. The Emperor is at once hard pressed at home upon the English question, and is anxious to carry England more heartily with him in enforcing his demands on Russia. For this cause the entente cordiale is being drawn closer than ever in various ways; among others an invitation to the Prince and Princess of Wales, which has, of course, been accepted, and for which fetes of fabulous magnificence are preparing at the Palace of Fontainebleau and the Hotel de Ville of Paris. It cannot be doubted that were England to find herself engaged in hostilities with the United States, the good will of the Government would be attempted to be secured by subserviency to the views of the latter in the north of Europe. The feeling in France with regard to Poland seems to wax stronger than ever, and I am assured that the most disorderly forwarded to the insurgents by their friends in this capital is to hold out to the utmost, with the confident expectation that the French people will not consent to remain much longer inactive. To march to the aid of Poland is in fact to march against Prussia, in the first instance, and bid once more for the bords du Rhin. Such words spread like electric fire through Frenchman's hearts, and the bribe on the part of England to connive at them would prove almost irresistible. There is no ill-feeling in this country toward America, for the offensive Mexican expedition, and still more offensive letter to General Forey on the policy of that expedition, can not be regarded as "national" acts. But it would be the worst of policies on the part of the Cabinet at Washington to crush, provoke, or even give way to a rupture with England at a moment when the latter has so many inducements to hold out to France to side with her in the quarrel. It is to be hoped, both for the sake of peace and the interests of the country, that those in power at Washington will see matters in this light, and avoid, if it be possible to do so honorable means, a collision which, I can assure them, is regarded by the best friends of the United States in this country as downright madness.

How Rain is Formed.

If we stand near to a railway engine when the steam is rapidly escaping, a fine small rain may annoy us. A few moments before, that fine rain was vapor, hot and invisible in the boiler; but having escaped from its burning prison of iron, it is converted into rain by the cold air. In like manner cloud vapor is condensed, or formed into rain. The little particles combine by mutual attraction as they fall, and thus they form drops, and the larger the drops are the heavier they are, and the more rapidly they fall to the earth.

Hilly lands are more subject to rain than wide plains, because the air, in passing over the hills, rises to higher and colder regions, in which the vapor is condensed. Snow is formed by the vapor being frozen in the state of cloud before it is formed into drops, and hail by the drops being frozen after they are fully formed. Hail is frozen more rapidly than snow, and by the rain-drops passing quickly into very cold currents of air. Hail often appears during thunder storms, which is a matter of great wonder to many, but it is owing to the explosions of electricity, causing very rapid changes in the temperature in the cloud regions. It has sometimes been as large during an electric storm, as to form heavy pieces of ice, which have done much damage as they fell! How strange these things appear sometimes to the young, but all can readily understand them if they will study, investigate and think.

PITTSBURGH OIL TRADE.

TUESDAY, May 12th, 1863.

There was a continued good demand for oil The sales, however, were limited on account of light offerings. As there will be a pond freshet on Tuesday, the receipts will speedily increase.

The exports were as follows: To New York—Crude, 157 bbls; Refined, 314 bbls; Benzole, 44 bbls To Philadelphia—Crude, 513 bb's; Refined, 401 bbls: Benzole, 52 bbls. To Baltimore—Crude, 288 bbls: Refined, 50 bbls.

Imports: Per A. V. Railroad—Crude, 147 bbls; Refined, 624 bbls. Per Monongahela river—Crude, 300 bbls. Per Allegheny river—Crude in bulk, 2,464 bbls; Refined, 739 bbls; Lubricating, 81 bbls; Benzole, 18 bbls.

OIL CITY, May 11th.

The market continues firm. Prices have advanced a shade. Sales were made up the creek at 33@33 50, at the mouth, 34 22@4 50 per bbl. There will be a pond freshet on Tuesday. The river at this point is falling rapidly. The amount to be run out this freshet is not large.

Refined—Holders are firm in their views There is very little doing at present. Sales 100 bbls free oil, city brand, 42½c; 160 bbls light straw bonded, 30c: the ruling figures are 40@42c.

Crude—We would observe no change in prices. We continue to quote in bbls, 18@18½c; in bulk, 12@13½c, some 1,500 bbls being reported at those figures.

Benzole—Prices tend upward; we quote nominally at 21@23c for deodorized; crude, 18@20c

Cooperage—Sales 5,200 old bbls, Crude $2 15.

PITTSBURGH PRODUCE MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY POST,
Tuesday, May 12th, 1863.

Remarks—The weather continues delightful, and the prospect at present favors the pleasantest kind of spring weather. Tonnage in port is on the increase. We have the following boats doing business, viz: Thistle, New York, Tir William Wallace, Iowa, Emma Graham and Camelia These boats are all loading for the lower ports. Freights are moderately plenty; up freights are abundant. One item of the cargo of the Wallace was 275 hhds tobacco going East; thus it will be seen that the weed has not all been destroyed. The excitement in regard to the movements of Hooker's army continues, 5th st. being thronged with "cities" for several days. We believe the only way to come at the truth is to wait; it will come along some of these days. The money market continues unsettled, prices changing very often; the tendency is downward. Pittsburgh is governed by Eastern movements. Grain—The market continues pretty dull, the demand for all descriptions being limited. Rye is held firmly at 95c@$1; the price of other kinds is altogether nominal. Flour—The market was dull and inactive; the supplies and sales were light. The only business done was from store in lots to meet the wants of the city trade. The receipts from wagon are increasing. Cheese—We notice small receipts of new W R; sales were made below the rates obtained for old. The demand for the various descriptions was active. Butter was unchanged as regards prices or demand. The receipts were about equal to the demand. Eggs—Dull; prices at present very uncertain. Dried Fruit—In moderate demand, both for home use and export; prices tend upward. The stock in first hands is not large and is daily being reduced.

Flour—The market yesterday was dull and inactive. The sales made partook altogether of a retail character. Buyers manifested no disposition to operate. Sales were confined altogether to dray loads, lots from store, at Extra, $6 75@7 25; Family, $7 75@8; sales from wagon at various prices, as per quality.

Bacon continues in steady demand, with a fair amount of transactions. We note sales as follows: 17 tierces Sides, 10c; 30 tcs Canvassed, 11c; 9,000 lbs shoulders, 6c; 4,000 lbs Plain Hams, 8½c; 2,500 lbs sides, 7½c; Plain Hams, 8½c; 1,200 lbs S C Hams, 10c.

Lard—Sales 10 tcs, 10½c. 3 do, 10c; sales of country at lower figures.

Meal Pork—The market for some time past has been inactive; sales 20 bbls at $15.

Whisky—The market was steady; sales 17 bbls at 46@46½c, the latter figure on short time.

Butter—The supply are only moderate; prices remain unchanged. Sales 1 bbl, 23c; 6 bbls and boxes, 20@22c; the latter figure for prime. Sales of inferior at lower prices.

Grain—Wheat, red is nominal at $1 30; white, $1 38@1 40. Oats dull, prices uncertain; 65c is probably the outside figure. Barley is without purchase. Rye is inquired for and sells readily at 95c@$1. Corn, market steady: sales 1,200 bush at 75@80c; 300 do on private terms.

Hay—Sales 10 loads at scales at $18@20.

Molasses—Sales 20 bbls Orleans at 55@58c.

Sugar—Sales of 8 hhds Orleans at 12½c.

Coffee—Sales 38 sacks Rio at 33½@33¾c.

PROVISION MARKET.

Cincinnati.

Bulk sides were in fair request, with several sales at 5c. Small sales of good bulk shoulders at 4c loose, and of some less desirable at the same figure packed were made.

Bacon sides sold to a small extent at 6c packed, and bacon shoulders at 4½c packed. A sale of 140 bbls rump pork at $9 was recorded.

Some inquiry for first-class brands of city mess pork was made, but we heard of no sales. Holders of such are generally not disposed to take less than $14, though in one case it was offered to-day at $13 75—$13 50 was bid. First-class country brands of new can be had at $13; old is neglected and quite depressed in price—$11 being considered an outside price for the best city.

Lard bears a nominal quotation at 9¼@9½c for country and city, but good brands cannot be easily bought for these figures.

Hams—Sales of bulk hams at a shade under sugar-cured being 10¼@10½c quite readily.

A CARD

HAVING MADE ARRANGEments to operate before the Dental Courts of the United States, and the various Dental Conventions for the purpose of bringing before the profession my Apparatus for Extracting Teeth Without Pain, I shall of necessity be obliged to be away from my office the greater part of next York City and Summer, and that my patients may not be the losers thereby, I have associated with me Dr. E. J. WAYS, a Dentist of well known ability in every branch of the profession, and whose elegant fillings are the admiration of the profession wherever seen. Dr. WAYS will be with me from April 1st, and will take the general charge of the office, leaving me free to devote my whole attention to Extracting Teeth with my Apparatus, and to the mechanical part of the profession. Persons who may have hitherto failed to have their Teeth extracted for want of time on my part, or from defects in the apparatus are assured that such difficulty no longer exists, as I have made many improvements and will devote my whole time to it.

References in regard to the Painlessness and Safety of the operations given if desired, and from Medical gentlemen too. Remember, that cold weather is the time when the apparatus can be used to the best advantage.
