HEADS. The New York Evening Post, a leading The New York Evening Past, a leading Republican paper, had, in its issue of Saturday last, a most withering editorial upon the imbecility and absurdity which characterize the proceedings of the Administration. The Post even trainers, infidels, atheists, papists, heregoes so far as to suggest the removal of certain blastering heroes and the appoint ment of others in their places. It concludes thus:

"If the government will attend closely to the war, and if military gentlemen will go and fight the enemy, we shall hear less of arrests and other abuses at home. Or, if it be necessary that arrests should be made, let us begin, as a writer in one of the morning papers the other day advised by arresting Jeff. Davis and his cabinet, condemning Lee and Braga to Fort Lafayette, and hanging Toombs, Wise, Foyd and afters, without bemants of the surpa fayette, and hanging Toombs, Wise, Foyd and afters, without bemants of the wit of habeas corress or expense of the clergy."

Gen. Grant, we take leave to say, is do in generated the vicksburg batteries; by his intrepid assault upon Port Gibson; by his rapid movement upon Jackson and capture of that town after several hours' hard fighting; by his instant evacuation of the place to advance upon the enemy's works, and, in short, by his four or five severe battles in about as many days, he has done more to stop the mouths of gainsayers than a thousand "arrests" and ten thousand prisons teeming the state captives.

The butterest of that is spread and deepen until it reaches the very source of vital action, it reaches the very source of vital action, it is not understood and counteracted—between principle?

I am so convinced of the generosity of your disposition that I am sure the truth on this subject will not offend you. Yet it always offends any system or practice that is inconsistent with it, and selfish minds are offended when their system is endangered by it. Then their selfishness becomes excited, and for want of good argument, they become furiously eloquent in hard names and crushing apithets, or
