DAILY POST.

An announcement appearing in the Dispatch yesterday morning stating that Col. Bayne's regiment would arrive at 11 o'clock, caused quite a large number of our citizens to be in waiting at the railroad depot for their arrival. About the hour they were expected, a dispatch was received by Henry A. Weaver, Esq., stating that they would not be here until 2 o'clock. This gave greater publicity to the fact of their coming, and at two o'clock an implace about five o'clock or o'clock and disaster about half past six o'clock, and active preparations were being made to recover the body. He resided with his parents in Minersville, and his old father, from whom it had vainly been attempted to keep the news, was on the spot nearly demented.

MORE OF THE VAULT DISASTER.

The vault disaster spoken of above took place about five o'clock and determined to the parents in Minersville, and his old father, from whom it had vainly been attempted to keep the news, was on the spot nearly demented. This gave greater publicity to the fact of their coming, and at two o'clock an implace about five o'clock, and so certain mense concourse had assembled to greet the returned volunteers. As the procession formed and marched into Wood street the sight was a splendid one. We will give the order of the procession as it passed the corner of Fifth and Wood:

I am here to day the honored representative of an intelligent, grateful, and were it not for this cruel war, happy people, to bid you welcome to your friends and homes, and to thank you for them, and for millions of our race that now live, and for untold millions that will live, whose future will be made happier, brighter and holier if the Constitution and live. if the Constitution and Union of these United States, for which you have battled so nobly, be maintained inviolate, and the cursed rebellion against the same be compelled to hide itself in shame disgrace forever. To accomplish glorious end, we know in part part what the gallant 136th Penn'a Volunteers what the gallant 136th Penn's volunteers have suffered, perilled and done; and we know that impartial history will more fully set forth what you have done as the bright-car inheritance wone children can or will see for the what you have done as the bright-car inheritance wone children can or will see will take on board 1500 scotch Tie, Oxford and English Walkest inheritance your children can or will have in time; and your record will be with that of the Revolutionary patriots, for they contended to the death, as you have that of the Kevolutionary patriots, for they contended to the death, as you have done, on the same soil, and for the same glorious object, their country and the right. For the galiant spirits that went forth with you, but whose places in your ranks will know them no more, the chastened tear will fall, but the consolation is he that dies for his country, and the right has not lived or died in vain. Their memories will live and be cherished by a grateful people to the latest generation; and better, far better that the bones of every American citizen now living would bleach upon the hills and valleys of our favored land, than this armed rebellion should succeed in overthrowing the best human government the world has ever known. We do not entertain any idea but that the right will prevail, and that happy day when it does come will be as it should—full of enjoyment for you. For you, each and all have galiantly performed your part in asserting and maintaining the laws and government.

Some idea of the coming grain and hay crops may be inferred from the fact that this firm have already sold some five hundred mowers and reapers, and every day is adding to their orders. No one can form any opinion of the many improvements in labor saving to our farmers without looking over their large stock; everything from a complete reaping machine, hay elevators, to a churn, has had some important improvement. Now our farmers have but to run the machine and their crop is ready for market. One great advantage this establishment has is, that it is like our Stock Exchange. Farmers all meet there, and after examining the new improvements have a fail attend his labors. Westchester Co., N. Y., Oct. 23, 1872 Mr. G. TER EYOK SHELDOR, Editor Sing Sing Republican:

Dear Sir—I would state that I was induced to use BRANDRETH'S PILLS, through the recommodation of John R, Swift, of Groton, Westchester county, who was entirely restored to health by their use, He was sick for some two years, very costive and dyspeptic, and he tried everything but was not relieved. Finally, he took one Brandreth's Pill every day for a week, and a does of six Pills every day for three days, and then took one Pill every day, with an occasional does of six. In one month he was able to go to work, and in three months he well, gaining 40 pounds in weight.
