Induced by the extensive sale and universal popularity of Hoofland's German Bitters, (purely vegetable) hosts of ignorant quacks and unscrupulous adventurers, have stepped upon suffering humanity the flood gates of Nostrums in the shape of poor whiskey, wisely compounded with injurious drugs, and christened Tonics, Stomachics and Bitters.

Beware of the innumerable array of alcoholic preparations in plethoric bottles, and big-bellied kegs, under the modest appellation of Bitters; which, instead of curing only aggravates diseases and leaves the disappointed sufferers in despair.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS!

Are not a new and untried article, but have stood the test of fifteen years trial by the American public, and their reputation and sale are not rivalled by any similar preparation.

The proprietors have thousands of Letters from the most eminent

Clergymen, Lawyers, Physicians and Citizens,

Testifying of their own personal knowledge to the beneficial effects and medical virtues of these Bitters.

DO YOU WANT SOMETHING to STRENGTHEN YOU?

DO YOU WANT A GOOD APPETITE?

PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There are many preparations sold under the name of Bitters, put up in quart bottles, compounded of the cheapest whiskey or common rum, costing from 20 to 40 cents per gallon, the taste disguised by Anise or Coriander Seed.

This class of Bitters has caused and will continue to cause, as long as they can be sold, hundreds to die the death of the drunkard. By their use the system is kept continually under the influence of Alcoholic Stimulants of the worst kind, the desire for liquor is created and kept up, and the resultless of the horrors attendant upon a drunkard's life and death.

For those who desire and will have a Liquor Bitters, we publish the following receipt. Get One Bottle Hoofland's German Bitters, and mix with Three Quarts of Good Brandy or Whisky, and the result will be a preparation that will far excel in medicinal virtues and true excellence any of the numerous Liquor Bitters in the market, and will cost much less. You will have all the virtues of Hoofland's Bitters in connection with a good article of Liquor, at a much less price than these inferior preparations will cost you.

ATTENTION SOLDIERS,

AND THE FRIENDS OF SOLDIERS

We call the attention of all having relations or friends in the army to the fact that "HOOFLAND'S German Bitters" will cure nine tenths of the cases induced by exposures and privations incident to camp life. In the first place, of almost daily in the newspapers, on the arrival of the sick, it will be noticed that a very large proportion are suffering from debility. Every case of that kind can be readily cured by Hoofland's German Bitters. Diseases resulting from disorders of the digestive organs are speedily removed. We have no hesitation in stating that if hundreds of lives might be saved, that otherwise will be lost.

We call particular attention to the following remarkable and well authenticated cure of one of the nation's heroes, whose life, to use his own language has been saved by the Bitters:"

PHILADELPHIA, August 23d, 1862.

Messrs. Jones & Evans.—Well, gentlemen, your Hoofland's German Bitters has saved my life. There is no mistake in this. It is vouched for by numbers of my comrades, some of whose names are appended, and who were fully cognizant of all the circumstances of my case. I am, and have been for the last four years, a member of the celebrated battery, under the immediate command of Capt. R. B. Ayres. Through the exposure attendant upon my arduous duties, I was attacked in November last with inflamation of the lungs, and was for seventy two days in the hospital. This was followed by great debility, heightened by an attack of dysentery. I was then removed from the White House and sent to this city on board the steamer "State of Maine," from which I landed on the 28th of June. Since that time I have been about as low as any one could be and still retain a spark of vitality. For a week or more I was scarcely able to eat a low anything, and if I did force a morsel down, it was immediately thrown up again.

I could not even keep a glass of water on my stomach. Life could not last under these circumstances; and, accordingly the physicians who had been working fai fully, though unsuccessfully, to rescue me from the grasp of the dread Archby, to rescue me from the grasp of the dread Archangel, frankly told me they could do no more for me, and advised me to see a clergyman, and to make such disposition of my limited funds as best suited me. An acquaintance who visited me at the hospital, Mr. Frederick Steinbrion, of 6th below Arch Street, advised me as a forlorn hope, to try your Bitters and kindly procured a bottle. From the time I commenced taking them the shadow of death receded; and Pam now, thank God for it, getting better. Though I have taken but two bottles, I have gained 10 pounds, and feel sanguine of being permitted to rejoin my wife and daughter, from whom I have heard nothing for eighteen months; for, gentleman, I am a loyal Virginian. From the vicinity of Front Royal. To your invaluable Bitters I owe the exquisite privilege of again clasping to my bosom those who are dearest to me in life.

Very truly, yours, ISAAC MALONE.

We fully concur in the truth of the above statement, as we had despaired of seeing our comrade, Mr. Malone, restored to health.

DAILY POST.

An Impartial Draft.

The New York Evening Post complains that the War Department, in making its preliminary arrangements for the enrollment of all persons who are liable to be drafted into the military service, has not acted with the impartiality the case demands. It says:

"The conscription falls upon all alike; the principle which underlies it is that all citizens have an interest in the welfare of the State, and all alike owe it service in arms against the enemy. If all are needed, all must go; when only a part are required the selection of those who shall first take their turn under arms is made by drawing lots; but they are liable to draft.

"Now, it seems to us the Administration has forgotten to apply this principle with that impartiality which the case demands. We hear of Provost Marshals and enrollment-lists in the Northern and Border States, but we do not hear of any preparations made to enforce the draft in the Cotton States. Why are not Provost Marshals appointed for them? Why, It is not understood that their inhabitants are subject to the same laws as those of other States? How is it that in Western Virginia a draft is likely to be ordered for the Union army, but in Eastern Virginia none?

"The theory of the Administration is that no State can secede from the Union, and that no State sacrifices its rights by a rebellion among its inhabitants; but, if it claims its rights, it must also be held to its proper duties. For that reason we expect the enrollment and the draft to be applied to all the States.

"If it be said that a part of the people of the rebel States is already in arms, but against the Union, we reply that another part of them are not. It may be that the white men have been forced into Davis' armies; but the black men Davis keeps at home to cultivate the land and to raise food for his troops. In such a matter the Government can take no account of color or social position. All that it can ask is whether a man be able bodied and fitted for the duties required of the soldiers. If he is, he is a proper person to be called into service. The law does not impose a greater burden upon one State than upon another. The draft, therefore, must be applied to all, but must take those it finds—and it happens, fortunately, in the Southern States that those who remain at home belong to a class which is loyal to the Union and opposed to the rebellion. Besides, the slave class is one which is to be peculiarly benefited by the results of the war, and ought, on that account, to be required to contribute to its prosecution and success."

It is quite true, we believe, that no Provost Marshals have been appointed throughout the Cotton States or even throughout Virginia, North Carolina, or Tennessee. As if surprised at this fact, the Post, we are sure, will be more surprised, when it learns that there are no applicants for these important and lucrative offices in the gift of the Government. We ought to have a Provost Marshal residing at the capital of South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, and other Southern States, with their appropriate subordinates, whose duty it should be to enroll all the loyal blacks preparatory to the enforcement of the draft at the South as well as at the North. As our contemporary says, the Government in such a matter can take no account of color or social position. The draft should be equal and impartial. But whether it be that the views of the Post on this point are singular, or that there is a sudden and alarming dearth of patriots at the North who are willing to hold office under the Administration where is the promise of doing, our contemporary thinks, so much good, certain it is that Mr. Stanton should be very severely criticised because he has not yet appointed Provost Marshals for the Cotton States. If it has any candidates whom it can recommend for these offices we venture to express the opinion that their claims will be treated with due consideration by the Administration, which, we take it, is as anxious as our contemporary can be to make the draft fall alike. As that accident, friend of the Government, Mr. Wendell Phillips, has recently said that he will never rest satisfied until he sees five hundred thousand negro soldiers enlisted in the service of the Union, perhaps he could be induced to accept an appointment for South Carolina or Alabama.—National Intelligencer.

The Macs.

There are three great Macs in the ever-victorious army of General Grant. McClernand and McPherson, each commanding a corps, and McArthur, commanding a division. The North British character of many of the other names, including Grant's own, in the same army, is noticeable. There is Logan, and Wallace, and Blair, all Generals, and a host of others in subordinate positions. In the army of Rosecrans there were the two famous brothers McCook—of whom only the duplicate Mac, McDowell McCook, is now left; and the two Macs who successively commanded the Army of the Potomac do not need to be named.

General Andrew Jackson.

At the time that General Jackson's proceedings at New Orleans were brought up in Congress, the old hero, then at his home in Tennessee, wrote as follows:

"I should be the last man on earth to do any act that invalidates the principle that the military should be subject to the civil power."

The Americans in Japan have sent home $1,455 for the relief of sick and disabled Federal soldiers.

"Stonewall" Jackson's Name and Memory.

[From the London Times, May 26.]

The Confederate laurels won on the field of Chancellorsville must be twined with the cypress. Probably no disaster of the war will have carried such grief to Southern hearts as the death of General Jackson, who has succumbed to the wounds received in the great battle of the 3d of May. Even on this side of the ocean the gallant soldier's fate will everywhere be heard of with pity and sympathy. Not only as a brave man fighting for his country's independence, but as one of the most consummate generals that this century has produced. "Stonewall" Jackson will carry with him to his early grave the regrets of all who can admire greatness and genius. From the earliest days of the war he has been conspicuous for the most remarkable military qualities. That mixture of daring and judgment which is the mark of "heaven born" generals distinguished him beyond any man of his time. Although the young confederacy has been illustrated by a number of eminent soldiers; yet the applause and devotion of his countrymen, confirmed by the judgment of European nations, have given the first place to General Jackson. The military feats he accomplished moved the minds of the people with an astonishment which is only given to the highest genius to produce. The blows he struck at the enemy were as terrible and decisive as those of Bonaparte himself. The march by which he surprised the army of Pope last year would be enough in itself to give him a high place in military history. But perhaps the crowning glory of his life was the great battle in which he fell.—When the federal commander, by crossing the river twelve miles above his camp, and pressing on, as he thought, to the rear of the Confederates, had placed them between two bodies of his army, he was so confident of success as to boast that the enemy was the property of the Army of the Potomac. It was reserved to Jackson by a swift and secret march to fall upon his right wing, crush it, and, by an attack unsurpassed in fierceness and pertinacity, to drive his very superior forces back into a position from which he could not extricate himself except by flight across the river. In the battle of the Sunday Jackson received two wounds, one in the left arm, the other in the right hand, amputation of the arm was necessary, and the Southern hero sank under the effect of it, supported to the last by his simple and noble character and strong religious faith.

A PARLIAMENTARY TRIBUTE.

At the annual dinner of the Royal Geographical Society of London, on the 25th of May, the Right Hon. Spencer Walpole, M. P., when returning thanks for the toast of the "House of Commons," said: Need he add that, crossing the Atlantic, they had also to concern themselves with North America? And in association with them could he forget that lamentable news had to-day reached this country to the effect that one of the noblest descendants of the English race—Stonewall Jackson—was now no more! (Cheers.)

[From the London Telegraph, May 27.]

* * * Add to the splendid valor of a Murat, the fervid fealty of a Cromwell, and the unbroken success of a Havelock, and we have the captain whose waving sword and fearless voice the Southern whites would have followed "to the pit." That he never lived to exchange a division for an army, a flying corps for the massed columns of the field of battle, may perhaps have been good for his fame; but the leader who could find the weak place in Hooker's line at Chancellorsville, and hurl his twenty-five thousand troops upon it so soon as found, as Jackson did, would surely have ripened into a renowned general. Assuredly the most fatal shot of the war to the confederates, whether fired by friend or foe, was that which struck down the life of Stonewall Jackson—a soldier every inch of him, for whatever cause he contended.

Rules for Self Government.

Always sit next to the carver, at dinner.

Ask no woman her age.

Be civil to all of your rich uncles and aunts.

Never joke with a policeman.

Don't play at chess with a widow.

Never contradict a man that stutters.

Pull down the blind before you put on your wig.

Make friends with the steward on board a steamer; there's no knowing how soon you might be placed in his power.

Never answer a crossing sweeper.—Pay him or else pass quickly and silently along. One word and you are entirely lost.

Keep your own secrets; tell nobody you dye your whiskers.

Never offend a butler; he has too many chances of retaliation.

PITTSBURGH OIL TRADE.

THURSDAY, June 11th, 1863.

The market continues firm, with a steady demand. There is a large speculative feeling in the market and plenty of buyers, many from the Eastern cities. The rates, however, do not meet their views, hence the sales were restricted.

Our latest dates from the East represent the market dull, the current rates being too low to admit of exports from this city. Matters cannot long remain in this way. We shall no doubt soon be able to report a change one way or the other. Any figures we give must be taken as the nominal rates, prices being very uncertain just at present.

Our latest advices from Oil City represent the market as firmer, although no actual advance had been established.

In our market we continue to quote Crude in bulk at 15@16c; in bbls, 21@22c, packages included. Reports of sales at higher figures were current, but we could trace them to no reliable source.

The Oil Exchange received the following dispatch:

OIL CITY, June 10th.

Crude—The market was firmer up the creek. There were no material transactions but the tendency was decidedly upward. The rates were nominally up the creek, $3 00 per bbl. At the mouth the rates were $3 50 per bbl. Holders firm.

Crude—With a firm market and moderate receipts we note sales of some 400 bbls: in bulk, 15¼@16c; in barrels, packages included, at 21@22c.

Refined—Buyers are in a quandary and are more inclined to purchase for future delivery than for the present. Bonded Oil seems to have the call. We note sales for future delivery during the months of June and July to the extent of 2,000 bbls at 40@41c. Free oil ranges from 9@10c per gallon higher.

Exports East: To New York—Refined, 756 bbls; Benzole, 50 bbls: Crude, 11 bbls. To Philadelphia—Benzole, 55 bbls: Refined, 181 bbls: Crude, 167 bbls: Tar, 42 bbls. To Baltimore—Crude, 227 bbls: Refined, 30 bbls.

Imports: Per A. J. Road—Crude, 200 bbls; Refined, 630 bbls. Per Allegheny river—Crude, 1,487 bbls: Refined, 152 bbls.

PITTSBURGH PRODUCE MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY POST,
Thursday, June 11th, 1863.

Remarks—The weather continues pleasant for the season. Our rivers are very low and business enough that channel is pretty much suspended. We learn by private dispatches received here that Gold in New York had suddenly tumbled and was dull at 40. This means good news for our side from some direction, most probably from Vicksburg or Port Hudson, or possibly both. The New York money market is a pretty good indication of how matters are progressing. Money in this market is plenty and can be had on easy terms. Trade of every description seems to be prospering. Business, generally speaking, was not very active. Dealers seem to be getting ready for the first of July, that being a general settling up time, in order to make ready for the fall and winter trade. Most of the leading articles have remained stationary, with only a light demand. A rise in our rivers at present would be of immense benefit to our coal merchants and would also relieve our Cincinnati neighbors, who are suffering.

Flour—The sales of the week show that the for local purposes. Prices since our last have declined a shade. Sales were made at low figures. The stock in first hands is not large, but the demand was small. With the exception of a few wagon loads there were no receipts in the East-ern and western cities the market was quiet and prices drooping. A moderate amount of transactions were made at the following rates: Extra, $5 50@5 60; Extra Family, $5 75@6 00; sales of some very choice brands at $6 75@7. Wagon lots continue to sell at various prices.

Grain—The market during the week has been very dull, the sales being confined altogether to small lots for local purposes. Certain descriptions were neglected altogether. The nominal rates were for red Wheat, $1 15@1 20; white, $1 25@1 30. Rye, 80@85c. Corn, 69@70c. Oats, 60@62c. Barley dull; no demand. In the absence of sales the above are the nearest rates that we can furnish.

Fish—The demand during the week was steady and sales regular. Our dealers have good supply on hand. Among the sales were: Mackerel: No. 2, $5 50; 20 bbls Large No. 3, $7 50@7 75; 30 do mediums, $7; 40 bf do, $5; 44 do do medium, $4 12; 70 do do No. 2, $5 50. Herrings, 40 bs 50 bbls new Baltimore, $7@7 25. Sales 20 half bbls white fish, $3.

Potatoes dull; sales 70 bush, 40@50c.

Cheese—Sales of 50 boxes new W R, 9@9½c. Hamburg, 10c. It was in moderate request.

NEW YORK CATTLE MARKET.

Tribune's Report.

BULL'S HEAD, Monday, June 8th.

The market opened this morning with another full supply of beef cattle, numbering about 4,000 head, besides several droves of stale stock, which will not bring as much to-day as when they were driven out of market last Monday, the market being no better for first class bullocks, which are not plenty, while it is decidedly worse for all but the best and full half a cent a pound per lower rate of weights. At 3 o'clock the number of cattle on hand unsold is greater than we have seen for a long time, showing a bad state of things for drovers, because a slow market is a bad market. A few choice bullocks have sold to-day at 12c per pound upon net weight of beef, sales sinking off, but the great bulk of first-class sells at 11@ 11½c, and some reach 11c net. Illinoisteers have sold on the scales at 11c per pound upon 80 pound net per cwt of live weight; and an unusual number have been weighed, showing that the butchers are making a close fight with the speculators and are determined to keep down the price. It looks as though they would succeed. If the operators for a rise could not effect it this week we do not see how they can hereafter.

The weather to-day is much in favor of drovers, being cool enough for stout winter garments and dry and windy—such an atmosphere as encourages butchers to buy freely. It also keeps beef will be required for city consumption. The Government agents, Messrs. Starr & Reed, have had to pay equal to 11@11½c per pound net. The shipping of bullocks to foreign ports is now prohibited as a military necessity. This will save a good many cattle to our own men and decrease the rations of fresh beef among blockade runners. The complete report of the market, made up on Tuesday, will show how dependent we are upon Illinois for beef. The amount from that State every week is quite astonishing.

The supply of hogs to-day is light, and prices 5¼@5¾c, firm and expected to advance if the cool weather holds. The supply of sheep is light, and the demand. Prices are 6¼@6¾c per pound live weight for sheared sheep. Full particulars to-morrow.
