The Fourth of July and Cats. They are making extensive preparations for the celebration of the Fourth of July, in Hartford, Conn. Among other diversions two balloons are to be sent up—one to contain a cat, which is to be thrown out with the stars and stripes tied to its tail, when a mile or two up. In the evening there is to be "brilliant fireworks in the Dort " or "brilliant fireworks in the Park," at which the cat is expected to be present. This expectation, we suppose, s predicted on the theory that cats have nine lives.

Important Patent Decision. It has heretofore been the practice of the Patent Office to refuse to entertain an application for re-issue on behalf of an assignee or assignees, unless he or they owned the entire interest of the patentee. But this has been reversed by the Board of Examiners in Chief, who have decided that any assignee of an exclusive territorial right under a patent, is entitled to surrender and take, out a revissue, which will be operative to the extent of the territory embraced in his grant.
