BULL'S HEAD, Monday, June 15th.

The market opened this morning in Porty-fourth street with simewhere about 3.600 billocks fresh from the country, and not far from you have seen out two weeks on grass, waiting for a better market. This number, though less than at the last market, is probably as large as will be required, as the average weight is greater and this is in the middle of strawberry time. It has been very evident from the start this morning that retail butchers were not anxious to buy largely, or else there was a combined movement against any advance of rates, which, with the number on sale, in a sharp market, would not be difficult. We think that the average may be quoted a trief better than last Monday, June 15th.
