Induced by the extensive sale and universal popularity of Hoofland's German Bitters, (purely vegetable) hosts of ignorant quacks and unscrupulous adventurers, have opened upon suffering humanity the flood gates of their Nostrums in the shape of poor whisky, vilely compounded, with injurious drugs, and christened Tonics, Stomachics and Bitters.

Beware of the innumerable array of alcoholic preparations in plethoric bottles, and big-bellied kegs, under the modest appellation of Bitters; which, instead of curing only aggravates diseases and leave the disappointed sufferer in despair.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS

Are not a new and untried article, but have stood the test of fifteen years trial by the American public; and their reputation and sale, are not rivaled by any similar preparation.

The proprietors have thousands of Letters from the most eminent

Clergymen, Lawyers, Physicians and Citizens,

Testifying of their own personal knowledge, to the beneficial effects and medical virtues of these Bitters.

DO YOU WANT SOMETHING to STRENGTHEN YOU?

DO YOU WANT A GOOD APPETITE?

DO YOU WANT TO BUILD UP YOUR CONSTITUTION?

DO YOU WANT TO FEEL WELL?

DO YOU WANT TO GET RID OF NERVOUSNESS?

DO YOU WANT ENERGY?

Do you want to sleep well?

Do you want a brisk and vigorous feeling?

If you do, use

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.

PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There are many preparations sold under the name of Bitters, put up in quart bottles, compounded of the cheapest whisky or common rum, costing from 25 to 40 cents per gallon, the taste disguised by Anise or Coriander Seed.

This class of Bitters has caused and will continue to cause, as long as they can be sold, hundreds to die the death of the drunkard. By their use the system is kept constantly under the influence of Alcoholic Stimulants of the worst kind; the desire for Liquor is created and kept up, and the result is a drunkard's life and death.

For those who desire and will have a Liquor Bitters, we publish the following receipt. Get One Dollar Bottle Hoofland's German Bitters, and One Quarts of Good Brandy or Whisky, and the result will be a preparation that will far excel in medicinal virtues and true excellency any of the numerous Liquor Bitters in the market, and will cost much less. You will have all the virtues of Hoofland's Bitters in connection with a good article of Liquor, at a much less price than these inferior preparations will cost you.

ATTENTION SOLDIERS,

AND THE FRIENDS OF SOLDIERS

We call the attention of all having relations or friends in the army to the fact that 'HOOFLAND'S German Bitters' will cure nine-tenths of the diseases incident to camp life. In the lists, published almost daily in the newspapers, on the arrival of the sick, it will be noticed that a very large proportion are suffering from debility. Every case of that kind can be readily cured by Hoofland's German Bitters. Diseases resulting from disorders of the digestive organs are promptly removed. We have no hesitation in stating that, if these Bitters were freely used among our soldiers hundreds of lives might be saved, that otherwise will be lost.

We call particular attention to the following remarkable and well authenticated cure of one of the patriot heroes, whose life, to use his own language has been saved by the Bitters:"

PHILADELPHIA, August 23d, 1862.

Messrs. Jones & Evans.—Well, gentlemen, your Hoofland's German Bitters has saved my life. There is no mistake in this. It is vouched for by numbers of my comrades, some of whose names are appended, and who were fully cognisant of all the circumstances of my case. I am, and have been for the last four years, a member of Chesman's celebrated battery, under the immediate command of Capt. R. B. Ayres. Through the exposure attendant upon my arduous duties, I was attacked in November last with inflamation of the lungs, and was for seventy two days in the hospital. The same followed by great debility, heightened by an attack of dysentery. I was then removed from the White House and sent to this city on board the steamer "State of Maine," from which I landed on the 28th of June. Since that time I have been about as low as any one could be and still retain a spark of vitality. For a week or more I was scarcely able to raise low anything, and if I did force a morsel down, it was immediately thrown up again.

I could not even keep a glass of water on my stomach. Life could not last under these circumstances, and, accordingly the physician who had been working in phials, though unsuccessfully, to rescue me from the grasp of the dread Archer, frankly told me they could do no more for me, and advised me to see a clergyman, and to make such disposition of my limited funds as best suited me. An acquaintance who visited me at the hospital, Mr. Frederick Steinbron, of 6th below Arch Street, advised me as a forlorn hope, to try your Bitters and kindly procured a bottle. From the time I commenced taking them the shadow of death receded, and I am now, thank God for it, getting better. Though I have taken but two bottles, I have used 10 pounds, and feel sanguine of being permitted to rejoin my wife and daughter, from whom I have heard nothing for eighteen months; for, as a Virginian, from the vicinity of Front Royal. To your invaluable Bitters I owe the glorious privilege of again calling to my bosom those who are dearest to me in life.

Very truly, yours, ISAAC MALONE.

We fully concur in the truth of the above statement, as we had despaired of seeing our comrade, Mr. Malone, restored to health.

DAILY POST.

The Two Spies.

The special correspondence of the Detroit Press from Franklin, Tenn., details the following facts and history of the two spies executed there June 9th, 1863:

"Last evening (June 8th) about sundown two strangers rode into camp and called at Baird's headquarters who presented unusual appearances. They had on citizens' overcoats, Federal regulation pants and caps. The caps were covered with white flannel havelocks. They wore side-arms, and showed high intelligence. One claimed to be a Colonel U. S. Army, and called himself Col. Orton, the other called himself Major Dunlop, and both representing themselves as Inspector Generals U. S. Army. * * *

"At dark they left Col. B. and started for Nashville. They had proceeded about a quarter of a mile when they were overtaken by Col. Watkins and his orderly.—Col. W. told them that Col. B. wanted to make some further inquiries of them, and asked them to return. This they politely consented to do, after some remonstrance on account of the lateness of the hour, and the distance they had to travel. Col. W. led them to his tent, where he placed a strong guard over them. Col. B. then told them that they were under arrest.—Col. B. telegraphed to General Rosecrans and received a reply that no such men were in the army. * *

"After this despatch came to hand, which it did about 12 o'clock, (midnight,) a search of their persons was ordered.—To this the Major consented, but the Colonel protested against it, and even put his hand to his arms. Resistance was useless, and both submitted. When the Major's sword was found upon him these words, 'Lt. W. G. Peters, C. S. A.,' this discovery Col. Baird remarked, 'Gentlemen, you have played this d — d well.' 'Yes,' said Lieut. Peters, and it came near being a perfect success.' They then confessed the whole matter, and upon further search various papers showing their guilt were discovered upon their persons.

Col. Baird telegraphed the facts to Gen. Rosecrans and received an order 'to try them by a drum head court martial, and if found guilty hang them immediately.'—The court was convened and before daylight the case was decided, and the prisoners informed that they must prepare for immediate death by hanging. * *

"The prisoners were visited by the Chaplain of the 78th Illinois, who, upon their request, administered the sacrament to them. They also wrote some letters to their friends, and deposited their jewelry, silver cups, and other valuables, for transmission to their friends.

"The gallows was constructed by a wild cherry tree not far from the depot. Two ropes hung dangling from the beam, reaching within eight feet of the ground. A little after 9 o'clock A. M. the whole garrison was marshalled around the place of execution in solemn sadness. Two poplar coffins were lying a few feet away. Twenty minutes past nine the guards conducted the prisoners to the scaffold. They walked firm and steady, as if unmindful of the fearful precipice which they were approaching. This guards did them the honor to march with arms reversed. Arrived at the place of execution, they stepped upon the platform and took their respective places. They then asked the privilege of bidding a last farewell, which being granted, they tenderly embraced each other. * * *

"In two minutes the Lieutenant ceased to struggle, and the Colonel in five. * * * At twenty minutes all signs of life had ceased. The bodies were unclothed in full dress. * * * Both men were buried in the same grave —companions in life, misfortune and crime, and infamy, and now companions in the grave. * * * * * * * * *

"The elder and leader of these unfortunate men was Lawrence Williams, of Georgetown, D. C. He was one of the most intellectual and accomplished men that I have ever known. I have never known any one who excelled him as a talker. He was a member of the regular army; at that time aide de camp and private Secretary to Gen. Scott. * * * *

He was awhile on Gen. Braggs' staff as chief of artillery, but at the time of his death was his Inspector General. When he entered the Confederate army he changed his name to 'Lawrence W. Orton.' * * * * * * * * *

"The other victim of this delusive and reckless daring was Walter G. Peter, a lieutenant in the rebel army, and Colonel Orton's adjutant. He was a tall, handsome young man about twenty-five years of age, who gave many signs of refinement. Of his history I have been able to get nothing. * * * * * * * * *

"Such is a succinct account of one of the most daring enterprises that men ever engaged in. History will hardly furnish its parallel in the character and standing of the parties, the boldness and daring of the enterprise, and the swiftness with which discovery and punishment were visited upon them. Col. O., who recognized Col. Watkins as soon as he saw him, told him that he barely escaped his life when the arrest was made; that had it been any one else he would have killed him.

"We are sad over this event. There is a gloom upon every face. Although we are fully satisfied that the mission of these men was to plan our destruction, and that even they recognized their punishment as just, according to the accepted rules of war among all nations, still to see such men suffer such a penalty filled our garrison with sadness."

[NOTE.—Colonel L. W. Orton, C. S. A. (formerly W. Orton Williams,) and Lieut. W. Gibson Peter, C. S. A., were both sons of officers of the U. S. Army. The former the son of Capt. Williams, who fell at Monterey. The latter was a son of the late Major Geo. Peter, of Maryland. Col. Orton was in his 25th year, and Lieut. Peter in his 22d.]

Gen. Lee's Intention.

A correspondent of the World at Washington writes:

The real object of the present movement of General Lee is to carry out what he attempted when foiled by McClellan at Antietam. By a glance at the map we see that whoever holds Harper's Ferry and Hagerstown completely stops all communication with the West, and closes the door in that quarter upon all reinforcements and supplies for the peninsula upon which Washington is situated. From Harper's Ferry to Baltimore the distance is but sixty miles, and whatever fate may befall the city itself, if taken by the enemy, the far more important advantage of intercepting the railway between Philadelphia and the peninsula is gained. It is not to be supposed that a sufficient army from the North can be readily armed, equipped and disciplined, and brought to bear upon the enemy to break up his position in time to prevent a still greater disaster. And if his forces be numerically superior to the Army of the Potomac, he can hold it in spite of Gen. Hooker. In the meantime, the rich valleys of Pennsylvania will be open to him; he will neither want forage for his horses nor food for his men. The campaign being successful, the raids succeed and branch forth in every direction. Our own army, being thus cut off will have to depend upon the Chesapeake and the Potomac rivers for all its resources, and a few rebel batteries upon the banks of the latter may effectually close it against transports and all vessels except vessels of war. How is it that Gen. Milroy was not heavily reinforced in time to prevent his being driven back is a question to be answered hereafter, but this disaster may be repaired if the old women in Washington wake and do something before Lee forces his way into their sanctuary through the back door.

J. S.

A MILITARY EXECUTION for the crime of murder took place at Marfreesboro, Tenn., last week. The murderer had been arrested, tried and executed under peculiar circumstances. The murder was committed within the lines of the rebel army, in our front, on, or about the 9th of March last. The murdered party was one Adam Weaver. Selkirk was one of a party of three who seized Weaver and put him to a lingering death in the effort to make him reveal where his money was concealed. The murder was committed in the presence of the daughter of Mr. Weaver. Selkirk was arrested by the rebels and confined in McMinnville.

When Reynolds made a descent on McMinnville he found Shelkirk in jail, waiting his trial—it being indefinitely postponed on account of the witnesses to and from the lines—and brought to Murfreesboro. His trial was immediately had, and two-thirds of the court found him guilty. The sentence was carried into effect yesterday afternoon. The condemned man, in reply to a message from General Thomas, stated he had no date for the post chaplain. He confessed his guilt while in prison, but on the scaffold denied it. He said he was present, but not guilty. The daughter of the murdered man, who has witnessed his murder, stood under the gallows, and at this declaration exclaimed audibly "hear the old liar." Colonel Parkhurst, of the Ninth Michigan, who stood near her, says that as the drop fell, and the man died, she looked on with a smile on her countenance.

A Man Made of Coal.

One of the largest pieces of coal ever brought to Boston, is, says the Transcript, in the image and form of a man—one of the aborigines of the country. It is of full size, as large as life, and complete from head to toe. It is the work of a common miner, who wrought it from a single block of coal, which was taken out of a vein nine feet thick, in one of the coal mines in Pennsylvania. It is an extraordinary specimen of the collier's skill, and of the anthracite of our sister State, being not only highly finished, but presenting every appearance of a statue of solid iron.

Rebel Views of Lee's Movements.

The Richmond Enquirer, of the 13th, furnishes some further particulars of certain significant movements of the Federal forces on the Chickahominy, to which reference was made a few days ago. The editor says:

"What this movement means will doubtless be developed in a few days. In the meantime, our forces in that quarter are on the alert, and will be prepared for any attack. The principal force of the enemy was, at last accounts, at Burnt Ordinary. From reports which have reached the city on yesterday, we understand that the gunboats and vessels above mentioned have ascended the Chickahominy as far up as Windsor Shades—twenty-eight miles from its confluence with the James, and about fifty miles from the city of Richmond.

The disposition of the land force, which is stated at from ten to fifteen thousand strong, did not transpire to us, beyond what we have already given. The proceeding, however, does not bear with it sufficient weight to render it fearful, and we are sufficiently well prepared to repel any serious attack.

A letter from Richmond, of June 2d, in the Atlanta (Ga.) Intelligencer, reports the current rumor that Lee was about to march either for Washington or Philadelphia. The writer says:

"The fortifications at Washington are such as to render it well nigh impregnable. And if General Lee invades Maryland, it is not probable that he will immediately make an attack on the well defended capital of the Union, but upon other places with a view to cut off its supplies, and thus, by stratagem, ultimately compel its surrender."

The Confederate General Ewell.

The Washington Star, speaking of this officer, remarks:

Be Ewell's position what it may, if he is in Maryland at all, and contemplates a raid into Pennsylvania, he will probably strike for Gettysburg, and thence to York, for he is personally perfectly familiar with that country, and knows every foot of ground, having in the early days of railroads, surveyed a route for a railroad from the town of Wrightsville, on the Susquehanna river, through York and Adams counties, to Gettysburg.

PITTSBURGH OIL TRADE.

MONDAY, June 22d, 1863.

Since our last there has been an improvement perceptible in the market, with a few transactions. The difficulty of obtaining receipts from Oil City has improved the confidence of holders, who are demanding a slight advance. The stock in the market is not large.

The present rates may be summed up as follows: Crude in bulk, packages returned, 15½@16½c; sales including the packages, 21@22c.

We notice a slight improvement in the New York market. The embargo on shipments East having been removed oil can go forward as formerly.

The Oil Exchange received the following dispatch:

OIL CITY, June 20th.

There is no oil shipping to Pittsburgh at present. Since one last 3 000 bbls have been shipped East and No th. Prices unchanged. (The last quoted rates were, at the mouth, $4@4 50; up the creek, $3@3 50 per bbl. It is now raining.

Exports East: To Baltimore—Crude, 314 bbls. To New York—Refined, 767 bbls; Benzole, 31 bbls. To Philadelphia—Crude, 91 bbls; Refined, 542 bb's. To Boston—Refined, 56 bbls.

Per P. & Ft. Wayne Railroad: Refined, 201 bbls.

Imports: Per Allegheny River—Crude, 1,125 barrels. Per Ft. Wayne & Chicago Railroad—Refined, 1,774 bbls; Crude, 73 bbls.

Crude—The demand for Crude has improved. The following lots are reported: 400 and 375 bbls at 15¾@16c, the packages to be returned; 250 bbls at 21@22c, packages included; 300 bbls on private terms.

Refined was in better demand. Holders are asking a slight advance. The asking rates in bond were 38@40c; free 48@50c.

Benzole dull; we could hear of no transactions. Prices nominal.

PITTSBURGH PRODUCE MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY POST,
Monday, June 22d, 1863.

Remarks—Business is slightly improved, but the sales were confined to small operations. In fact it was pretty much a retail trade in articles required for local purposes. The storm of Friday afternoon cooled the atmosphere and brought about decidedly pleasant weather. We regret to learn that the hail storm seriously damaged strawberries and other descriptions of fruit. The excitement in regard to the rebel raid is fast disappearing. The preparations for meeting them, should they again make the attempt are progressing finely. The fortifications are being hurried to completion, and are at present in a very forward state. We could learn of no change in Groceries, Fish, Flour or Grain. Butter was a shade lower. Eggs also declined, whilst Cheese advanced 1@2c lb. Dried Fruit, Potatoes and Whisky unchanged.

Philadelphia Hide Market.

The market has been quiet. There have been two small arrivals from South America, but no sales from first hands. The tanners have not come forward to any extent, and sales for actual consumption are limited. Dealers continue to send out dry hides to keep their tanners supplied, as they have declined in price to a greater extent than leather. Green salted domestic stock continues in request and salters are selling at 10¼@11c for steers and 10c@10½c for cows. Light hides are in good demand.

Philadelphia Leather Market.

Trade has generally been quiet. A few Eastern buyers have been looking through the market, but have not purchased to any extent. The actual demand has been mainly for some kinds of army work. Since the commencement of the present week the great excitement in regard to the raid has paralyzed all local business.

PROVISION MARKET.

Cincinnati.

There were sales of several hundred bbls old city-packed mess pork at $9 25, some inquiry, but not much, but results in no transactions that we hear of.

A sale of thirty hhds bacon shoulders at 4½c packed was made; 5c above this is quite untrue. Prices unchanged. Bacon sides bear a nominal quotation little or no attention. Quotations remain as they were.

Lard is in moderate request at 9½c for prime city rendered, but holders stand for ¼c higher.

Wool in Michigan.

During the day we have seen the reports from a number of places where wool has been purchased within the last few days and we find the range has been from 56@60c, some of the lots bringing 57.58 and 60c and others less. The whole average on about 2,000 pounds cut up into about 30 different lots ranging from 25 pounds in quantity to 120 was 63½c.

It is estimated by good judges that there has already been sold 100,000 to 200,000 pounds in this State.

Yet the great mills have not entered the market nor have they employed their usual agents. The Hamilto n Mill, which generally takes out of this State from 500,000 to 1,000,000 lbs, has not given any order to its usual agents. We notice, however, that there are a number of men in Detroit who are canvassing the wool question and who will probably go into the market as quickly as they can locate themselves.

The Philosophic Burner.

HAYDEN'S NEW DOUBLE-ACTING Philosophic Burner for Carbon Oil is now ready. It possesses many advantages over the Common Burners.

1. It makes a large or small light with perfect combustion.
2. It will burn any quantity of oil with safety.
3. It can be used with a long or short chimney.
4. It can be used as a taper night-lamp.
5. It can always be made to burn economically, and
6. It is more easily wicked than any other burner.
7. It can be trimmed and lighted without removing the cone.
8. It throws all the white light above the cone.
9. The chimney can be removed or inserted without touching the glass.

These burners are the common No. 1 size, and can be put on any lamp now in use. Every person using Carbon Oil should have a Philosophic No. 83 FOURTH street, Pittsburgh.
