THE DRAFT—CONSTRUCTION OF THE LAW.

Some substitute brokers are endeavoring to create the impression that those who are drafted, and who elect to pay three of "his countrymen" to give them the hundred dollars, are only relieved from the present draft, and may be drawn again in a few weeks. An advertisement of the points of his speech:

Provost Marshal would seem to admit this

He wished it distinctly understood that construction of the law. But I venture to as to the ends to be attained by this revoaffirm that there is not a man in the country except these Brokers and the Draft Commissioners who entertain such an opinion. It is an unwarranted and unfair construction of the law, as will be seen by an examination of it. The law is as fol-
