And will positively prevent Yellow Fever, Bilious Fever, &c.

THEY CONTAIN NO ALCOHOL OR RAW WHISKY

They will cure the above diseases in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred.

Induced by the extensive sale and universal popularity of Hoofland's German Bitters, (purely vegetable) hosts of ignorant quacks and unscrupulous scamp-burners, have opened upon suffering humanity the flood gates of Nostrums in the shape of rot-gut whisky, vilely compounded with injurious drugs, and christened Tonics, Stomachics and Bitters.

Beware of the innumerable array of alcoholic preparations in plethoric bottles, and big-bellied kegs, under the modest appellation of Bitters; which, instead of curing only aggravate diseases and leave the disappointed sufferers in despair.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS!

Are not a new and untried article, but have stood the test of fifteen years trial by the American public; and their reputation and sale are continually augmented by any similar preparation.

The proprietor has thousands of Letters from the most eminent

Clergymen, Lawyers, Physicians and Citizens,

Testifying of their own personal knowledge, to the beneficial effects and medical virtues of these Bitters.

DO YOU WANT SOMETHING to STRENGTHEN you?
DO YOU WANT A GOOD APPETITE?
DO YOU WANT TO BUILD UP YOUR CONSTITUTION?
DO YOU WANT TO FEEL WELL?
DO YOU WANT TO GET RID OF HER VOUS NESS?
DO YOU WANT ENERGY?
Do you want to sleep well?
Do you want a drink and vigorous feeling?

If you do, use

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.

PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There are many preparations sold under the name of Bitters, put up in quart bottles, compounded of the cheapest whisky or common rum, costing from 20 to 40 cents per gallon, also taste disguised by Anise or Coriander Seed.

The class of bitters has caused and will continue to cause, as long as they can be sold, hundreds to die the death of the drunkard. By their use the system is kept continually under the influence of Alcoholic Stimulants of the worst kind, the desire for Liquor is created and kept up, and the results are all the horrors attendant upon a drunkard's life and death.

For those who desire and will have a Liquor Bitters, we publish the following receipt. Get One Bottle Hoofland's German Bitters, and mix with Three Quarts of Good Brandy or Whisky, and the result will be a preparation that will far excel in medicinal virtues and true excellence any of the numerous Liquor Bitters in the market, and will cost much less. You will have all the virtues of Hoofland's Bitters in connection with a good article of Liquor, and at much less price than these inferior preparations will cost you.

ATTENTION SOLDIERS,

AND THE FRIENDS OF SOLDIERS

We call the attention of all having relations or friends in the army to the fact that "HOOFLAND'S German Bitters" will cure nine tenths of the diseases induced by exposures and privations incident to camp life. In the lists, published almost daily in the newspapers, on the arrival of the sick, it will be noticed that a very large proportion are suffering from debility. Every case of that kind can be readily cured by Hoofland's German Bitters. Diseases resulting from disorders of the digestive organs are speedily removed. We have no hesitation in stating that, if these Bitters were freely used among our soldiers hundreds of lives might be saved, that otherwise will be lost.

We call particular attention to the following remarkable and well authenticated cure of one of the nation's heroes, whose life, to use his own language "has been saved by the Bitters":

PHILADELPHIA, August 2d, 1862.

Messrs. Jones & Evans—Well, gentlemen, your Hoofland's German Bitters has saved my life. There is no mistake in this. It is vouched for by numbers of my comrades, some of whose names are appended, and who were fully cognizant of all the circumstances of my case. I am, and have been for the last four years, a member of Sherman's celebrated battery, under the immediate command of Capt. R. B. Ayres. Through the exposure attendant upon my arduous duties, I was attacked in November last with inflammation of the lungs, and was for seventy two days in the hospital. This was followed by great debility, heightened by an attack of dysentery. I was then removed from the White House and sent to this city on board the steamer "State of Maine," from which I landed on the 28th of June. Since that time I have been about as low as any one could be and still retain a spark of vitality. For a week or more I was scarcely able to swa low anything, and if I did force a morsel down, it was immediately thrown up again.

I could not even keep a glass of water on my stomach. Life could not last under these circumstances; and, accordingly the physicians who had been working so hard, though unsuccessfully, to rescue me from the grasp of the dread Archer, frankly told me they could do no more for me, and advised me to see a clergyman, and to make such disposition of my limited funds as best suited me. An acquaintance who visited me at the hospital, Mr. Frederick Steinbrom, of 6th below Arch Street, advised me as a forlorn hope, to try your Bitters and kindly procured a bottle. From the time I commenced taking them the shadow of death receded, and I am now, thank God for it, getting better. Though I have taken but two bottles, I have gained 10 pounds, and feel sanguine of being permitted to rejoin my wife and daughter, from whom I have heard nothing for eight or ten months; for, gentleman, I am a loyal Virginian, from the vicinity of Front Royal. To your invaluable Bitters I owe this glorious privilege of again clasping to my bosom those who are dearest to me in life.

Very truly, yours, ISAAC MALONE.

We fully concur in the truth of the above statement, as we had despaired of seeing our comrade, Mr. Malone, restored to health.

DAILY POST.

A Royal Marriage.

We presume that Napoleon III occasionally turns his thoughts to history.—We know, indeed, that he has for a long time been engaged upon a life of Julius Cæsar, which, when published is to procure him a seat in the Academy of Paris; but in speaking of history just now we refer more particularly to that of the ancient royal family of France, the illustrious descendants from Hugues Capet, who, in the tenth century of our era, put an end to the Carlovingian dynasty and established himself on the throne of Clovis. Among the princes of the house of Capet are found some of the greatest names of France—statesmen and warriors as well as kings. Philip Augustus, St. Louis, Philip of Valois, Louis II, Francis I, Henry IV, Louis XIV, stands pre-eminently forward as the representatives of la grande nation in different ages, while the collateral branches of the Capetian line mingled with almost all the ancient and illustrious families of the land, so that it would be hard to say where the royal blood is not to be found, unless it be the parvenue noblesse created by the first Napoleon. No "gentle blood," or gentle manners either, are to be traced in the Neys, Davousts and Soults of the empire, with which Louis Philippe treated his fellow-citizens. The guillotine had done its work with the Montmorencys, the Lamballes, the Crevecœurs, of olden times, and emigration saved a remnant to remind France in subsequent years of what she had once possessed—the most splendid nobility of Europe. Sitting on a throne which owes its existence to the guillotine and the sword, and which is virtually maintained by the bayonet—though that weapon is not yet actually pointed at the breast of every Frenchman who dares to utter aspirations for a higher order of things than the état actuel—Napoleon III cannot but feel the indifference the accounts of what, from time to time, befals the ancient line which his successful family dethroned. On the contrary, we fear that he is actuated by a very vindictive feeling against that family.—Certainly, one of the most atrocious acts he has committed was the confiscation of the property of the Orleans princes; and his crescent anger at the pamphlet of the Prince de Joinville—wherein the terrible question was put, "What have you done with France?"—sufficiently attests the virus that animates the imperial breast.

With what feelings, then, will he read the account of the recent marriage of the Duke de Chartres, the second son of the late Duke of Orleans, with his cousin, the Princess Francoise d'Orleans, daughter of the Prince de Joinville, which took place under very interesting circumstances on the 12th of June, at Kingston upon Thames, near London? How will he relish the fact that not only all the members of the ex-royal family and many of the ancient nobility of France, but the royal family of England and the representatives of most of the royal families of Europe, assisted at the ceremony? Queen Victoria has been very kind to the Empress Eugenie, and on many occasions has given her friendly sympathy and advice; in fact, she gave her a position among the crowned heads of Europe, by inviting her to Windsor Castle as an honored guest, when the courts of Austria, Russia, and even Sardinia, were disposed to regard both her and her husband as parvenus.—Nevertheless, long before Eugenie de Montijo was thought of, the Queen had extended her hospitality to the refugee king Louis Phillippe d'Orleans, and had given to him and his family a home in the royal palace of Claremont, a delightful retreat situate near the Thames, about eighteen miles from London, and within an easy ride of Windsor Castle. There the venerable monarch ended his days, and there his still more venerable widow yet resides; there his sons, the Dukes of Nemours, Aumale and Montpensier and the Prince de Joinville, have reared their families, and have made themselves respected and beloved by the neighborhood. The royal family of England have steadily maintained the most friendly relations with them, and though her Majesty's intimacy with them was at one time the subject of diplomatic protest on the part of the present Emperor of the French, it could not be shaken even by the ill concealed anger of that potentate. The excessive lenity with which Louis Phillippe treated his treasonable attempts at Strasburg had failed to obliterate the dislike he entertained towards the Orleans family, and the subsequent recognition of their rights to consideration and hospitality has been a source of perpetual annoyance to him.—Let us glance at the report of the ceremony given in the London Times, and then imagine whether Napoleon III has derived much satisfaction from it—bearing in mind that the Orleans princes have steadily refused to acknowledge him as the rightful ruler of France.

The ceremony was performed at the chapel of St. Raphael, at Kingston upon-Thames, by the Roman Catholic bishop of Southwark. The following members of the Orleans family were present. The Duchess of Saxe Coburg, with her two sons, the Princes Philippe and Augustus; the Duke de Nemours, with his two daughters; the Duke and Duchess d'Aumale; the Duke de Montpensier; Prince Philip of Wurtemberg; Prince Edward of Saxe Weimar; the Prince of Leiningen; the venerable Marie Amelie, with her grandsons, the Count of Paris and the Duke de Chatres, the (bridegroom,) and lastly the Prince and Princess de Joinville, with their daughter, (the bride.) In attendance on them were the following representatives of ancient French noble houses: The Marquis de Chanpabilles; the Marquis d'Harcourt, the Count Louis de Segur, the Count de Segur, the Count de Beauvoir, Count Montesquieu, the Count de Chabannes, the Marquis Bouille, the Count de Flers, the Count de Jarnac, the Vicount Daru, the Marquis de Fontanelles and many others of the ancienne noblesse which is one day to take the place of the Persignys, De Morbys, Flahaults and the like corp of adventurers at the Tuileries, unless the universal suffrage which will sweep away the Emperor should restore the revolution pure et simple, and establish liberty, equality and fraternity. We mention the historical names, not from any special admiration of the deeds of the owners of them, but to show that a very powerful and influential party clings around the princes of the House of Orleans. With all their inspirations, With all their aspirations after liberty, the French are fond of the great names of their nobility, and take special delight in sneering at the imperial creations who now occupy the place of them. But in addition to the testimony of respect thus offered to all of the French princes, the Austrian and Prussian ambassadors and the Belgian, Hanoverian; Bavarian, Italian, Portuguese, Saxon and Spanish Ministers were present. Altogether the wedding was a very brilliant affair; and who knows but it may one day be of political importance.

The Imprisonment of Henry Clay Dean—Letters from His Wife and Mother.

The following letters speak for themselves, and they require no comment whatever:

KEOKUK, IOWA, May 30, 1863.

To the Editor of the Chicago Times:

Many inquiries are made relative to my husband, who is now in the military prison at Keokuk, Iowa. I think it proper that I send this brief note to the public. I am sure that he has violated no law of the land, constitutional, statutory, or even military, either directly or by connivance. His arrest is the work of vindicative violent men. His mind is unalterably fixed to surrender no iota of principles even at the point of death. His wife, his children, and all his friends are proud that he is even in prison, as constant in maintaining his principles as he was bold in announcing them when at liberty.

The officers of the guard and his officers have shown a commendable kindness and generous feel very grateful, being, as he is, in bad health at this time. My own feeling are fitly expressed, and find a just response in the bosom of my husband, in the following letter of his mother, who is in her seventy years of age. It gives fairly and truly the animus of the mother, the son, and the wife.

Very respectfully,
CHRISTINA M. DEAN,
Wife of Henry Clay Dean.

MT. PLEASANT, IOWA, May 23, 1863.

HENRY CLAY DEAN—My Dear Son:—Have you transgressed any law of the land, violated any constitutional duty?—If you have not, then you are innocent before God and man. You have nothing to do but yourself to surrender. I beseech you to stand firm upon Democratic principles, on the Constitution, and be true to yourself, to God, to your country. Waver not. Though the winds may howl, though rain and floods may come and beat against that house, it falleth not, because it is founded on a rock. Though not worthy to be compared to our blessed redeemer, yet let us imitate him. Though drops of blood oozed through His brow, yet His truth yielded nothing.

Remember, "The Cross shall wear the Crown!" Though guarded, like yourself by a band of soldiers, when the triumphant hour came, the angel of God bowed down and worshiped him.

Now, Henry, stand by the priciples you have preached:

"The Constitution as it is, the Union as it was."

Put your trust in God and truth. God is above all, and truth is eternal.

Thousands are daily praying for you, and numbers who are now your friends who, but for your innocent suffering, would not have been so.

I am your affectionate, dear mother, and though I tremble with age, my love of truth, and my love of justice has induced me to try to write these lines. God bless you.

JEMIMA DEAN.

Novel Case of Arrest.

A citizen of Woodville, Prince George's county, Md., named Wm. Wood Worthington, was arrested a few days ago, by military guards, while punishing one of his slaves. The soldiers requested him to cease punishing the negro, and Worthington asked them by what authority they interfered, saying if it was from Washington he would comply. The soldiers, however, could not show such authority, and, as Mr. Worthington then refused to heed their demands, they arrested him and took him to Washington. The case has been referred to the War Department, and the prisoner meanwhile is paroled.

ALLEGHENY LIVE STOCK MARKET

Allegheny City, July 18th.

The market during the week was dull, buyers were shy and took hold very sparingly. The market in New York was not held during the present week, on account of the riots; hence we are without our report of that market.

Cattle—There was little or no change in the rates; sales were made at 2½@5c per pound.

The receipts at the Morgan House Yard were:

	Last week.	This week
Hogs	650	460
Cattle	1,250	1,474
Sheep	1,300	1,414
Horses	338	459

Cattle—The market during the week was very dull, the sales being limited; the yards seem to have been deserted. The news of the destruction of Allerton's mills's Head in New York put a stop to sales in these parts, at least so far as mules in Eastern account was concerned. Among the sales made we note the following: J. Saxon, of Salem, Ohio, sold 84 head of 2 and fair cows at $45 per cwt. C. Thompson, of Chicago, sold 85 head; the terms were withheld. P. R. Head, of Salem, Ohio, sold 38 head at $4 12½ per cwt. R. D. Sheridan, of Athen, Ohio, sold 14 head at $4 75@5 cwt. and 10 head at $5 75 per cwt. H. Hultzman, of Chicago, sold 67 head at $3@4 per cwt. H. Marks sold 18 head at the same figures. W. Marks sold 13 head at 2½@3½c ₱ lb. Trouerman & Marks sold 150 head at prices ranging from 3½, 4, 4½@5½c ₱ lb.

Sheep—The market during the week was very dull, in fact the season is over, so that the sales for the present will be composed of a few chance lots that may arrive. A few hundred head were disposed of at prices ranging from $4 00@5.00 per cwt, that being the extreme range.

Sheep—The receipts were about the same as the previous week. The sales were only in a small way at 3½@3¾c per lb. The supply was fully equal to the demand.

Lambs—The receipts were on the increase; sales of small lots at prices ranging from $1 25@$2.10 per head.

Horses—The receipts are on the increase; buyers were shy. The numbers that changed hands ranged from 123 per head.

4. It can be used as a taper night-lamp.

CRESSON SPRINGS.

THIS DELIGHTFUL SUMMER RESort, immediately on the line of the Central Pa. R., located on the Summit of the Allegheny Mountains, 2,300 feet above the level of the sea, will be open for the reception of visitors on the 10th of June, 1863, and will be kept open until the first of October.

The water and air at this point possess superior attractions. The analyses made in the laboratory of Professors Booth, Garrett, and Camac, of Philadelphia, show the existence of valuable mineral elements, the waters of some of the springs being of the iron or chalybeate class, and and others containing saline or aperient salts. Pure mountain water abounds; and the guests will also be supplied with mineral waters from other springs, such as Bitu Lick, Bedford and Saratoga Waters.

Ample facilities for bathing have been provided, new plunges and douch baths erected, and Hot and Cold Baths can at all times
