RECONCILIATION AND RE-CONSTRUCTION.

. The Pittsburgh Gazette was always most malignant and impracticable journal, but since it has abandoned its leading editorial column to the control of an egotist, whose vanity is only equalled by his fanaticism, it has become an organ of mere malice and personal abuse. The discontented gentleman, who has, for some time been airing his personal griev. ances through that quarter, it seems to us, quite overleaps his mark. His minute account of the corruption of certais parties in the State, and his whining over the fact of his being excluded from participating in certain legislative investigations, smacks mation at an early hour.

of disappointment, coming from one who is reatless with the acute sensation of "an itching palm." But this being none of our, or our party's business, we will purshe it no further.
