Induced by the extensive sale and universal popularity of Hoofland's German Bitters, (purely vegetable) hosts of ignorant quacks and unscrupulous adventurers, have opened upon suffering humanity the flood-gates of Nostrums in the shape of poor whisky, vilely compounded with injurious drugs and christened Tonics, Stomachics and Bitters.

Beware of the innumerable array of alcoholic preparations in plethoric bottles, and big-bellied kegs, under the modest appellation of Bitters; which, instead of curing only aggravates diseases and leave the disappointed sufferers in despair.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS

Are not a new and untried article, but have stood the test of fifteen years trial by the American public, and their reputation and sale, are not rivalled by any similar preparation.

We call particular attention to the following remarkable and well authenticated cure of one of the nation's heroes, whose life, to use his own language has been saved by the Bitters:"

PHILADELPHIA, August 23d, 1862.

Messrs. Jones & Evans.—Well, gentlemen, your Hoofland's German Bitters has saved my life. There is no mistake in this. It is vouched for by numbers of my comrades, some of whose names are appended, and who were fully cognizant of all the circumstances of my case. I am, and have been for the last four years, a member of Sherman's celebrated battery, under the immediate command of Capt. R. B. Ayres. Through the exposure attendant upon my arduous duties, I was attacked in November last with inflamation of the lungs, and was for seventy two days in the hospital. This was followed by great debility, heightened by an attack of dysentery. I was then removes from the White House and sent to this city on board the steamer "State of Maine," from which I landed on the 20th of June. Since that time I have been about as low as any one could be and still retain a spark of vitality. For a week or more I was scarcely able to swallow anything, and if I did force a morsel down, it was immediately thrown up again.

I could not even keep a glass of water on my stomach. Life could not last under these circumstances; and, accordingly the physicians who had been warning all along, thought unsuccessfully, to rescue me from the grasp of the dread Archer, frankly told me they could do no more for me, and I resigned myself to see a clergyman, and to make such disposition of my limited funds as best suited me. An acquaintance who visited me at the hospital, Mr. Frederick Steinbron, of 6th below Arch Street, advised me as a forlorn hope, to try your Bitters and kindly procured a bottle. From the time I commenced taking them the shadow of death receded, and I am now, thank God for it, getting better. Though I have taken but two bottles, I have gained 10 pounds, and feel assured of being permitted to rejoin my wife and daughter, from whom I have heard nothing for eighteen months, for, gentleman I am a loyal Virginian, I'm the vicinity of Front Royal. To your invaluable Bitters I owe the glorious privilege of again clasping to my bosom those who are dearest to me in life.

Very truly, yours, ISAAC MALONE.

We fully concur in the truth of the above statement, as we had despaired of seeing our comrade, Mr. Malone, restored to health.

DAILY POST.

The Escape of General Lee—Probability of a War with England and France.

WASHINGTON, July 26, 1863.

To-day has been unusually quiet. The heated term is at its climax. The streets, the churches and places of public resort, wear the appearance of a deserted village. The only rumor in circulation eliciting comments is the final and unexpected escape of Lee's army from the meshes spread for it by General Meade. This occasions bitter disappointment, as it necessitates a new campaign, and defers indefinitely the close of the war, which was fondly believed to be near at hand. It is now argued among the military savants here that the rebel leaders will concentrate in Virginia their whole available military force, for a last grand struggle, hoping to be able to crush the Union Army of the Potomac and again menace Washington.

The escape of Lee is more particularly regretted, as by prolonging the war against the rebellion it postpones the reckoning to which there is reason to believe that the government here intends to call either France or England, or both of them for their recent conduct. The policy in this respect has undoubtedly been fully determined on, and only the fitting opportunity is waited for to recognize in the covert hostility of France and England the casus belli which will warrant us in turning again them the united armies and navies of the whole country.

Shrewd observers here, who are actuated more by patriotism than partisanship, aver that this is the only course by which the disunited fragments of the Union can ever be completely consolidated. Many of the most influential men of the country are urging upon the administration the adoption of the policy advocated by the Herald. They advise that whenever the rebel army in Virginia is vanquished, the government shall treat the rebellion as ended, and, without talking about subjugation or political considerations of any description, shall present to the armies of the South an indorsement to follow the old flag of our country to more glorious encounter with foreign foes, and thus practically bring the North and South together again in one common cause.—N. Y. Herald.

The Surrender of Vicksburg.

(From the Richmond Examiner, July 20.)

The capitulation of Vicksburg though in the minds of military men an event inevitable, since the day when Grant lodged his army in the rear of Vicksburg, by surprising and routing the divided and badly handled forces of Pemberton, has nevertheless disappointed the expectations of all. It was not to be supposed that any single position so wedged in between rivers as Vicksburg could withstand to the end a power combined from every available resource of the enemy, and concentrated with every military appliance of modern invention against it. when the investment was finally completed. Sooner or later the place thus invested and beset must have fallen. The besieging army, protected in front by the Mississippi and in the rear by the Big Black, drawing supplies from the great stream, and having undisputed command of its navigation, was in condition to defy successful assault from the rear. The confederate general sent there when the campaign was lost, not to relieve the town but to relieve Pemberton, might have thrown away an army in such an effort; and after its failure might, while the enemy should march unopposed through those great states, have saved the reputation of a hero at the expense of thousands of lives vainly lost, and an army unavailingly destroyed. Though unexcusable may assail and defame, him, he has the all-sufficient answer that an army is yet preserved for the defense of Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia.

The reasonable cause for disappointment is, not that Vicksburg capitulated, but that she did not first exhibit more of that heroic determination and that spirit of desperate endurance which marked the more celebrated sieges of ancient and modern times, the particular day chosen for the surrender was at least ungracious. Better that it should have been on the 3d or 5th of July than on the 4th. Why should the calamity have been aggravated to the South by such a selection of the day on which it should take place? The more intelligent minds of the Confederacy had long been reconciled to the idea that Vicksburg must fall; but the whole pride of the south was engaged in the expectation that the siege of Vicksburg would ever constitute the subject of the most heroic chapter in the history of the war. Whoever shall read the narratives of the great sieges of history, will recur to the transaction at Vicksburg with extreme mortification.

The Southern soldier has vindicated his unsurpassed valor on many fields; but are we, indeed, devoid of that fortitude under prolonged trial, and that patience and power of endurance which, at times, constitute such important elements of heroism, and which are the qualities so persistently denied us by our enemies.

Claimants for Exemption.

The Louisville Democrat observes:

"There were quite a number of applicants for exemption yesterday, a great many of whom succeeded in obtaining the necessary documents on the ground that they were rheumatic, spavined, hipshod, crippled, blind, consumptive, gouty, cross-eyed, tongue-tied, old bachelors, and a thousand other causes too numerous to mention, were presented to the

REQUIEM.

TO MY LITTLE DAUGHTER.

Not with tears, though musing thoughtful,
Where the summer's roses twine,
Now I lay thee, darling Syrie,
In the loveliest burial shrine—
Not with tears, because 'twas better
That thy life's sinless soul
Fro a stain of earth was on it,
Found the stainless angel-goal!

Thou wert lovely 'mid the lovely,
Therefore in thine own sweet night
Thou dost take thy baby-slumber
When the fairest flowers unite;
Where the requiem shall be whispered
From the trees by south winds stirred,
While a silver answer ripples
From the sinless little bird.

O my precious baby-darling,
Here my mother takes her sleep:
O how sweet 'twill be at twilight
Over ye to lean and weep—
Weep through all my lonesome hours,
That I may be doomed to roam
For long years before I'll join ye
In your whi te celestial home!

Nor alone, my dear, lort treasure,
Shall re'remembrance be mine:
Here thy sweet souled aunt and mother
Will the votive roses twine:
Ah, as they bend o'er th slumber,
Under Heaven's cloudless blue,
Will they not, my darling daughter,
Bless the lonely father, too?

Rest thee mother, rest thee, daughter,
Mia this fragrant rosy glow;
Wrast in that seraphic slumber
That the sinless can y know!
Rest ye till the seals are broken,
And, with recognizing eyes,
Mothers, daughter, aunt and father
Hail each other in the skies!

Immense Westward Emigration.

A letter from near Omaha city Nebraska, to the Milwaukie News, says: "There are nine hundred wagons going through to to the mines. There is also a government escort of one hundred cavalry going through with them. The roads are covered with wagons most of the time, some going to Pike's Peak and others to Washington Territory, California and Oregon. Most of the teams now are ox teams. A horse train, consisting of about twelve hundred wagons, is about three hundred miles ahead."

Vessels on the Lakes.

The immense amount of capital invested in the commerce of our great lakes is hardly realized by the public outside of business circles immediately interested in the trade. The following statement of sail and steam vessels now engaged in this business is compiled from the Marine Register for the present year, just issued by the board of lake underwriters: Steamers 134; propellers and tugs 253; barks and barquentines 191; brigs and brigantines 79; schooners 1,030; sloops 14; barges 60, Total, 1,761.

A Novelty in Rebeldom.

A letter from one L. B. McFarland, written from Shelbyville, Tennessee, to his mother, in acknowledgment of the receipt of a package of clothing, gives this highly important information: "When I opened the parcel some of the boys remarked that's the first shirt-tail I've seen in twelve months." Perhaps it was true. None of the Confederate shirts have tails; cloth is too scarce; so with money. A shirt with tails is indeed a rarity."

An Unfortunate Conscript.

The Hartford Courier says, that a gentleman is now in that city who was drafted in Boston. He furnished a substitute, paying a good price, and the fellow ran off; hired another substitute, and he skedaddled. Not liking such luck he concluded to go himself, and went before the officers for that purpose, but the Board of Enrollment threw him out on account of debility.

PITTSBURGH OIL TRADE.

Wednesday, July 29th, 1863.

We have to notice a steady demand for the various descriptions, especially for crude. The demand so far has exceeded the supply, notwithstanding the heavy receipts of the past few days. As usual there is a good deal of oil changing hands the terms of which will never get into the papers. The range of figures will not vary, however, from the published rates.

Our latest dates from New York report a slight decline in crude. This, however, will not have any effect, as, from present appearances, our refiners require all that is on hand for refining. The prices of crude there were 31c. Demand was limited.

The receipts at present are difficult to report correctly. For example, the amount that landed at our city amounted to, Refined, 2,297 bbls; Crude, 175 bbls, while the amount that was landed at tanks above the city was 1,100 bbls.

The exports East were moderate, but as we are not at need to give the number of bbls our readers will have to guess at them. The exports West per Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne and Chicago R. R. were, Refined, 956, Crude, 58 bbls.

Crude—There was a good demand yesterday All parce's offered found ready purchasers at full rates, whi at some holders were looking for an advance. We did not learn of any sales above 20¾c, the prevailing figure being 10¾c, without packages; sales with the packages at 25c. The majority of the sales were made without the packages. Among them we note 200 bbls without packages at 20¾c; 162 bbls do, 20¾c, 50 bbls do, 21c, some dealers refusing to sell unless that figure was obtained; 120 bbls, packages included, 26c.

Refined—We have no change to note in the little doing. We quote nominally at 44c. 5c bonded, 1@45c. Sales for future delivery at various prices.

PITTSBURGH PRODUCE MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY POST,
Wednesday, July 29, 1863.

Remarks—Our rivers continue to recede, so that navigation will soon be at an end unless we have a further rise, of which there is no prospect at present. The steamer J. R. Gilmore cleared for St. Louis yesterday with a fair number of passengers and the freight she could carry The demand for the leading articles was limited and the business of a purely local character. Hay—The demand exceeds the supply. Prices rule very high. Bacon—Holders are endeavoring to establish an advance, and have in a measure succeeded. Most dea ers want ¼ to ½ higher figures It looks as if they would succeed, the stock not being large. Flour—We have no change to note, sales for weeks past being of the most limited description. Prices quoted weeks since would answer on the present occasion.

Flour continues to drag along slowly, sales being few and between We never saw less disposition to operate than at the present time. The stock in first hands being only limited, help to maintain the present prices. Extra, $5 25@5 50; Extra Family, $5@6 25 as to quality. There is no export demand at present. Rates of wheat flour are very irregular and difficult to quote correct y.

Butter in steady demand; sales of 800 lbs at 15@16c.

Eggs—Sales 5 bbls at 11c. The export demand has fallen off. The demand was not large.

Dried Fruit—The market was inactive. We note sales 75 bush Apples, $1 20@1 30; Peaches, 100 bush at $2 70@2 80.

Bacon—Holders continue firm and are not disposed to sell unless at a slight advance. Among the sales were 5,000 lbs shoulders, 7½@8¾c; 5,000 lbs plain hams 9@9½c; 2,000 lbs sides, 9¾@9¾c; 1,200 lbs S C hams 12¾@12¾c; canvassed hams, 10½c.

Dried Beef—The market is very bare. The stock on hand will only admit of small transactions at 14c an advance.

Whisky—The demand is improving. Sales of 40 bbls were made at 45½@46c for City Rectified.

Cheese—continues active; sales 90 boxes at a variety of prices, viz: 9, 10@10½c.

Groceries—are firm in fair request with a regular trade demand. Among the sales we note:

Coffee—Sales 30 sacks Rio at 31@32c. The supply is ample.

Molasses—sales of 11 bbls new at 60c. 5 do old 56c.

Sugar—Sales 10 hhds P Rico 12¼@13¾c; 10 do Orleans, 13c. 10 bbls crushed, 15¾@16c.

Baltimore Coffee Market.

There has been a better inquiry for Rio, chiefly for other markets, but the extreme views of holders have checked business. Transactio s reported have been confined to some 500 bags at 26@ 30c per lb, as to quality. No movement of importance has transpired in other descriptions. Stock of Rio in first hands, 14,000 bags.

PROVISION MARKET.

Cincinnati.

The buoyancy in Provisions continues and holders put up prices materially. Old mess pork sold at $10 and at the close holders asked $10 12. A leading demand for bacon shoulders, and all to be had at 6½c sales are taken; holders at the close as long 6c and upward. Plain hams advanced to 10c, and sugar-cured to 11½@12c. Bulk meats were held at 5½c sales to be for shoulders and sides. We did not hear much said about lard, but it is held firmly and 10c talked of as a probable fig by holders.

are now prepared to fill all orders for Fire and Water Proof Felt, Cement and Gravel Roofing.

Promptly and Satisfactorily.

Mr. Olidden having been in the employment of H. M. WARREN & CO., and their successors, in Philadelphia, for eight years, where he learned all the mechanical departments of their business, and has made valuable improvements of his own, we can positively say that our Roofing is as those of that firm, and that we will guarantee our work to be equal in every respect to any Gravel, Felt and Cement Roofs put on by other firms in this city, or in the United States. There is no patent for the Warren Roof, or any of the materials composing it.

Composed of the Same Materials

The Philosophic Burner.

HAYDEN'S NEW DOUBLE-ACTING Philosophic Burner for Carbon Oil is now ready. It possesses many advantages over the Common Burners,

1. It makes a large or small light with perfect combustion.
2. It will burn any quantity of oil with safety.
3. It can be used with a long or short chimney.
4. It can be used as a tar-per night-lamp.
5. The usual wick may be made to burn economically
6. It is more easily wicked than any other burner.
7. It can be trimmed and lighted without removing the cone.
8. It throws all the white light above the cone.
9. The chimney can be removed or inserted without touching the glass.

These burners are the common No. 2 size, and can be put on any lamp now in use. Every person using Carbon Oil should have a Philosophic Burner. Price 30 cents per dozen $2. Sold at No. 122 FOURTH street, Pittsburgh.
