in the townships between the hours of 3 and 5 o'clock p. m. THOMAS FARLEY, Chairman.

THE CONSCRIPTION ACT. It is now stated that the Administration intends resorting to another conscription, the present having failed to furnish the number of men required for its purposes. There are already soldiers enough in the field to utterly crush what remains of the rebellion, but this, it appears, is not ex actly the purpose of the Administration. The war is to be lengthened out in order to insure negro emancipation; to effect this, and not the restoration of the Union, the President desires only "three hundred thousand more."

In the Senate of the United States in the winter of 1862, Senator Wilson, Chairbody, in a speech upon the strength of the army, remarked:

Office, and urged upon the Department to stop recruiting in every part of the country." "We have had the promise that it should be done" I believe we have to-day 150,000 more men under These remarks were made about eighteen months since, and about the same time one of the most acute of the Abolition Senators, Mr. Fessenden, of Maine, said: "In every State of the Union there are men who are paid from month to month not called into the field for the reason that the Government has no occasion to use them; and yet no step is taken to disband these men. Why not disband them if they are not wanted?" "We have 250.000 wore than we ever intended to have." It is extravagance of the most wanton kind." "I offered a proposition to stop all enlistments."

In addition to these remarks going to prove that our armies were entirely too large, we have the following, delivered about the same time by Thaddeus Stevens, hundred thousand men, march to the Canchairman of the Committee of Ways and ada line and escort Val. to the capital. Means, in which he declared the government, under such extravagance, would be unable to sustain itself six months. He remarked: "We shall have to appropriate more than six hundred million dollars without the addition of We shall have to appropriate more than six hundred million dellars without the addition of a single dollar beyond what is estimated for Now, sir, that in itself is alarming. I confess I do not see how, unless the expenses are greatly curtaited, this Government can possibly go on six months. If we go on as we have been dring the thances not only of the Government but of the whole country must give way, and the people will be involved in one eneral bankruptcy and rain. We have already in the field an army of six hundred and sixty thousand men, &c."

About the time these emphatic declarations were made in Congress, General McClellan started upon his campaign! against Richmond. Before preparing for the final blow which was to insure the for McDowell's division. The President grade beyond redemption the nation strengthened, when within a few miles of the rebel capital, there is no doubt that on the fourth of July, one year ago, the stars and strings would have been that the stars and strings would have been that the stars and strings would have been that the stars are started to do anything more than for a few moments to the stars and strings would have been that the started to do anything more than for a few moments to the started to do anything more than for a few moments to the started to do anything more than for a few moments to frighten Horace Greeley white, has just been condemned to a heavy fine and long imprisonment. The ribters of 1854 were and stripes would have been planted avowed Republicans, and Republican justice rewarded them with honor and with of Richmond. But this is precisely what the Abolitionists didn't want.of emancipating the slaves of the South, and in order to accomplish their designs Destruction of Rebel Property hostilities had to be prolonged. The policy inaugurated at that early day, to pro long the war, has been pursued ever since. Abolitionism has rejoiced over our detests, because they were calculated to in the march from Vicksburg to Jackson people are crying out to be restored to have been safe. Such a destruction of the Union. Where then is the necessity property I never saw before." of enforcing monstrous acts of conscriptions for three hundred thousand more men to fight an enemy already prostrated and willing to return to their allegiance? I is as we have stated, for the purpose of reducing the Southern States to deropulated territories; and destroying in them all political power. This, together with

Mr. Webster at an early day penetrated the ultimate effect of the spirit of Abolitionism upon the country, did it ever succeed to power. He said :

Our exposition of the Pittsburgh Gazette's theory that "a few more general Preparing for the Grand Bomtions" are necessary to qualify Americans for the proper performance of their public duties, while at the same time, it is laboring for the immediate emancipation and equality of the blacks, has thrown it into a fit of genuine Abolition rage. On Saturday afternoon it gave us the following broadside, in a sentence of eighteen lines:

broadeide, in a sentence of eighteen likes:

"That any Abolitionist—leader or otherwise—at this or any other time, has monitorized "negro equality" or "aimsignmation," insisting that both races would be improved thereby, is so disgusting a falsehood, such utter mendacity, that any man guilty of asserting it by that action, pur's himself outside the pale of common decency: and unless the exhibition of such traits of character as this article indicates shall stagger our convictions on this point, we ne er can be brought to believe this theory, which the linagination of the writer puts forth—although we are willing to admit now, our own belief, that as anexceptional case, "the "admixture" would prove a great improvement to the "capabilities" and character of the autoof the above extract."
