ATTENTION SOLDIERS, AND THE FRIENDS OF SOLDIERS
We call the attention of all having relations or friends in the army to the fact that "HOOF-LAND'S German Bitters" will cure nine tenths of the diseases induced by exposures and privations incident to camp life. In the lists, published almost daily in the newspapers, on the arrival of the sick, it will be noticed that a very large proportion are suffering from debility. We have no hesitation in stating that, if these Bitters were freely used among our soldiers hundreds of lives might be saved, that otherwise will be lost.

We call perticular attention to the following remarkable and well authenticated cure of one of he nation's horoes, whose life, to use his own ang usge has been saved by the Bitters."

PHILADELPHIA AURUST 22d, 1862. AND THE FRIENDS OF SOLDIERS

Mesers. Jones & Evons.—Well, gentlemen, your Hoofland's German Bitters has saved my life. There is no mistake in this. It is vouched for by numbers of my comrades, some of whose names are appended, and who were fully cognizant of all the circumstances of my case. I am, and have been for the last four years, a member of Sterman's celebrated battery, under the summediate sommand of Capt. B. As ares. Through the exposure attendant upon my arduous duties. I was attacked in November last with inflamation of the lungs, and was for seventy two days in the hospital. This was followed by great debility, heightened by an attack of dysentery. I was then removed from the White House and sent to this city on board the steamer 'State of Maine,' from which I landed on the 28th of June. Since that time I have been about as low as any one could be and still retain a spark of vitality: For a week or more I was carcely able to swallow anything, and if I did force a more lower and a telly thrown up again.

I could not even keep a glass of water on my stomasely. Life could not last under these circumstance; and, accordingly the physiciahs who had boes working fait highly, though unsuccessfully, to resour me from the grapp of the dread Arched, and they could do no more for me, and a life out the stome of the dread are best suited and a life out of the state of the successfully, to resour me from the grapp of the dread Arched, and they could do no more for me, and a life out of the successfully, to resour me from the grapp of the dread Arched, and they could do no more for me, and a life out of the dead are the successfully to resour me from the grapp of the dread Arched, and they could do no more for me, and to make the successfully to resour me from the grapp of the dread Arched, and a large and the successfully to resour me from the grapp of the dread Arched, and a large and the successfully to resource the successfu PHILADELPHIA, August 23d, 1862.

the Rebel Army,--Conversation with an Ex-Member of the Georgia Legis lature-Remarkable Bevelopment Concerning Affairs in North Care Correspondence of the Cincinnati Commercial

STEVENSON, Ala., Aug. 29. CONVERSATION WITH A CITIZEN OF GEORGIA. Two days ago it was my fortune to meet at the house of a Union citizen of Frank. lin county, Tenn., a citizen of Georgia. cannot communicate all the information received from this old man. Rich and varied as it was, it is my intention only to then to run up to the city with the gunmention such as referred to the subject in hand. I asked him if it were really true bardment from the iron clads, with what that there were many deserters from the result was not known when the steamer rebel army among the mountains of North Georgia, and told him of the reports I had heard concerning them. AUTHORITIES.

"You have not heard half the truth," said he. "There is not in all North Georgia a cave, a dense forest, or a rock of difficult access, where these men may not be found. My own county are full of The Pirate Retribution Seized in them, and so also, are White. I) weson. and Pickens, especially the latter. In the ricinity of Prince Edward and Stock Hill.

a large number of refugee conscripts and deserters are banded together. The rebel authorities made some vigorous efforts at first to break up and capture this band; but so formidable in numbers are they, and so inaccessible are the mountains among which they overtee they. among which they operate, that every at-tempt to dislodge them has proved a failure, and the rebel government now virtually leaves them to themselves. Since the retreat of Bragg from Tullahoma, their numbers have largely increased, and before I left they were in the habit of coming down boldly from the mountains in the towns, and purchasing (and in some instances taking without purchasing) what DO YOU WANT A GOOD APPETITE!
DO YOU WANT TO BUILD UP YOUR CONDO YOU WANT TO FEEL WELL!
DO YOU WANT TO GET RID OF NER YOUS

zens, but hate implacably every avowed rebel, and visit with speedy vengeance every one whom they suspect of giving information against them.

"Perhaps," said I, these men are mere freebooters, who, too cowardly to serve in the army, and too lazy to labor, have banded together for the purpose of plundering that fellow-citizens." "No," he replied, "It would be unjust to say that of them. Their mode of life is, I admit, having a bad effect upon their characters, and it may be that many of them are gradually becoming what you say. But it was not so at first. I know men amongst them who all their lives were quiet, honest, peaceful, industrions citizens, up to the day when they joined the rebel army, some of them voluntarily, others involuntarily, or received notice that they had been conscripted. Amongst the former (the deserters) are some men of abundant means who led this life merely to avoid being forced into the rebel mountains were, in a majority of cases, poor men, out all of good character, all without a blot upon their honesty, all hardworking, sober citizens." "Are these men mostly in favor of the Jnion?" I inquired. "All are now," was the answer, "because all look to the triumph of the Union arms to assure them of their safety, and restore them again to friends and home. amongst the deserters, however, are some who were bitter secessionists from the start, and were amongst the first to volun-teer in the rebel army."

"And do you think these men are sinere Unionists now?" I asked. "No," was the remarkable reply, "they ionbtless love the Union now no better

"Are they armed?" I asked.
"There is perhaps not one of them who has not a gun of some kind," said the old man; "but their weapons are of every description, from the deadly rifles which they brought with them when they left the army, down to the shot guns which they picked up on the way, or which some friends secretly furnished them." Scores of facts bearing upon this subject are in my possession, only a few of which I have time to glance at. Since our troops have been at Bridgeport the number of deserters arriving at that one point alone have averaged nearly six per day.

Not long since I heard one man of party of eleven who had deserted from a single company in a Louisiana regiment, declare that there were secret associations amongst the rebel soldiers for aiding others to desert; thatthousands in Bragg's army thought of nothing else save watching for an opportunity to escape; that the number leaving must sometimes be as high as two or three hundred in a single day, and that Raccoon and Lookout Mountains are swarming with these absentees. A Georgian who was a Vicksburg paroled prisoner, and had received a fur-lough to go home, declared that not a man paroled prisonal, in the content of the content of more than forty having deserted. The Louisianian referred to above said that of is regiment less than a hundred men re-nain. A Kentuckian stated that ever since they heard of John Morgan's capure, the men from his State were in utter espair, and only wanted a signal from heir officers to break out in open mutiny against the rebel authorities.

itself seems to be less regarded by our gunboats, probably because its efficiency has been impaired by the continual bombardment which has been kept up apon it. The plan of Gilmore seems to be to silence the most formidable batteries and that this is what Admiral Dahlgren has been sparing them for. It will thoroughbeen sparing them for. It will thoroughly test their qualities, defensive and offensive. In the attack on the rifle-pits before Wagner, by our land troops, they captured sixty odd prisoners.

New York Harbor. The pirate schooner Retribution, when last heard from was capturing our whalers in the Carribean sea, but has been herself captured in New York harbor. As the story is told, the Retribution, formerly a propeller tug boat, the Uncle Ben, at New York, but soldto parties in Wilming-

C., but was driven off by our runboats, She returned to Nassau, the English refuge of the rebel pirates, and Certificates of Indebtodness, Quarternas there changed or professed to change hands, was repainted, took on board a load of fruit, and sailed for New York, under the name of the Etta. She was 7 3-10 Bonds and Coupons, there recognized, and has been seized by the U. S. District Attorney, she being quietly stowed away out of notice at Jer sey City. Wherear, By satisfactory evidence present The Attack on Charleston.

The order of Gen. Gilmore against correspondents revealing his operations and purposes, retards in a great measure the intelligence of the progress of the siege. But though we get but little news, the work appears to be progressing from day to day. Fort Sumter is as yet unoccupied by Union troops, but it is no longer in the way of assault upon other portions of the rebel defenses, and Fort Wagner itself seems to be less regarded by our gunboats, probably because its efficiency has been impaired by the continual bom.
