A: Bragg does, it is altogether indefensible. The mountains terminate just there, and present Lumerous elevated positions, which command the place. The proba-bility, therefore, is that Rosecrans will not attempt to make a stand there, but will continue his retreat to Nashville. It will all depend, however, upon the vigor with which he is pushed by Bragg. That General will shortly receive, or possibly has received, heavy reinforce-ments, and he has bitter experience of the evils resulting from delay in this war, in which procrastination has always been the object of the enemy. We trust and be-lieve, therefore, thet divertime the start of the set o

While exulting in our success, we cannot but pause to pay a passing tribute to those brave officers who paid for our success with their lives. Of General Hood, in particular, it grieves us to record the serious nature of his wourd, although we hope it is not mortal, as one account rep-resents. He was one of the best officers resents. He was one of the pest officers and noblest spirits in the whole army, brave as the sword he wore, chivalrous as Bayard, humane as a professed philan-thropist, beloved by his brother officers, adored by his men. We fervently hope the country may not be called on to dethe country may not be called on to de-plore the loss of this noble-nearted man. There are others in the list, all of whom were a honor to the country in whose cause they fell. But we leave their names to be recorded by other pens. Of Hood we have known and heard so much that we could not do less then bestow upon him this feeble tribute.

The Hardest Blow Yet. From the Richmond Dispatch 17th, We understand that intelligence was re ceived at the War Office yesterday to the effect that Rosecrans and Burnside, after having chased our forces out of East Ten-nessee, have fallen back to secure their prize. It is the hardest blow that has been struck us since the bacimine of "THE UNION," ABCH STREET, between 3d and 4th, PHILADELPHIA been struck us since the beginning of the war. Two thirds of our nitre beds lie in that region, and a large proportion of the coal which supplies our foundries. It abounds in the necessaries of life. It is one of the
