Playing "Jeven-Up" for a Wife.

Several years ago I was traveling up the river, and came to a beautiful plantation, the owner of which, I was told, won his wite playing the game called "seven up."

The story was as follows:—

An old Boniface or tapster, who kept a small grocery or saloon, had a habit of eternally playing cards, more especially as well and the owner of playing on the game until he was hard to beat. Scarcely any man ever came into his establishment but the old man challenged him for a game.

One day a rash young farmer came in to see the old man's coly daughter, Kate, and while with her the old man game rand cannot control.
