This act is broader, both as might not be conscripted by the Federal prices is all that could be desired.

Congress to fill the armies to be raised by to age and color. The specified age, how cherwise, will be compelled to serve for the period mentioned, or find acceptable substitutes, or commute the service by the payment of $300.

By ond all controversy this is a draft, or involuntary conscription from the militial of the Convention from the militial should also be filled by coercive measures. Of the State, without any requisition upon State Executives, or upon officers in combining to the raise by the special conscription as wholl authorize of the states. This act is broader, both as might not be conscripted by the Federal Congress to fill the raise to be raised by the special date, or beause of the standard could just as well have authorize to nothing, for Congress by the payment of $300.

That a Government like that of Great Britain may resort to pascription to fill the ranks of her armies and has done so on many (coasions, is no argument or precedent for that pracceunder the Federal Constitution. in England, this is far from the ordinary mode of recruiting the army, and it will hardly be contended that the exception to the rate will establish a custom, by which to define the meaning of the words "to raise and support armies." used in our federal constitution, so that ex vi termini. conscription or draft, both involuntary modes, were thereby meant. But the precedent would go for nothing in this in this inquiry, even if the practice had been common in Eigland. The difterance between the construction of the British and Federal Constitutions is radi In the latter whatever power is not expressly granted is withheld. There is no grant of such a power to the latter, as I have endeavored to show, and no restraint upon it in the tormer, as the exercise of

This remark is equally applicable to the Constitution. Between them that same ifference in construction exists. The governmental powers of the States extend al: rightful subjects, not prohibitedand the national cilly to such as are granted. It therefore does not advance the ar gumenta step in favor of those who contend for the constitutionality of the Conscrip-tion Act, to point to instances in which drafts have been made by State autorities. Militia duty is compulsory in all the States. erable opposition has been offered to the They are not prohibited from compelling it any more than from compelling the payment of the taxes.
