THE CONDUCT OF THE WAR. In nothing is the Abolition party so in consistent and ridiculous, as it is in its demand for unanimity among the people, in regard to the measures necessary to put down the rebellion. That there should be agreement, to sustain the Government, we do not dany; but that there ought to the conduct of the Administration is a dangerous teaching. But the Abolition-ists, while demanding this passive obebe a queit, uncomplaining spirit in regard dience from their opponents, do not, by any means, practice it themselves. While arate without addressing you a few guard denouncing us for the freedom of our ed words-such as we can afford to have criticisms, they take the largest liberty of read by all whom it may concern-regard discussion themselves. In fact, their test ing the present aspect of our cause.

We are solemnly pledged to labor earn tused to issue a Proclamation of Emancipation; he declared it would be useless; cipation; he declared it would be useless; persecutors of our race in sacre and, but he did issue it, and experience proves it utterly worthless. It has freed no slaves where our arms have not penetrated: and our arms can free them without the proclamation. These were the President's convictions, but for us to advocate them convictions are convicted as a conviction of the c swered by the following extract from a speech by DAVIEL WEBSTER delivered in Congress in 1814:

Congress in 1814:

"Whon we ask, sir, for the cause of these disappointments we are told that they are owing to the opposition which the war encounters in this use and among the people. All the evils which afflict the country are imputed to opposition. This is the fastionable docrine, both here and claswhere. It is said to be owing to opposition that war became necessary, and owing to opposition that war became necessary, and owing to opposition that the hashest presecuted with no sector

This, sir, is no new strain. It has been sung a threat minest it is the constant time of every very set acknowledged that the evils which tell upon this country were the necessary consoquences of his own incapacity, his own folly or his own corruptoral. When passessor of pointed power every set failed occaracte the mischel resulting from his own measure upon these who had uniformly oposed those users upon these who had uniformly oposed those users upon the way. The people of the line of States may well remember the administration of Lord Noarm. He lost America to his country. Yet he could find precenses of throwing theedium upon his opponents. He could throw it not those who had intwarred him of the consequences from the first, and who had low and had its illegal (in the Russian eensely with all the force of truth and reason and talent. The P nnsylvania Coal Trade. On saturday the coal dealers in Phila delphia met and resolved to press upon the immediate attention of the State au thorities the argent necessity of a speedy military assistance in the mining districts. A committee were appointed to wait upor Governor Cartin, and represent to his the real condo in of affairs in the coal districts. Subsequently a committee waited upon Major General Cadwalader, who promised to send a force of soldiers into th disturbed districts.
