PROFESSIONS VS. PRACTICE - During the ate election campaign the charge was rang throughout the State that the Democratic party was opposed to the war, op posed to the soldiers voting, and even op-posed to the soldiers themselves. These charges, as often as made, were hurled back in the teeth of the foul slauderers who made them. But the election is now over, and we call upon you to show your faith by your works. There is in our mide a large number of men (many of whom we could name) who have been wound ad in defence of their country, who, are not only good schollars, can give the best of reference, or even security, if required, or the faithful performance of duty, anx ious to procure situations which they can fill. Now gentlemen, you who claim to be the friends of these men par excellence, why not seek out the wounded sol diers and give them situations suited to their capacities? Why not give the "wounded soldiers" preference over able bodied men, who can earn aliving at any thing? Look to this, you who appear to love the soldier so much. I here pear to love the soldier so much. I here Mr. Swartzwelder opened the case on be are hundreds of situations within your half of the prisoner, and stated that the

Our own experience added to that of all with whom we have conversed on the subject convinces us that just the place to purchase a cheap, neat, well made and durable boot, show or gaiter, is at McClelland's Auction Store, 55 Fifth street. And not those articles alone are sold cheap at this restablishment, but at most every article in the dry goods line are equally low and can be purchased at private sale at any time, day or evening at as moderate rates as they can be bac in the city.
