THE SHIFTS OF A TRIMMER. Notwithstanding the domestic perplex and the anxieties, which the stealthy, and It is a fact that the French naval officat-like Napoleon occasions him, to say nothing of the hypocritical conduct of Great Britain, in relation to the fitting out of rebel rams, it is remarkable to ob now clear that all the arrangements of the French on the coast were made with the in the coast were made with ual has to bestow upon the partizan manifestations of Abolitionism. The other evening that sensative aspirant made a ple of Tamaulipas "pronounced" in favor of the French, as it was intended they have York, in which of the French, as it was intended they have the dicker. The people in Browns head the whole radical pack, who have ville, as well as on the Mexican side of been after him, over since. But, true to his instincts, as a trimmer, Mr. SEWARD immediately commenced to make amends American flag. The greater part of the for his rash announcement. At Gettys people in and about Brownsville are o burg, surrounded with new made graves "reeky shanks" and dead men's "rattling bones," he could not let the occasion pass without putting himself right upon the abolition record. He, accordingly with apparent earnestness and mock grav ity in true Pack sniffian style, whined out that forty years ago, he foretold what they that day were gazing upon at Gettysburg intimating that slaver was the grea cause which produced it all. Forty years agita ion of Abolition, we would suppose, ought to be sufficient to entitle its cham pion to the chief honors arising therefrom; at Boston, the Commonwealth, declared that SEWARD's conservative course had kept back negro enlistments; no sooner did the charge appear, than we see it announ

We have not seen this late production nor the music to which it is set, so that our sonorous and delicately modulated accents, will not be able to join in the swelling chorus of ABE's plaintive and pious verses. In the absence of these, however, we can all substitute that patriotic and national anthem, beginning with the rattling lines of,
