Although not disposed to favor or recommend Patent weddines in general, through distrust of their ingrodients and effects; I yet know of no sufficient reason, why a man may not testify the benefits he he is even himself to have repetived from any simple preparation, to the hope that he may thus contribute to the benefit of hot relation may simple preparation, to the hope that he may thus contribute to the benefit of others.

I do this more readily in recard to Hoofland's distinguishment of the properties of the forman Sitters, prepared by Dr. C. M.
