The following letter from Gen. Mc-CLELLAN after the battle of Gaines' Hill, will give the reader an idea of the criminal neglect of the Administration, in failing to adopt his timely suggestions. Had he, instead of measuring the forces of the enemy, and making timely sugges tions to the Administration, demonstrating how to successfully confront them' confined himself to issuing emancipation proclamations, he would now be high in proclamations, he would now be high in the councils of his most malignant traducers. But he appears to have contemplated the man at the head of the War Department, and wrote to him accordingly; this letter of the General was peringly; the formula of the General was peringly and the formula of the Gener mitted to pass without reply from Mr. STANTON, he of course being unable to answer its reasoning or allay the indigna tion of its perplexed and afflicted

LETTER TO STANTON. On the night of the 28th I sent th following to the Secretary of War:

HEAD'QBS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, SAVAGE'S STATION, June 28, 1862-12: 20 A. M. I now know the full history of the day. O this eids of the river—the right bank—we repulsed several strong attacks. On the ieft bank our men did all that men could do, all that soldiers could accomplish; but they were overwhelmed by vastly superior numbers, even after I brought my last reserves into action. The loss on both sides is terrible. I believe it will prove to be the most terrible battle of th war. The sad remnants of my men be have as men, those battalions who fought most bravely, and suffered most, are still in the best order. The regulars were su perb, and I count upon what are left to turn another battle in company with their T (20,000) twenty thousand or even (10,000) ten thousand fresh troops to use tomorrow, I could take Richmond; but I have not a man in reserve, and shall be glad to cover my retreat and save the material and personnel of the army. If we light of His grace, and attach you to use by a perfect friendship. Given at Rome, at St. Peter's, the 3d of December, 1862, of our Pontificate 18. have lost the day, we have yet preserved our honor, and no one need blush for the our honor, and no one need blush for the Train in Iowa. battle because my force was too small. again repeat that I am not responsible for this, and I say it with the earnestness of a general who feels in his heart th needlessly sacrificed to-day. I still hope to retrieve our fortunes; but to do this the Government must view the matter in the same earnest light that I do. You must send me very large reinforcements, and send them at once. I shall drawback to this side of the Chickahominy, and I think I can withdraw all our material. have lost nothing but men, and those the lest we have. In addition to what I have already said I only wish to say to the President that I think he is wrong in regarding me as ungenerous when I said that my force was too weak— I merely intimated a truth which to day has been too plain. It could break the connection with the tender. It toined the army. If you do not do so now, the game is lost. If I save this army now, I tell you plainly that I owe no thanks to you, or to any other person in Washing You have done your best to sacrific G. B. McCLELLAN.

To Hon. E. M. STANTON.

OPPOSITION TO LINCOLN, The efforts of the peculiar, inside circle of Abolitionists, who are endeavoring to make their party believe that the country demands the re-election of President Lin COLN, do not appear to prosper, even with his own practical persuasion. The Albany correspondent of the Herald says that "leading State officers there are understood to be opposed to the nomination of Mr. Lincoln or any of his Cabinet. The St. Louis New Zeit, a German paper of influence says: "Are the Democrats then gestive thought as to the manner in which perhaps right when they assert that the February right when they assert that the Republic and the self-government of the people are coming to an end, and that endeavors are being made to enter into the thieves have their agents in all the footsteps of Louis Napoleon? In the official places. that case it would certainly be time to cut loose openly and decisively from the Republican party and its idol.'

The Davenport (Iowa) Democrat, another German paper, says on the same subject: "Now who will be our next President, FREMONT or LINCOLN? We fear LINCOLN. But, if so, then the people have the clearest proof that the office kunters and politicians rule the country, and that they are used as voting cattle instead of being the sovereigns. When will the people finally take their own matters into their own hands? When will they awake to freedom and independence and turn to follow the example. The Pope to Jeff Davis.

ILLUSTRIOUS AND HONORABLE PRESIDENT -Salutations. We have just received, with all suitable welcome, the persons sent by you to place in our hands your letter, dated 23d of September last. Not able brothers, John, Archbishop of New York, and John, Archbishop of New Orleans, dated the 18th of October of last year, and in which we have, with all our strength, excited and exhorted these venerable bothers that in their episcopal piety and solicitude they should endeavor, with the most ardent zeal, and in our name to oring about the end of the fatal civil war which has broken out in those countries in order that the American people may ob tain peace and concord, and dwell chari-tably together. It is particularly agreea-ble to us to see that you, illustrious, and honorable President and your people, are animated with the same desires of peace and tranquility which we have in our let-ters inculcated upon our venerable broth-ers. May it please God at the same time to make the other peoples of America and their rulers, reflecting seriously how terri-

The long bridge about two miles east o Batavia, on the Burlington and Muscatine railroad, was set fire to on Tuesday last, and was burning as the evening train came along. There is a sharp bend just beyond the bridge, and the engineer, Mark Staasler, had no notice of the dan ger until he turned the curve close to the bridge.

The brakes were prompily whistled Please understand that in this battle we down, but too late. As it is, the Government must not, and can not, hold mere propagable for the result. I feel too as a constant of the contract sponsible for the result. I feel too ear matter in the chasm. The passenger car, nestly to night—I have seen too many in which were five passengers and several dead and wounded comrades to feel other braksmen, alone remained in security wise, than that the Government has not sus on the east bank—a most miraculous escape, no one being injured. One horse, a passenger in one of the stock cars, was killed.

The burning was undoubtedly the work of an incendiary, as the bridge was covered with show and the weather was damp, raining, in fact. It is hardly supposable that fire could have been communicated from a passing train. Still we understand the company has knowledge of any one who could have any motive to commit so fiendish a deed.

The bridge is now rebuilt and trains are again crossing as usual. This kind of accident will be guarded against in future— Ottowa (Iowa) Courier.
