

DAILY POST

PITTSBURGH: FRIDAY, JANUARY 29, 1864.

REMEMBER THIS WEEK! NEXT WEEK! THE GREATEST BARGAINS IN THE CITY

At night the whole South is in darkness. The supply of kerosene at Augusta has been cut off...

Our opposition to this scheme the Gazette accounts for by what it terms our desire for the restoration of our "old masters"...

The one point in the Gazette's observations worthy of our attention is contained in the following paragraph:

"But will the Post tell us why any man in the South except a few officers and men should be excluded by the test oath?"

We might content ourselves by answering this silly interrogatory, by asking the Gazette what was in the Fugitive Slave Law which caused it and others to violate it?

With our own impression of matters we might, perhaps, if living South, not hesitate at taking the oath in question; but our convictions are not those of the great bulk of the Southern people...

UNION PRISONERS AT RICHMOND. The special Washington correspondent of the Chicago Times, makes some awful revelations of the sufferings of Northern soldiers in Richmond.

The Shakspearean Ter-Centenary. It appears by the late news from England that, notwithstanding all the arrangements...

OUR TERRITORIAL WEALTH.

Few persons in this section of the country interest themselves sufficiently in their exact and proper resources...

It is not necessary to say that the discovery of gold near Pike's Peak drew many disappointed prospectors...
