TUESDAY MORNING, FEB. 16, 1864. PRESIDENTS RE-ELECTING. THEMSELVES

THEMSELVES

"The are certain kinds of crime apringing from political ambitton which, through frequency of perpetration, acquire a seeming warrant. Attempted for the first time upon a virtuous community, these offenses would only arouse repulsion or excite alarm; but, spreading by degrees through a deteriorating system, they finally come to be tolerated, solely because they find no active moral hostility to contend against, one of the smost scandalous of these political crimes is the practice, grown up since the partiotic days of Jackson, of incumbents of the presidential chair intriguing grossly to re-elect themselves, and endeavoring to force, through the corrupting influence of public patronage, a constructed verdict from the country.

This extract is from an extisted in the

This extract is from an article in last week's New York Spirit of the Times, which ably protests against President LINCOLN and his office-holders entailing themselves indefinitely upon the country. The attentive reader will remember, that when the first Union League was organized in Philadelphia, Forney's Press announced that its organization was but the opening of the next Presia desire to retain themselves, in power, These are the loyal set who are constantly prating of superfluous loyalty, proval of every silly act of the Adminispowerful in such cases is a mockery.
