

PITTSBURGH: SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 12, 1861.

CHASE CROWDED OFF. The little noise created by the appearance of the POMEROV circular, favoring the nomination of Secretary Chase for the Presidency, has gradually subsided, until it is now entirely hushed. We had no idea of CHASE and his few hungry and ragged followers, being able to oust the fat, and portly gentry, who have Lincoln in training for a second term. But in times like these-when the followers of the President should be mounting barbed steeds to fright the souls of fearful adversaries"-it is astonishing to observe with what industry ' the present Administration is laboring to the President began to circumvent him. The field of operation was well chosenbeing the Secretary's own State, Ohio. Trouble in the Royal Family of Britain. existence Lincoln.
