NEW YORK DRY GOODS TRADE.

There has been some improvement in the tone of the market. The rise in the price of gold improved prices, but its fall again depressed them. However, considerable sales were effected during the broyancy of the gold. Cotton goods have been more active. Jobbers bought more freely. The stock of prints being light in both first and second hands, the improved demand created much firmness in the market. The projection is limited. Both bleached and brown shirtings and sheetings are in better request, and holders have advanced their prices. Drills are in demand for army purposes alone. Cottonales and Canton flannels are firm, but cotton jeans are lower. Stripes, ticks, and denims are dull, Glighans are in good request. Woolens of home production are dull. The few new and desirable styles of fancy cassimeres alone sell readily, and are steady in price. Delaines of good style are active, and prices without change. Satinets are dull. Fine black dockkins are wanted. Desirable styles of sackings are active, with a small stock. Trade in foreign goods is chiefly by auction. The sales last week were large and fluctuations. The rise in gold rather stimulated tougers. NEW YORK DRY GOODS TRADE.

The demand for foreign fabrics, notwithstanding the high prices, is very great, and is increased.
