Three notable things affecting the Vestrymen in St. Peter's Episcopal Church in thisetty, who are opposed to the introduction of party politics into the sanctuary. The minority of the Vestry who refused to censure Mr. Van Drugen for declining to denounce a politicoreligious paper which he had not seen—who refused to "oppose the usefulness" of a christian Bishop,—who firmly resisted the desectation of the pulpit and the altar,—this honorable minority are now of the majority in the vestry of St. Peter's; and Mr. Van Drugen will doubtless be continued as the Christian minister of that church, and will not be compelled to surrenderhis charge to a mere preacher of politics. All honor to the vestrymen who knew their duty, and to the congregation who sustained them in the doing of it.
