"But," it adds, "to induce men of proper qualifications to engage in this service the country must offer them the chances of a career, and of promotion for merit." In other words they must be offered a life-estate of the public offices and a strong pulls at the n the public offices, and a strong pull at the public crib. The following paragraph will ex-plain the drift of its argument: plain the drift of its argument:

"At present we have no regularly constituted gublic service—no body of men who enter the Government offices with the intention of making their career there. There is no reward of merit except political merit; men do not hold place because they are capable, but because they are politicians; and with every change of administration, several thousand clerks who are just beginning to know their duties and to carry on Government business intelligently, are displaced by a similar number of raw men who know nothing at all of their duties."

New York Cattle Market.

BULLS Head.—The market opened this morning with 3,200 cattle in the yards, most of them of good quality. It will be remembered that the supply was light last week, and we then remarked that speculators laid their plans for a further rise. They were entirely successful; and, after putting up the rates *@1c *Bt. very complacently told the butchers the "dattle were cheap" and that "really they couldn't afford to take less," etc., when their only real fears were that they were saking so much the butchers could not afford to pay for them in anything but promises.

Scarcely anything, however poor, could be had for less than 14c., and good fair retailing steers, such as shop butchers usually buy, were held stiff at 16  2016.c., while selected animals from the best droves were weighed out at an agreed shrinkage for 17c. per m. We have no doubt but that some of the cattle bought by the head were more than that, as sellers called them more than their just weight. The weather was unfavorable, and the yards muddy, but neither the ratin or the filthy yards prevented a brisk trade, and few cattle were left unsold at night. The injult receipts expected to-morrow will hardly affect the market, and the present may go on record as the highest of all the high markets. About 294 cattle were sold at Bergen during the week, and 134 were disposed of here on Friday and Saturday. The sheep market sympathizes with the cattle trade. A few lots arriving go off quickly at 10c., and if fat, at 10c/2019.5. $\epsilon$ b. Hogs also are higher, with an improved demand.
